Twenty-six Bodies of Victims Are Recovered Shortly After Noon from the Debris

FOUR CARS GO INTO BRUSH CREEK

Chair Car and Smoker Are Overturned Into Flooded Waters and Submerged

THE IDENTIFICATION TO BE HARD

Many of the Dead Had Removed Outer Garments and Bodies Are Not Known

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 15.—At least twenty-six, possibly forty-five, are dead, the result of a railway wreck, when a Frisco passenger train bound from St. Louis to Texas points, was derailed a short distance from Lebanon, Mo., early today.

Twenty-six bodies of victims of the wreck had been recovered at 12:30 p. m., according to official information given out at the Frisco headquarters here. Identification will be difficult because many had removed their outer garments. Thirteen injured are being cared for temporarily at Lebanon but will be sent to Springfield.

Four Cars Go Over
Two mail cars went over the embankment with the smoker and the chair car. They are partly submerged, lying on the track.
At noon the subsiding waters had enabled the rescuers to enter the chair car. The smoker overturned, and its trucks were emerging from the water.

The twenty-six bodies recovered are at undertaking establishments at Lebanon.

May be 45 Dead
Unofficial estimates of the loss of life run as high as forty-five. The fatalities occurred when the Texas limited of the Frisco lines, St. Louis to Galveston, was derailed by a washout near Lebanon, Mo., early today and at least two coaches were submerged in the flooded water on Brush creek.

Rescue trains are hurrying to the scene of the wreck, 180 miles southwest of St. Louis and near Springfield, Mo. Because telegraph wires to Lebanon are down, Frisco officials here have received only meager details of the disaster.

The Known Dead
The bodies identified are:
Henry Wagner, St. Louis.
Mrs. Elizabeth Hostetter, Alliance, Ohio.
W. H. Childers, Billings, Mo.
John Meyers, wife and daughter, Thayer, Mo.
Fireman Stockstill, Springfield, Mo.

At the Frisco offices here Receiver Nixon declared the wreck was due to a flood of waters that cut a gully twelve feet deep and fifty feet long beneath the tracks near Lebanon. The limited train, which left here at 8:32 last night, plunged into this gully.

Engine in Creek
The big engine, in charge of Engineer O'Brien and Fireman Stockstill, toppled over into the water, carrying with it the two mail cars, the combination smoker and baggage car and a chair car, immediately following. Three Pullman sleeping cars and a diner on the rear of the train remained on the rails.

Occupants of the chair car and smoker and employees in the baggage car found themselves trapped like rats. Best accounts say there were sixty-eight persons in the chair car, many of whom were submerged, but many of these are known to have saved their lives by swimming to high ground. The engine crew jumped as the locomotive took the plunge. Engineer O'Brien escaped, but Fireman Stockstill is reported drowned.

Most of the dead, it is said, were occupants of the chair car.

At noon, only eighteen of the sixty-eight passengers reported to have been in the chair car had been accounted for, according to dispatches from Springfield.

The wreck occurred at 2:35 a. m. A relief train was ordered out from Springfield, but made slow progress on account of numerous washouts caused by recent heavy rains.

The chair car near the front of the train was completely submerged, according to the telephoned messages from Lebanon. Those who escaped were proficient swimmers or persons who were tossed upon the banks by the swirling current. All the survivors were compelled to smash windows of the car before they escaped from the interior. The Pullman cars, on the rear of the train, remained on the rails. The engine crew, who saw the danger, only a few seconds before the train was reached, had no chance to leap and were carried down with the engine. The engineer escaped by swimming, but the fireman, pinned in the cab, is reported killed.

Philipp People Anxious to Promote Harmony to Insure Election of Entire State Ticket This Fall

The representatives of the Seventh Congressional district of which La Crosse is a member, presented the names of James A. Stone, Reedsburg, and George E. Copper, Black River Falls, for members of the state central committee.

Stone received 118 votes and Copper 11. A motion was made to make the nomination of Mr. Stone unanimous. Karl Kurtenacker, assemblyman-elect, registered a protest and presented the name of George H. Gordon of La Crosse, maintaining that Stone was a progressive and the interests of Mr. Philipp could be best represented by Gordon. George Dithmar, Baraboo, maintained the district had gone unanimously for Stone but admitted that the objection of Kurtenacker should be recorded by the convention. The matter was put over until Wednesday.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 15.—The republican platform convention met at 12:30 o'clock today, named William Bray of Oshkosh permanent chairman, and Senator Stark of Milwaukee permanent secretary, and then adjourned until later in the afternoon, while the congressional districts caucused on members of the resolutions committee.

The social democratic party held a perfunctory meeting. Edward Ziegler, chairman of the state central committee, was named chairman of the convention and Ferd Rehfeld, was elected secretary. The previously adopted platform was approved and the convention adjourned.

The democratic platform convention convened at 12:30 o'clock in the senate chamber and elected Carl Hanson, Manitowoc, permanent chairman.

A. J. Hedding, Milwaukee, was elected secretary of the convention. It then adjourned until 2:30 o'clock in order to allow the congressional districts to caucus on members of the resolutions committee, which will draft the platform.

Albert Taynton was named temporary chairman and H. S. Sigelko temporary secretary of the state exhibition platform committee. The June platform, with minor changes, will be adopted.

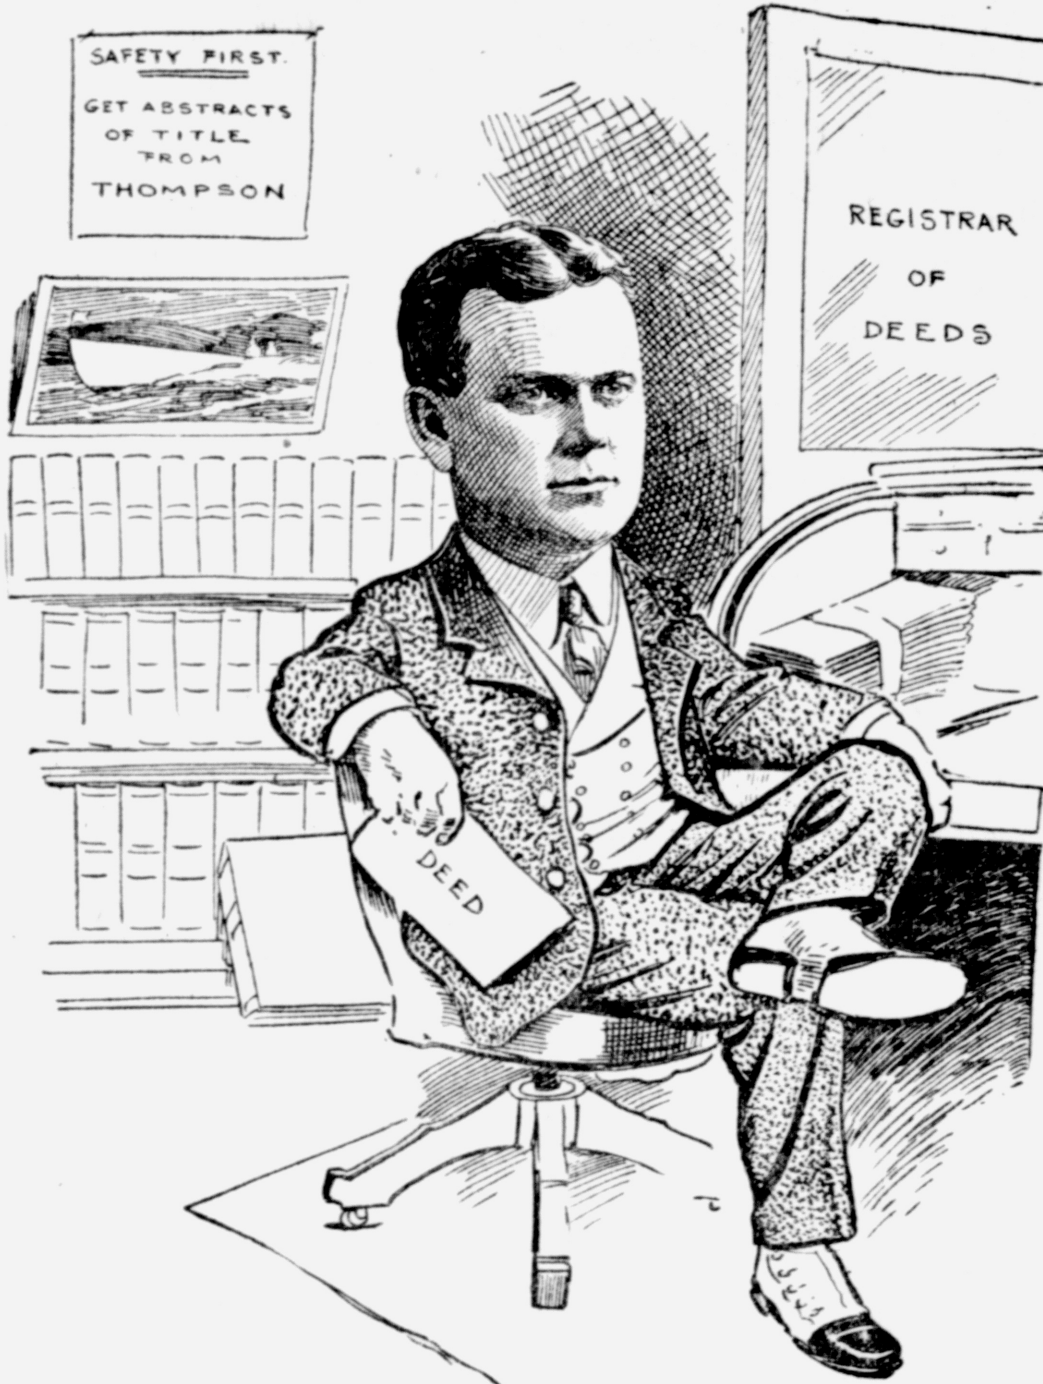

"Bob" Men to Fight
The leading La Follette men will make their main fight for platform planks that clearly distinguish their principles from the conservative republicans. The Philipp convention, which met at Madison some months ago, declared against the constitutional amendments now pending before the people. It is said here that Senators George E. Scott and Otto Bosshard will carry the fight to the convention for an adoption of the amendment declaring for the initiative and referendum. While every attempt is being made here today to harmonize forces so that all can agree on the platform, the amendments seem to be the stumbling block. Their rejection by the convention, it is threatened, may lead to an independent movement. The Philipp followers are firm. They believe that they have their candidate nominated on the Madison convention platform and that they should not be called upon to shift at the present time.

For County Option
During the afternoon yesterday T. C. Richmond, leader of the Home Rule league, was in long conference with Mr. Philipp and it was declared last night that the platform will endorse many of the ideas advocated by the Home Rule league. Assemblyman A. E. Froedrick, the "fighting parson" of Monroe county, declares that he will offer from the floor of the convention a resolution declaring for county option and a stricter regulation of the saloon. He may also offer a resolution commending the work of the recent vice investigation in the state and asking for legislation for the creation of a permanent vice commission.

So far as can be learned here today the democratic party is willing to adopt a platform that embodies many of the progressive ideas championed by Joseph E. Davies, national committee man, will present his resignation to the democratic convention this afternoon.

The government is without confirmation of this report, and it is believed possible it may have been confused with the capture by the British of the German submarine U-9.

CZAR DETERMINED TO RIDE WITH HIS TROOPS INTO THE CAPITAL OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE

Report of Capture of German General Von Kluck Is Not Confirmed

CROWN PRINCE DRIVEN BACK

Heavy Rains Add to Difficulty of German Attempt to Reform Lines

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The German troops have now reached their line of defense, prepared by their sappers following their complete defeat in the battle of the Marne. As a result their retrograde movement has been halted and they are reforming under cover of their entrenched rear guard. The Germans are outnumbered by the allies and officials here do not believe they will attempt more than a momentary stand, during which they will withdraw their heavy siege artillery and refill their regiments, which have been greatly depleted by the last fortnight's fighting.

BY ED. L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 15.—The official war bureau announcement this afternoon declared that the success of the allies continued. All of the official reports from the theater of action agree that the Germans are still retreating, hotly pursued by the French and British forces and that thousands of prisoners are being taken.

Report Von Kluck Taken
One report, absolutely unconfirmed from any official quarter, came from the Dieppe correspondent of the Central News. He wired that the British forces, in executing a circling movement through Rove on the Arve at Ham, near the river Somme, were joined by fresh forces from the Boulogne district and managed to cut off the army of General Von Kluck, compelling the surrender of the general and from 15,000 to 25,000 of his troops with all of their equipment.

The government is without confirmation of this report, and it is believed possible it may have been confused with the capture by the British of the German submarine U-9.

TO BEND EVERY EFFORT TO THE FALL OF BERLIN

RULER REPORTED BITTER IN HATE

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—That the proposed invasion of Hungary by a strong Russian body has been definitely abandoned was intimated here today. It is realized by the Russian general staff that the German resistance will be very strong and it has been definitely decided that the entire Russian field army, first and second line troops, will be retained for the capture of Berlin.

Bitterly Hates Kaiser
The czar is determined that Berlin shall be taken, if it costs the Russian empire its entire fighting strength. His former friendship for the kaiser has been replaced by an enmity which court officials say is the most bitter the czar has ever indicated against anyone. He is determined he will ride into Berlin at the head of his troops.

Because of this it is officially stated there will be no side trips. The crown land of Bukovina was taken, and the passes through the Carpathians have been held purely as defensive measures. The Russians intend to utilize part of Austria for the passage of their troops toward Berlin but it is unlikely that any real attempt will be made to invade Hungary proper.

Austria Nearly Done
There is a growing feeling here that Austria will soon admit her inability further to continue the war. The fact that her main army has been crushed and its capture is considered a strong possibility, means she will soon be no longer a factor in the war. And Russia will be inclined to be more lenient with Austria than with Germany, officials declare.

It is stated that the great mass of the Austrians who escaped slaughter in the fighting that has been in progress in eastern Galicia from the

Berlin War Office Says Outcome Is in Doubt and Allies Are Being Held

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 15.—Advices received here from Berlin indicate that there is deep gloom everywhere throughout Germany. The government is making public only some of the losses, and the newspapers are carrying only a small percentage of even the official lists. There is declared to be grave discontent because the government has failed to make any provision for the unemployed. Business generally is at a standstill and the leading socialist newspapers are complaining because the government is employing prisoners on road work instead of hiring German unemployed.

Some of the reports received from interior Germany say that already there are whispers of an uprising by the socialists, who feel that the country has been deceived by the kaiser. These reports, however, are extremely vague and impossible of verification.

Claim Result in Doubt
BERLIN, Via The Hague, Sept. 15.—The only statement dealing with the general war situation in the west, obtainable at the war office today, declared that the general fighting still continues with no decisive result. The efforts of the French to break through the German lines and isolate some of the armies have failed, it is announced. No details of the general fighting at any point, are obtainable.

It is announced that in East Prussia the German advance continues and the Russians have now been driven back at points across their frontier. The German forces have taken many prisoners and numerous cannons. The additional lists of casualties as published contain no new names of high officers killed.

LEAVE CHILD ON BURKHART PORCH

Pair Captured Confess They Abandoned Child to Escape Tongues of Village Gossips

A story of self sacrifice on the part of a 19 year old boy, to protect the honor of a school day sweetheart, was revealed to Police Chief John B. Webber this morning when he quizzed a young couple who had confessed abandoning a five weeks' old baby on the porch of the residence of Julius Burkhardt, 1043 Main street, at 3:45 o'clock this morning.

To protect the accidental mother, and the youth who gambled his chances of future happiness to protect a woman's honor, the police and the newspapers have agreed to suppress names and addresses.

"Alice" fell in love with "Clarence," a young man who had visited in her home town in Iowa. "John" had been her sweetheart, but retired in favor of his "first love's" choice. Alice discovered that she was about to become a mother. The "dashing young man" left the country.

In desperation she appealed to her "old love."

With a complete knowledge of the facts John married Alice.

To avoid the malicious tongues of the village gossips they left town. The child was born in a hospital near La Crosse.

Knowing full well the lack of sympathy accorded the woman who has erred, they feared to take the baby home.

They decided to pick out a place where the child was likely to be received and cared for.

The home of Julius Burkhardt— noted for his love for children— was chosen. Their arrest followed.

The mother, in a cell at central police station today, is heart broken. Mother love has triumphed over fear of disgrace.

She wants her child.
"We'll go home and brave it all," said John.

"What would you do in a case like that?" Chief Webber queried of newspapermen. "Shall we prosecute and print their names or shall we let them go?"

The couple will leave for Iowa tonight, convinced of their responsibility for the precious young life and steeled to face the whisperings of a gossip-hungry crowd.

NORMAL STUDENTS NUMBER OVER 500

Largest Enrollment in History of School Marks the Opening of Seventh Year This Morning

With an enrollment at 3 o'clock this afternoon estimated at more than 500, the La Crosse state normal school opened its seventh year this morning. Enrollment began at 7:30, and up to 3 o'clock this afternoon a steady stream of names poured in, many students arriving on morning trains not reporting until later in the day.

After enrollment the students visited their class room and arranged programs. First recitations began at 4 o'clock today, when the students received their books and assignments. Work will begin in earnest tomorrow.

Students are in attendance this year from Indiana, Virginia, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois as well as Wisconsin. Every district about this section of the state is represented, and there is a large contingent from the La Crosse high school. Outside of La Crosse, Viroqua has the largest number of representatives from any single city. There are twelve from Viroqua enrolled.

REACH FORTIFIED POSITIONS NORTH OF RIVER AISNE

New Battle Is Expected to Begin Shortly as German Rear-guard Resistance Is Increasing

Entire Regiments Are Reported Cut Off and Taken by Rapid Advance

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The official bulletin, issued from the war office at Bordeaux at 3 o'clock this afternoon shows that the German retreat has been checked, and that they are now putting up a strong rear guard resistance. The report indicates a new line of battle, and is as follows: "The Germans on Monday began to resist the French advance on a line they have established north of the River Aisne and on a line through the forests of La Aogle and Craonne, (midway between Laon and Rheims), and at the center to the north of the Rheims and Chalons."

This is the first admission from the war office since the German turning movement began that the German forces are returning to the attack. It is believed that they have now reached the entrenched positions previously prepared by the sappers, and that another battle will soon be commenced.

Take Many Prisoners

Meanwhile, the allies have taken many prisoners. Entire regiments are reported to have been cut off from the main retreating columns and captured. So swift has been the pursuit of the British-French forces on the left that at some points the pursuing column, rushing along parallel roads, have been able to reach cross roads ahead of the Germans and cut them off and compel their surrender. The total number of prisoners has not yet been reported to headquarters.

Wanted Verdun
The Germans have been endeavoring to smother the Verdun forts, as with that strong point in their many hands, they would control the main line of railway east and west and would be able to greatly relieve the pressure at various points to the west. It is officially stated, however, that the efforts of the crown prince's army are now being forced toward Stenay and Luxembourg.

It is declared here that important developments may be expected from Belgium in the near future.

The Germans are withdrawing all of their forces from the west and the evacuation of Brussels is expected in the near future.

Continued successes are reported from Lorraine, where the French are reported to be advancing on Saareburg.

BETTER THAN CAMPAIGNING

One of the remarkable things about the administration of Woodrow Wilson is the amount of time and hard work he has given to his office. Other men have made trips about the country for this and that very often useful purpose. President Wilson has found, even when he really wanted to go among the people and talk to them of their interest, that their greater interest needed him at Washington. He expresses this in a letter to the chairman of the democratic congressional committee who had hoped that Mr. Wilson could make some campaign speeches, saying:

"My job, I now know, can be done best only if I devote my whole thought and attention to it and think of nothing but the duties of the hour. I am not at liberty, and shall not be, so far as I can now see, to turn away from those duties to undertake any kind of political canvass."

Here, then, is a man who has found that the greatest job in the world requires for its faithful and successful performance the same thing that has made other men succeed in other jobs, sticking faithfully to work. It is nothing other than the principle born in the early history of the country of New England consciences and New England thrift. It is the rule laid down for the ambitious office boy and acknowledged by the successful captain of industry. It is a common, everyday thing, this matter of sticking to your work. It is something everyone can understand. And we suspect that is one of the reasons why the people have believed so greatly in Woodrow Wilson. They have seen him hard at work, believing that he had been sent to Washington to work and keeping faith with that belief.

It is reassuring to know we have a president of that kind. It is a hopeful thing to find a president setting an example of that kind in the life of today. Whatever great qualities of mind he has, he finds that the only way he can get his work done is by sticking to it. The country won't go far wrong if every man makes that discovery concerning his own task.—Milwaukee Journal.

WE SHOULD BUY OUR OWN BONDS

One of the things that has worried the big financial powers of the United States since the war began, and which has kept the foreign exchange market as nervous as a colt, has been the fact that New York City has falling due between now and January 1 upwards of $100,000,000 in bonds, practically all of which are held on the other side of the water.

No matter how good these bonds look to the foreign investor in time of peace, the fact that they are due and payable in gold makes any thought of renewing them in the hands of foreign holders impossible.

How shall that $100,000,000 be paid? Even Uncle Sam's big gold reserve would be sadly dented by shipping out any such amount of gold coin and bullion. The withdrawal of such a huge sum would work great hardship to American laboring men, business men, manufacturers and bankers.

Some of the smartest men in the world have worried about this problem a whole lot in the last 30 days, and now the farmer of the west has given the answer.

The average daily wheat shipments from New York for all the ports of Europe are running somewhere around a million and a half bushels—rather over than under that amount—so that each day Europe is owing the farmer of the wheat belt from a million and one-half to two million dollars, and pretty soon corn and oats will be ready to start across the pond to the tune of another million dollars a day.

To pay the American farmers for their grain and the American railroads for hauling it, Europe will now have to give bills of exchange which will call for gold or its equivalent. It has been arranged that New York banks will authorize the clearing of these bills of exchange against drafts from Europe on account of the maturing New York City bonds. Before the first of January the transaction will have been completed. The equilibrium of gold will have been restored and no gold will have moved either way.

Europe will give up its bonds and take bread; the farmers will give up their grain and the railroads will haul it and both will take their pay in checks of big New York banks—New York exchange, which will go into the channels of finance as so much cash. New York City will still be in debt, but it will refund its matured bonds and turn them over to the banks which have engineered the trade between the European investor and the American farmer.

Thus a factor which has seriously threatened the financial equilibrium of several nations is disposed of. The danger has been very great, and while we have not felt it, it has threatened every citizen of the United States. How much better it would have been had New York's debt, instead of being held by Europe, been held by her own citizens, as the citizens of St. Paul are slowly but surely becoming the holders of their own city debt. Also what a dangerous thing and how full of dynamite is a debt of $100,000,000.—Madison State Journal.

As Brick Willock told of Payne's other attempts to colonize the Oklahoma country, of his arrests, of his attempts to bring his various cases to the trial, she felt that Willock was, in a way, dealing with her personal history, for had she not been named Lahoma in honor of that country which her stepfather had seen only to lose? Time and again the colonists swarmed over the border, finding their way through Indian villages and along desolate trails to land that belonged to the public, but was enjoyed only by the great cattlemen; as many times, they were driven from their newly-claimed homes by federal troops, not without severity, and their leaders were imprisoned.

But, at last, April the twenty-second, 1889, had been appointed as the day on which the Oklahoma country was to be opened up to settlement, and it was to meet this event that Wilfred Compton had left Greer County. He was a unit in that immense throng that waited impatiently for the hour of noon—a countless host, stretching along the north on the boundary of the Cherokee Strip, on the south, at the edge of the Cherokee Nation; on the east, along the Kickapoo and Pottawatomie reservations; and on the west, blackening the extremity of the Cheyenne and Arapaho countries. He was one of these who, at the discharge of the carbines of the patrolling cavalrymen, joined in the deafening shout raised by men of all conditions and from almost every state in the Union—a shout as of triumph over the fulfillment of a ten-year's dream. And, leaning forward on his pony, he was one of the army of conquest that burst upon the desert, on foot, on horseback, and in vehicles of every description, in the mad rush for homes in a land that had never known the incense of the hearth or the civilizing touch of the plow.

At noon, a wilderness, at night, a land of tents, and on the morrow, a settled country of furrowed fields. "Pioneer work is awful quick, nowadays!" grumbled Bill Atkins, as Brick concluded. "It wasn't so in my time. Up there in the Oklahoma country, fifty years have been squeezed into a week's time—it's like a magician making a seed grow and sprout and blossom right before the audience. Lucky I came to Greer County, Texas—I don't guess I'll ever be anything but sand and a blow."

"It's a great story," Brick declared, with enthusiasm. "I reckon it's the greatest story that America can put out, in the pioneering line. There they had everything in twenty-four hours that used to wear out our ancestors; Injuns, unbroken land, no sign of life for hundreds of miles—and just a turn of the hand and cities is a-coming up out of the ground, and saloons and churches is rubbing shoulders, and there's talk of getting out newspapers. What do you think of it, honey?"

Lahoma was sitting in grave silence, her hands clasped in her lap. She turned slowly and looked at Willock. "Brick, I'm disappointed."

"Which?" asked Willock, somewhat taken aback. "Where?"

"In him—in Wilfred."

"As how so?"

"Going into that wilderness—life, instead of taking his place in the world!"

"Well, honey, if he hadn't come to this wilderness, you'd never have saw him."

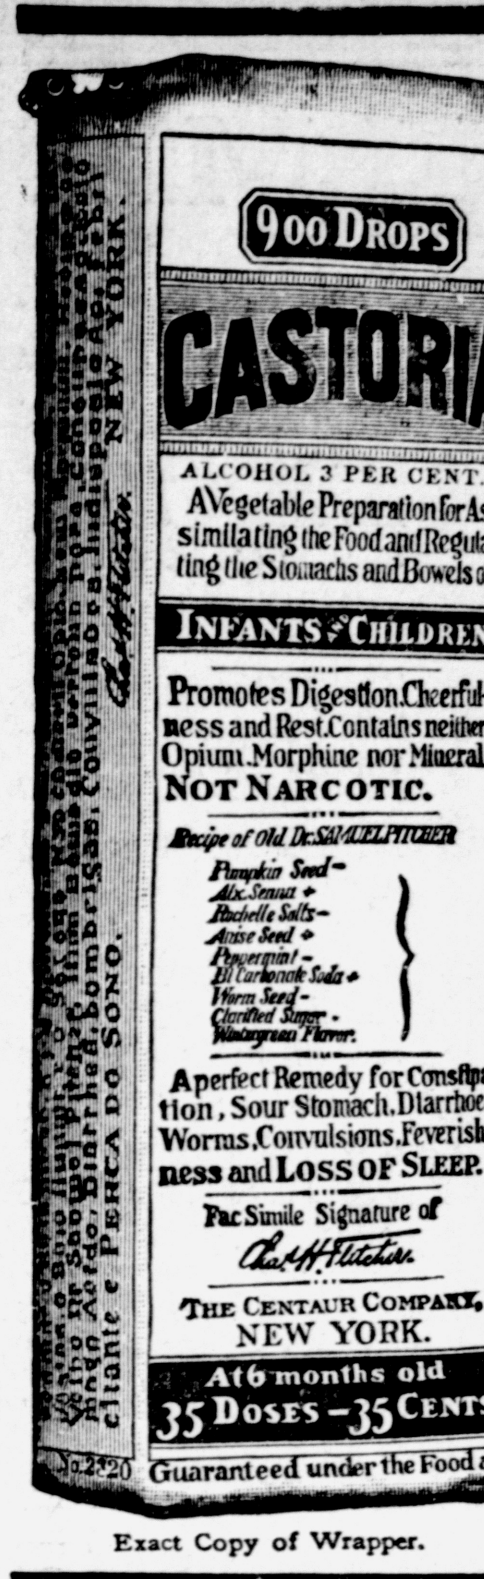

"Yes—but he wasn't settled, and now he's settled in it. Is that the way to be a man? There's all those other people to do the thing he's doing. Then what's the use of him?"

"Ain't we in the same box?"

"Yes, and that's why I mean to get out of it, some day. But it's different with him. He's chosen his box, and gone in, and shut the lid on himself! I'm disappointed in him. I've been thinking him a real man. I guess I'm still to see what I'm looking for," added Lahoma, shaking her head.

"We'll let it go at that," muttered Bill who was anxious to turn Lahoma's mind from thoughts of Wilfred. "We'll just go ahead and look for new prospects."

"Not till I make a remark," said Willock, laying aside his pipe.

"Honey, do you know what I mean by a vision? It calls for a big vision to take in a big person, and you ain't got it. Maybe it wasn't meant for women, or at least a girl of fifteen to see further than her own foot-prints, so no blame laid and nobody judged, according. If you don't see nothing in that army of settlers going into a raw land and falling to work to make it bloom like the rose, a-setting out to live in solitude for years that in due time the world may be richer by a great territory, why, you ain't got a big vision. I've got it, for I was born in the West, and I've lived all my life, peaceable and calm, right out here or hereabouts. You've got to see towns rise out of the turf over night and bust into cities before the harvest-fields is ripe, to know what can be did when men is free, not hampered by set-and-bound rules as holds 'em down to the ways of their fathers. Back East, folks is straining themselves to make over, and improve, and polish up what they found ready-to-hand—but here out West, we creates. It takes a big vision to see the bigness of the West, and you can't get no true idee by squinting at the subject."

Lahoma did not reply, and Bill feared that under the conviction of her friend's eloquence, she had begun to idealize the efforts of Wilfred Compton he need not have been afraid. To her imagination, "big people" were not living in dug-outs, or tents, far from civilization;

"big people" were going to the opera every night, and riding in splendid carriages along imposing boulevards every day. Brick and Bill had contrived to live as well as they desired from profits on skins obtained in the mountains; and the small tract of ground they had cultivated in a desultory manner had done little beyond supplying themselves with vegetables and the horses with some extra feed. She had no great opinion of agriculture; and though she had taken part in planting and hoeing with a pleasurable zest, she had never entertained herself with the thought that she was engaged in a great work. As to dugouts, they had no place in her dreams of the future. Since Wilfred had chosen to handicap himself with the same limitations that bound her, even the thought of him was to be banished from her world, banished absolutely.

Her day-dreams did not cease, but became more dreamy, more natural, since the hero of her fancies, for whom she now had no flesh-and-blood prototype, was suggested only by her moods and her books. As the sun-clear days of maidenhood melted imperceptibly into summer glow and winter spaces, the memory of Wilfred's face and voice sometimes surprised her at unexpected turns of solitary musings. But the face grew less defined, the voice lost its distinctive tone, as the years passed unintercepted by.

SEEK TO PROTECT TREASURES OF ART

Residents of Paris Take Precautionary Measures with Venus de Milo and Other Valuables

PARIS, By Mail to New York, Sept. 12.—Unique among the protective and defensive measures which Paris has adopted are those by which the city hopes to save some of her most famous art treasures. The Louvre has been completely done over.

Great steel plates have been fixed about the ceilings and walls of a room which now shelters the famous Venus de Milo, the Winged Victory, and La Gioconda. Parisians fear only aeroplane bombs, so the main protection is on the roofs of those buildings which hold art objects. The famous Grecian room, containing priceless statues by Phidias, is filled with sacks of earth.

On the upper floors of the Louvre, a Red Cross station has been established granting the privilege of the Red Cross from attack.

Art treasures in other buildings and galleries have been buried in many parts of the city.

Nearly five hundred dollars in bills, checks and notes was stolen. No trace of the pickpocket was ever found.

FISHERMEN ARE CAUGHT IN RAIN

Fredericks, Henry May, engineer at the La Crosse Knitting Works, Frank Bishofsky, of the Gross bicycle shop, Frank Weigel, head of the men's furnishing department of the Park Store, and Dr. F. H. Aiken spent the day about a camp fire on Dutch Creek. The men left La Crosse early in the morning in a launch. They left the launch in shelter and walked two miles to their fishing grounds and were caught in the downpour which lasted all day.

CUPID UNDAUNTED BY EUGENIC LAW

Marriage Licenses More Numerous Than During Same Month of Last Year

That the eugenic marriage law did not affect the work of the little God of love in La Crosse county during August is seen by the fact that in August, 1913, marriage certificates issued were two less.

The visit of the stork in La Crosse county during August were more frequent than those of the "Grim Reaper."

Cupid lured twenty couples to the altar of love during the month. Mr. Stork made eighty-eight trips.

Deaths numbering fifty-nine were reported. This is nine more than the corresponding month of 1913. There were eighty-three births last year during August.

CARE FOR BABIES AT COMING FAIR

City Health Department to Conduct Free Welfare Station at the Grounds

An important and unusual feature of the Interstate fair this year will be the La Crosse Health Department Infant Welfare station. Similar stations have been established in all large cities during occasions of a like nature, and the results have always more than justified the expense.

Mothers with small children need not stay at home. All babies will be taken care of at the fair grounds during the week. A large tent, with competent nurses in attendance has been provided, where babies will be given expert care and trained attention.

Milk and modified diets will be provided by the health department. Those who have special diets for their babies are requested to bring their recipes with them, and the food will be prepared by the health department.

This service will be absolutely free to all, no expense for food or service being made. There is no doubt but that this feature will be one of the most attractive features of the fair, and the fair association are congratulating themselves that they have the co-operation of the health department in so important a matter.

MONSTER MALLET PULLS 3,500 TONS

Another monster Mallet, one of the corps of such locomotives owned by the Milwaukee road, passed through the city today hauling an extra for the Hastings and Dakota division out of Farmington, Minn. The mogul carried 120 cars and the caboose, a total aggregate tonnage of approximately 3,500 tons. Engineer Henry Sagen of Minneapolis and Conductor John Black of Farmington were in charge of the train. The engine came light from Milwaukee yesterday, where it was taken some time ago for repairs. It is being taken back for work in the mountains, where several Mallets are used for pushers.

"THE SEA WOLF" IN THE MOVIES

The Bijou will show the biggest photograph in its history this week.

With the limited seating capacity the management feels they are assuming a large responsibility in presenting the production of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." London's book of the same name is one of the most fascinating works before the public, and the motion picture follower may expect big things in its production in motion pictures.

Jack London in person assisted in the production of the picture. The picture is in seven reels, requiring two hours to run through. Hobart Bosworth, the man who stars in most of London's pictures, takes the roll of the "Wolf."

The Bijou's well known blind organist, Walter Goetzinger, has arranged special music for the massive production, which will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

MRS. C. L. COLMAN BADLY INJURED

KING GEORGE'S DAUGHTER IS TIRELESS WORKER FOR WAR FUND AND RED CROSS

Like so many other English women, Princess Mary, daughter of King George, is doing her share toward helping Great Britain win the present war. She has been very active, not only in the work of the Red Cross, but in the interests of the Prince of Wales war fund. She wanted to join the nurses on the battlefield, but her papa, the king, thought this would be unwise.

The princess is not yet sixteen. She is developing into an exceedingly strong, healthy and vigorous young girl, full of the joy of life. In peace times it was difficult for her to find a vent for her surplus energy. But in these strenuous days of war she manages to keep very busy, and is doing well the things that princesses are supposed to do.

RIVER VICTIMS HERE PENILESS

John Moran and Family of Seven Stranded in City when They Lose Household Goods in River

Poor Commissioner Sol Burdick is today trying to locate relatives of John Moran, said to live in Boscobel, Wis.

Moran, his wife and six small children are penniless in La Crosse, after an accident the fore part of last week in which all their household goods were lost in the Mississippi.

The family told Burdick that they placed everything they had in the world on a flat boat and were making for a point on the lower river from a point above La Crosse.

Moran had injured his right hand and could not labor, and the family took the river as a means of moving their belongings to a place which they intended to make their home.

As the launch towing the flatboat passed underneath the Mississippi wagon bridge here, a wave struck the boat, turned it over and sent the goods to the bottom of the river.

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

(BY J. W. T. MASON)
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—11 A. M.—Yesterday's figure six representing the battle line of the retreating Germans has become narrowed at the bowl and the hook about Verdun is loosening. The stem of the six, which yesterday was drawn very much to the left, is now assuming a more perpendicular position.

If the allies can bend the six into a wholly erect figure the Germans will be in the position they occupied originally just as the allied lines about Namur and in the Ardennes gave way and the retreat on Paris began.

At La Fere-Laon Line
The Germans apparently are attempting to reorganize their forces, to prevent the straightening of the six on the hills to the northeast of the fortified line of La Fere-Laon-Rheims, now uniquely famous for its danger to a defensive army. The Aisne river at Rethel and the Vouziers is the key to this position, for its guards the roads of retreat to Luxembourg and the Ardennes. If the allies can pierce the line at this point, the German center's communications will be snapped and the center will be thrown in confusion on the already harassed right.

Must Use Ardennes
The Ardennes, with its hills, forests and numerous streams, is of the utmost value to the Germans as a safe line of retreat. If the allies can block the retreat there, nothing except Napoleonic genius can prevent a stupendous German disaster. For this reason, German resistance along the Aisne cannot afford to take chances that were legitimate for the allies in the battle of the Marne.

Paris on one side and the frontier fortification line of Epinal-Belfort on the other, were ready as strong pivoting points if the Germans had broken the Marne line. But none such exists for the Germans along the Aisne. Therefore the invaders cannot wait long on indecisive results. If their line goes, and the Ardennes roads are blocked, annihilation becomes imminent. For this reason, the battle of the Aisne, if such a battle there be, probably will not compare with the Marne in duration and intensity.

Russian Policy Wise
The announcement of Gen. Sukhomlinoff, Russian war minister, that there will be no change in Russia's chief objective of reaching Berlin as soon as possible, has great importance. It has been pointed out in this column that any effort to prolong operations in Austro-Hungary beyond the strategic requirements of the march to Berlin, would only prolong the war.

There has been evidence that, carried away by the Galician victories and not relishing the quality of German resistance in East Prussia, the Russians have been fascinated by the temptation of comparatively easy marches on Vienna and Budapest. Gen. Sukhomlinoff's announcement shows that wiser opinions have prevailed.

ZEPPELINS HELPED IN SIEGE

Says Air Craft Were Great Help During Bombardment with Their Aerial Bombs

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BERLIN, August 30, by Courier to Rotterdam and By Way of Steamer Potsdam to New York, to avoid British Censor.—German troops are being transferred from the west to meet the Russian hordes on the east. I arrived here tonight by train, on which were some of the soldiers and wounded from Liege and Namur. I left The Hague last night and there being no train connection at Benthelm, on the border, I walked into the country where in a little lodging house under the shadow of the 12th century castle of the Prince of Benthelm I found Consul General Lay and Mrs. Lay, who have just been transferred from Rio Janeiro and were enroute to their post at Berlin. I was able to aid them to get to Loehna, where we got the through "fast train" from Cologne. It was jammed with soldiers. Only standing room was possible and many of the passengers, including women, sat on the floor.

Eager to Get Back
For a time I stood in front of a compartment occupied by "slightly" wounded officers. One had been shot through the arm, another had his elbow smashed, a third had a shattered ankle and the fourth had had his eye shot out. All had been in the storming of Liege. They were cheerfully declaring that they would soon be able to get back to the front.

At Minden and Osnabrueck, dozens of women were on the platform with coffee and sandwiches for the wounded soldiers. At Hanover many passengers got off and we were able to get a seat. Across from me, were two women. One showed a card from her husband. The one sadly declared that she had heard from her husband since he left for the front and she feared he was dead.

A private soldier who had served for thirty-five years in the army and who had volunteered and been accepted when war came, asked me whether I knew his brother, in San Francisco. He told me of the fighting around Liege. I told him it had been stated in England and America that some of the forts were still holding out.

Losses 18,000 Men
"We took the last one on August 6," he said quietly. "It was a great slaughter. Our losses were heavy. We lost probably 18,000 men. The effects of the new German 42 centimeter gun and of the Zeppelin which was used were terrible. The world has yet to learn of the fighting power of our Zeppelins. I saw one at work at Liege. It was the dropping of explosives on the forts there that started their downfall."

This soldier had been wounded and cared for in a Belgian hospital. They had few supplies and only crude instruments, but they did everything possible for him. He said he had heard of many atrocities by Belgian peasant on the German wounded, but knew that the better class of Belgians would have nothing to do with any such campaign. At every stop women gathered expecting husbands, etc. Some of the unions were pathetic in the extreme and brought tears to the eyes of all who witnessed them.

"Gute besserung." (Good recovery) was the greeting to each wounded soldier as he left the train and all expressed their intention of returning to the firing line as soon as possible.

SPEARS DEFEATS CHAS. SCHWEIZER

Before an enthusiastic crowd of local billiard fans, Charles E. Spears, one of the crack billiardists of the world, defeated Charles Schweizer, local champion, at both straight rail and balkline billiards last night at the Lotus billiard hall. Spears scored high run of 112 for the evening.

Following the match, Spears gave an exhibition of fancy billiards showing brilliant control of the ivory. At the same time, he lectured on the fine points of the game.

Spears will appear this evening at the Elks' club, where he will give a full evening's entertainment. This will be his last appearance in La Crosse. Play will start at 8:30.

PIERCE SKIRMISHING REPORTED IN EAST

PEKIN, Sept. 15.—News reached here today of fierce skirmishing between the Japanese and Germans near Kiaochow last Sunday. The Germans attacked the Japanese but were repulsed with heavy loss. Previously German aviators had dropped bombs on the Japanese without damage. The Japanese have succeeded despite the tremendous floods, in landing siege guns for their attack on the forts.

GERMAN SCOUT SHIP HELA IS DESTROYED BY SUBMARINE BOAT

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The small protected cruiser Hela, used as a patrol scout by the German naval authorities, has paid for the British patrol cruiser Pathfinder. Like the latter the Hela was the victim of a submarine. While the location of the sinking is not admitted, it is understood that it was off Helgoland and that the Hela sunk within ten minutes. Unlike the Pathfinder, however, the majority of the Hela's crew were saved. It is stated that the British submarine escaped.

The Hela was a light protected cruiser built in 1895 and rebuilt in 1910. She was 328 feet long, 36 feet beam, had a displacement of 2,040 tons and carried a crew of 178 men.

TURKEY WARNED BY ENGLAND DECIDES TO KEEP OUT OF FIGHT

CONSTANTINOPLE, Via Rome, Sept. 15.—Turkey has finally decided to remain neutral and will not support Germany, according to reports current in official circles here today. This action was decided on, following a straight warning from England that if Turkey participated in the war, she would be eliminated forever as an independent nation. The news of Franco-British victories in the recent fighting was also a factor.

It is stated that in return for her neutrality Turkey will demand that the powers recognize her right to abolish the extra-territorial conventions heretofore given to the powers.

Ninety to Study Farming and Kindred Subjects at Onalaska This Year

More than ninety students of the soil will have been enrolled with the La Crosse County Agricultural school at Onalaska, according to Professor L. H. Campion, superintendent, when the final course is commenced, Oct. 5.

Students started on the four year course of study Tuesday. The two year course will commence Oct. 5. Each course will have slightly over forty-five pupils.

Professor Campion is looking forward to the biggest year of the school's history. The number of students this year outnumbers years in the past.

REPORT VON KLUCK TAKEN.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Central News says that it is reported in Dieppe that 14,000 members of Gen. Von Kluck's army and the general and his staff have been surrounded and captured in northern France. The war office says that it has no information that would tend to confirm the report in any way and it is not generally credited, although it is admitted that many stragglers from Von Kluck's army have been captured.

GIRL AVIATOR TO FLY AT LOCAL FAIR

Miss Katherine Stinsen, one of the few women aviators in the world, has been engaged to give several aerial exhibitions at the La Crosse Interstate fair. Miss Stinsen has attracted attention the world over for her marvelous feats in the air and her work has even attracted the attention of the war lords in Europe where aerial craft is proving so valuable in battles.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

RUSSIA—Officially announced that the active Russian army will be concentrated on the invasion of Germany with the occupation of Berlin as the chief objective, and that no effort will be made to invade Hungary in force. It is stated the Russians are now assuming the offensive in East Prussia.

FRANCE—The Germans were reported today to be re-forming their lines in an attempt to check the French pursuit, which is admittedly encountering more serious opposition. Another general battle is expected in northern France.

BELGIUM—The Belgian forces under King Albert are again threatening the German lines of communication. It is reported most of the Germans have been withdrawn from Brussels and the complete evacuation of the Belgian capital make take place soon.

ENGLAND—Advices from the continent indicate the British forces are again confronted with the reorganized army of Gen. Von Kluck and another battle is imminent. The German protected cruiser Hela has been sunk by a British submarine.

GERMANY—The war office admits the fighting in France continues and declares the efforts of the French to break through German lines have failed. The Germans are declared to be forcing the Russians back in East Prussia.

AUSTRIA—Every public building in Vienna has been turned into a hospital, but so many wounded are constantly arriving from Galicia that hundreds of private houses have also been requisitioned. The economic situation is serious.

SERBIA AND MONTENEGRO—The operations of the combined armies continue with the Austrians reported retreating.

ZEPELIN SHIPS NEW WAR TERRORS

Permit No Light to Act as Possible Target for Aerial Bombs; People Fill Streets at Night

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
OSTEND, Belgium, Aug. 29, By Mail to New York.—The new fear is on Ostend. The streets are pitch dark, although it is early evening. Throughout the night there is the blink, blink, blink of signal lights and the tramp, tramp, tramp of soldiers' feet.

Stand out in the middle of the street. Look up at the stars in the blue, soft night sky and you'll understand what this new fear is. Stand out there with the hundreds of men, women and children, and watch the night sky with them, and suddenly it will come to you like an awful shock—the Zeppelin ship. It's the newest human worry, the latest mode in terrors; the twentieth century blood leech. And it is, as George Cohan might say, "Some worry."

I felt it first at nine o'clock this evening when our boat from England drew up at the magnificent Ostend dock, in total darkness. Men with lanterns lighted the way of passengers and porters.

All Lights Out
"We don't want anybody in the sky to see our lights," a marine explained. A whole city trying to hide itself from something that might be flitting about up among the stars! The impossibility of a city doing such a thing struck me immediately.

"The Zeppelins have been throwing bombs on Antwerp, sixty miles from here," continued the marine, "and sixty miles is only a little over an hour's run for a Zeppelin."

I looked up at the stars. Was everyone of them shining? Or were some of them hidden by the black bulk of one of the great Mauretianas of the air? Not a hulk did I see, and I shook off my first touch, my baptism, of the Zeppelin shudders.

Fear Fills All
A three block ride through the dark streets started it again. The houses were all dark, by military orders. But the Ostenders had not gone to bed; they were all, it seemed, in the streets, looking upward. I looked up also and the Zeppelin chill hit me again. I suppose millions of credulous people looked at the great comet four years ago with something of the same feeling. But this feeling is stronger. We aren't all of us sure that there are comets that might hit us and bring the world to an end, but we do know in Ostend that there are Zeppelins and that they drop bombs which may bring our own particular world to an end in one second.

Later I went about the dark streets of this once gayest shore resort in Europe. The palatial hotels were dead dark. Passing a cafe in the main street I heard strange subdued sounds and suddenly discovered it was the massed whispering in the darkness of scores of men and women seated in the little sidewalk tables under the cafe canopies. Waiters were feeling their way about, serving drinks as best they could under the strange circumstances. I took a seat amid the whispering company.

Dirigibles Powerless
"The English have brought a dirigible here to fight the Zeppelins," whispered one voice, nearby.

"Yes," returned another whisper, "but the Zeppelins have gun-decks on top of the gas bag and carry two great rifles. What chance does an English balloon stand against one of the Zeppelins' fighters, fitted like a battleship?"

While all this whispering was going on, I suddenly recalled how proudly we twentieth century folks had watched Zeppelin in his every move of conquering the air. But after all, what has he done but add a new horror to warfare; a new chill for humanity?

Little children and mothers will say their prayers in Ostend tonight and then be awake, for it's hard to believe that even the good God can save you from bombs that drop from the sky. Ostend lies tonight, helpless. Even the great guns of great English battleships in the harbor cannot insure Ostend against Zeppelin.

Viva, Zeppelin! Inventor of a new fear!

RIOTS REPORTED IN VIENNA WIRES

Every Public Building and School in Use as Hospital with Doctors Few

VIENNA, Via Rome, Sept. 15.—The authorities are adopting the sternest measures to suppress rioting by the unemployed. The problem of caring for the refugees is a desperate one. They have added to the ranks of the out-of-work to such an extent that the officials are alarmed and are diverting many of the men to work on the earthworks that are being constructed to defend the city. The police have been ordered to prevent street parades of the unemployed. Several mass meetings have been held at which violent speeches were made. Depots are to be opened in the market places where food will be furnished to those applying.

Meanwhile the train loads of wounded continue to roll into the city. It is impossible properly to care for them. The army surgeons are all at the front and the volunteers have never had the experience necessary. Every city hospital and public building, even the schoolhouses, are filled and thousands are in private homes.

The last classes of the landstrum have been called to the colors, but there are no uniforms or equipment for them and they will be held at the concentration camps until uniforms and rifles can be procured from the outlying fortresses.

Situation Better
Although no effort is being made to disguise the fact that the Austrian army suffered an overwhelming defeat in the earlier fighting in Galicia, it is now stated at the headquarters of the general staff that the situation is improving.

Under the protection of the San river defenses and are expected to hold their positions there indefinitely.

One of the serious problems confronting the commanders at the front is the fact that the Russian artillery is far superior to the Austrian. It has a much longer range.

This condition will change when the Austrians begin fighting under the protection of their fortifications which are all supplied with the latest Krupp guns.

The economic situation is most serious. Food prices are constantly advancing and the supply of fresh meats is dwindling alarmingly.

Capture Sixth of Austrian Guns
It is estimated by the officers of the general staff that Russia has already captured one-sixth of the active Austrian artillery. The latest captures were 309 cannons and 8,000 men at Rawa Ruska with a mass of war materials.

THE BIGGEST LITTLE THING IN THE 1914 AUTO YEAR

A TWO-FOLD AUTO BOON

Within a week the "H. J. H." Starter will be on the market. This fact is interesting not more that it is a truly wonderful invention than because in justifying the aim of the inventor it establishes that which many "doubting Thomases" have questioned—the sanity of Dr. H. J. Hansen.

The starter is being assembled by the Bump Paper Fastener company, which also makes all the valves and more delicate portions of the mechanism, and the finished product is described as practically indestructible because of the excellent workmanship.

The "H. J. H. Starter" has a two-fold mission—as a primer and starter for cars having no self-starter, and as a primer for cars having self-starters.

The philosophy of Dr. Hansen's invention is simple: it is the ultimate answer to the cranking nuisance.

Cranking is merely a method of pumping gasoline and air, mixed in proper proportion, into the cylinders from the carburetor. Always an annoying task, in cold weather cranking becomes a real hardship because in low temperatures the gasoline cannot be readily sucked into the manifold.

The Hansen patent does away entirely with pumping, for by turning a valve the driver places a perfect mixture under correct compression, exactly where it is needed at the head of the cylinders.

This is the invention's duty as a "primer." When the priming is done, the invention becomes a self-starter when the operator perfects a contact. The explosion is certain to follow the spark.

Cars that rely upon the Hansen apparatus as a self-starter have to contend with but the rare contingency of the engine having stopped on dead center, so a contact cannot be secured. Engines in perfect condition seldom do so. But even in the unusual instances in which the engine stops on dead center, there is no cranking. The crank is then merely used to "turn her over" about a quarter of a revolution, when the button does the rest.

As a Primer
The importance of the apparatus to cars already equipped with self-starters arises from the fact that the self-starters, used alone, have to pump a mixture into the cylinders. Especially in cold weather this is trying on the engine, as many revolutions are likely to be necessary in order to get the right compression. This necessitates great strain on the storage batteries, the consequent weakening of which results in frequent inconvenience, to say nothing of the delay in starting. But where the car enjoys the added equipment of a Hansen primer the mixture is forced into the proper position by turning the valve and the car never fails to start with the first revolution when the self-starter is applied.

The "H. J. H." is a simple device. It weighs a little over fifteen pounds, and costs but $25. Visible, there are two upright tanks, a gage and two dials that register pressure. Under the car is a small air tank the pressure in which is created by pumping; the air and gasoline are forced into a mixing tank, from which they pass in copper injectors to the apertures from which the priming cups have been removed. The mixture is graduated to the right proportions and density by being forced through successive screens of fine copper wire. The entire arrangement is so finely adjusted that after being once shown the method the veriest amateur can operate it without failure or mishap.

Simple and Lasting

Use of air in the apparatus involves no burden, as the three-gallon air tank which it carries, pumped, up to a pressure of 100 pounds, is sufficient for two weeks' service in cars put to ordinary service.

Inventor Is Recognized.

In the beginning there was a lot of chaffing at Dr. Hansen's expense, but with the perfection of the mechanism things have taken a serious turn. Automobile experts have come over one by one until all who are familiar with the Hansen invention recognize in it an important step in gasoline motor evolution. Mr. Bump is so impressed by it that he has gone to considerable expense to equip his factory with special machinery for its manufacture. Most of the 100 machines being turned out in the first order have been sold in advance.

Desiring to make the machine one for popular use, Dr. Hansen has made the price low. It is his plan to sell through agencies and directly to individual auto owners, and he will not approach automobile manufacturers with his proposition.

For Launches Also.

That the "H. J. H." is not of interest to only automobile owners became manifest last week when W. V. Kidder, publisher of "The Open Exhaust," purchased one for use on his new 110 H. P. family speed boat.

Form of Bloodpoisoning Is Result of Infection; Official Confers with Local Expert

Dr. D. Palmer, field veterinarian for the Minnesota state livestock sanitary board at St. Paul, is investigating the spread of a peculiar disease which has broken out among cattle on the John Meizer farm near Hokah, Minn.

But a few cases of the disease have been reported to have occurred in the past and these are far between. Dr. Palmer claims it is a form of blood poison originating from a germ in the soil. Eight cattle on the Meizer farm have died, and the disease is spreading to other farms.

Dr. Palmer conferred with Dr. B. F. Holmes, veterinary surgeon here yesterday. Dr. Palmer is endeavoring to find a means whereby the malady may be permanently stopped and he is preventing its spread.

HAY FEVER

Weeks after the close of a past hay fever season I met a victim and his wife in the northern woods. The man was one of the most superb hunters I ever saw. His real occupation was that of a merchant in a southern Wisconsin city.

The wife told me that for years her husband had been obliged to leave his business in the late summer for a sojourn in the woods to secure relief from his hay fever. She explained, without a smile, that that year they had to postpone their trip until after the regular season on account of his business being so heavy that it could not be left.

And that indicates one very important phase of hay fever. It has been facetiously remarked that hay fever only attacks those whose business and means permit the luxury. While it is true that there is a big nervous element in hay fever, nevertheless the peculiar disorder isn't all nerves nor all imagination.

The lining membrane of the nose is peculiarly sensitive in hay fever victims. Sometimes this sensitiveness is due to some growth or other unnatural condition. In cases of this nature, successful treatment of these disorders removes the tendency to hay fever.

On top of the peculiar neurosis and the sensitive membrane, which may also be a nervous hypersensitiveness, there is some irritant—commonly the pollen of some flowering plant. The irritant isn't necessarily confined to such sources, however. In the case of one eminent sufferer, cited by Osler, "a certain sort of feather pillow" acted as the excitant. In another of my own acquaintances, a flax seed poultice would invariably bring on a typical seizure.

Hay fever is too common to call for any description here of its symptoms. While a large amount of clinical and laboratory research is being carried on to determine a possibly more specific cause and a "sure enough remedy," nothing new has been established. A single mail delivery brought two inquiries for "some new relief measure." A suggestion of danger lies in these and the thousands of similar queries that are being made at this season.

IF BACK HURTS BEGINN ON SALTS

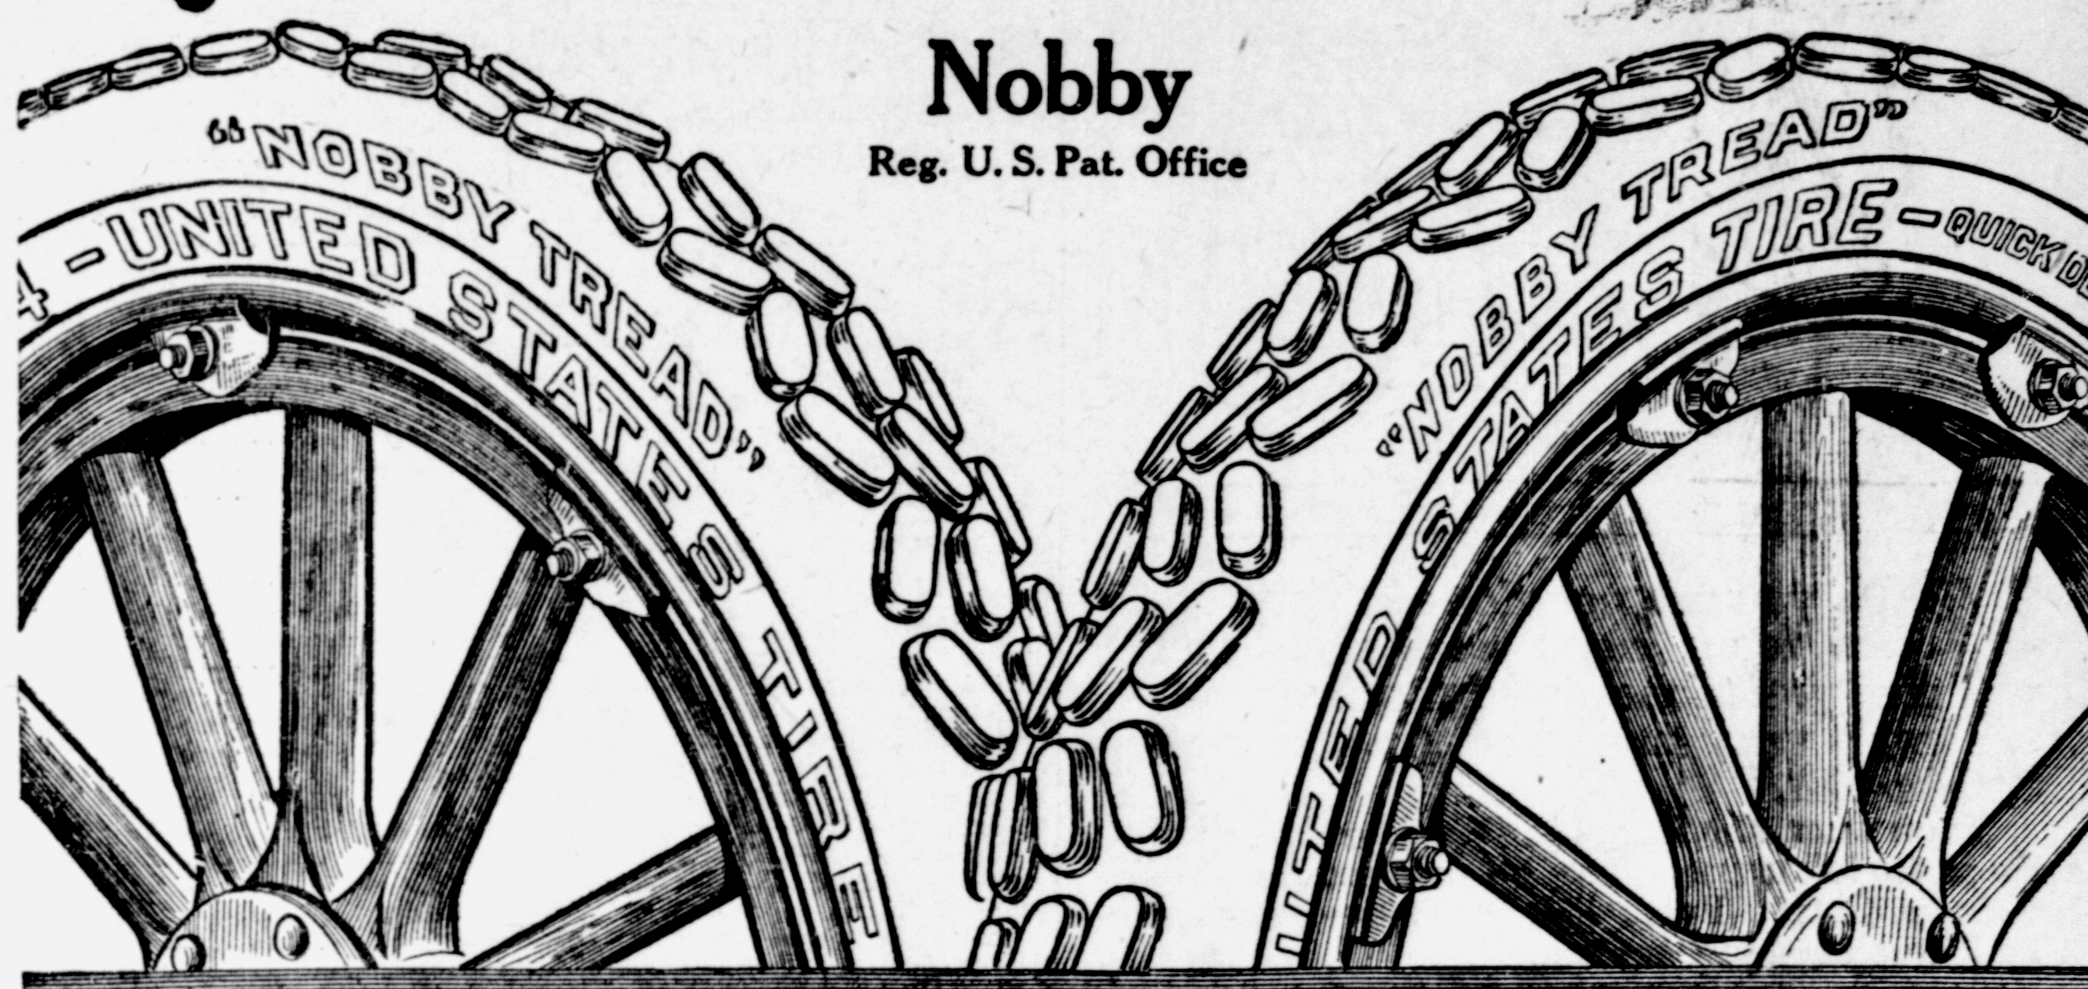

Flush your Kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

BY HAL SHERIDAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—With the end of the pennant race, but three weeks away the clan of McGraw grows weaker daily in both attack and defense. And meanwhile, the Braves gallop along at the same mad pace that has landed them in first place after being at the bottom on July 1.

Doolin's Phillies handed the Giants a crushing setback yesterday when, after giving them the first game of a double bill, they fell on the mighty Mathewson and drove him from the box in three innings. A victory by Matty would have brought the Giants to within one and one-half games of the Braves.

O'Toole finished the game for Matty and he, too, was ineffective, three more runs being scored off him. To Tesreau goes the credit for winning the first game but it should be awarded to Eddie Burns and Magee, of the Phillies. They each contributed a wild throw that resulted in a Giant run and as McGraw's men won by the count of one, their efforts decided the affair—against them.

Dick Rudolph had to beat two clubs to score a victory for the Braves—the Dodgers and his teammates. "Rabbit" Maranville, Whitted, subbing for Johnny Evers, and "Red" Smith seemed determined to hand Brooklyn the game, but Rudolph wouldn't have it so. They kicked in with seven errors and still Boston won.

The Red Sox led their Giants' trick—slipped up when they had an excellent chance to gain on the Athletics. They could only break even with the Senators while the Mack-men were beating the Yankees and the Red Sox dropped a half game in the standing.

ATHLETIC CLUB ELECTS HEADS

Zeisler Chosen Head of Association; Football Prospects Are Growing Brighter

The Boys' Athletic association of the La Crosse high school held their first meeting of the semester last week and elected the following officers: President, Fred Zeisler; vice president, John Fay; secretary, John Robinson. The athletic council elected consists of the following members: Zeisler, Reget, Garder and Bruha (student members), and Puckett, Gouldin, Horne and McCormick (faculty).

The athletic council then called a meeting and elected Layton Gouldin faculty manager of high school athletics, and Roswell Puckett, treasurer for the ensuing season. The next duty of the council will be to appoint student managers for track and basketball. Henry Kienahs was to have been basketball manager but he failed to return to school this fall.

The high school football squad had their first signal practice of the season last evening. The signal system to be used this season was explained and some of the plays explained. Heretofore there have been no scrimmages or practice of any kind needing signals, but beginning with the end of this week the team will have scrimmages daily against the seconds. The men have been thoroughly drilled during the last week in tackling, falling on the ball, and giving interference.

The material is showing up very well and the coach expects to be able to build up a strong machine.

"SAFETY FIRST" CAR COMING

The Safety First campaign being waged by the Safety First society of New York, of which society Ogden L. Mills is president, received additional impetus last Thursday (Sept. 10) when the "Safety First car" started from New York on its tour through eastern and middle western states, in charge of General Secretary Frederick H. Elliott. Mr. Elliott carries with him letters of greeting from Mayor John Purroy Mitchell of Greater New York to mayors of other cities which the car will visit; also letters from President of the Borough of Manhattan Marcus M. Marks, Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo and others, all of whom are giving their hearty endorsement to the work of the society. This car is equipped with modern safety devices and accessories which tend to make motoring safer. The car will visit La Crosse in the near future.

CLOTHIERS MEET NELSONS SUNDAY

A game of more than ordinary interest will be that Sunday at League park between the Nelsons and the Clothiers. The Clothiers early in the year defeated the Nelsons by the close score of three to two and the North siders are anxious to wipe out the beating. Squiers, the sticky right-winger, will throw for the Nelsons, while either Copsey or Krause will take the mound for the Clothiers.

DRAFTING TO BE IN SECRET

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 15.—Chairman Gerry Herrmann of the National baseball commission yesterday announced that for the first time in the history of organized baseball there would be no public drafting of minor league players this year. Herrmann said that the draft would be made in a "new way," but did not indicate in what manner.

This announcement partially confirms the recent report from Chicago that to foil the Federal league raiders, the older leagues had arranged a secret draft this year and that names of drafted players would not be made public until they were signed.

MAINE DEMOCRAT WINS BY A HAIR

Moosers Support Republic—can for Governor but Can't Down Democrats

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—In one of the closest elections the state has ever known, the democrats yesterday elected Oakley C. Curtis governor. A number of voters who supported Roosevelt in the 1912 election, flocked to the polls to back the republican ticket, but their number was not enough to down the democrats.

Owing to the exceeding closeness of the vote, no one could be at all confident of the result until the last ballot had been counted. The returns from all the cities, towns and plantations today, however, gave Curtis, democrat 58,877; William T. Haines, republican, 56,179, and Gardner, progressive, 17,147. The four congressmen, Asher C. Hinds, John A. Peters and Frank E. Guernsey, republicans, and Daniel J. McGillivuddy, democrat, were re-elected.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Weakness at Liverpool was not as decided as was expected here today on account of the sharp decline on the local board yesterday, consequently wheat prices advanced 1 3-4 to 2 cents on the early trades yesterday. Later yesterday's selling pressure was renewed and prices slumped, going back to yesterday's closing figures for December and September and to only 5-8c above for May.

Corn started 1-4c higher and with offerings light, held firm throughout the forenoon. Noon prices were 1-4 to 5-8c better than last night's figures.

Oats started sharply higher on account of the bulge in wheat and corn, but broke and went back to last night's closing figures, and even 3-8 to 5-8c lower for September and May.

Provisions were firm and higher at the start, later eased off toward noon, but short ribs and pork held the early gain.

After dropping to the lowest levels in several weeks, all grain futures had sharp advances just before the close today.

Wheat futures moved up and closed more than two cents above last night's close. Corn showed a similar gain of 1-8 to 1 1-2c and oats futures closed 1-4 to 2 1-4c above yesterday's closing figures. Provisions closed at about noon prices.

WILSON GOING BACK

WINDSOR, Vt., Sept. 15.—After a morning on the golf links, President Wilson planned to leave Harlakenden house this afternoon for Washington today. The president appeared much refreshed.

The summer fabrics leave little to imagination, so you may devote yours to writing popular fiction.

Migraine or Sick Headache

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two Anti-kamnia Tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one Anti-kamnia Tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet. Anti-kamnia Tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all Pain.

STUDENTS SEEK JOBS IN MADISON

List of Young Men and Women Who Would Work Way Through School Is Large

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 15.—A variety of occupations, including nearly all vocations from street railway conductor to photographer, are listed in the bulletin issued today by the university as positions which students are willing to fill while attending the institution. It was recently estimated that twenty-five per cent of the students pay their way through the university by working for citizens of Madison. The alumni association today issued a bulletin, which is sent to every businessman in the city listing the different occupations, which the students are ready to fill. Fifty-five different classes of employment are sought. According to the bulletin there is an unusual supply of boys who desire to act as waiters for their board and those who wish to tend furnaces for their room. In the past there have been but few girls working their way through the institution. Perhaps this year the domestic servant problem may be solved this way. This year the bulletin says: "If you are in need of a maid, an attendant for children, or a companion, the bureau will be pleased to submit for your consideration the applications of several intelligent and refined young women who have had experience along such lines."

FRANK CHANCE THROUGH

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—It is generally conceded today that Frank Chance is through as manager of the New York American league club. The only question left to be settled, it is believed, whether Chance will finish out the season or leave at once. Some sort of a compromise is expected between President Farrell and Chance, whereby the "Peerless Leader" will receive his salary for the last month and be free to start for California.

Cotton spindles active during August numbered 30,349,902 against 30,602,282 in August, 1913.

GORDON A MEMBER OF STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE TODAY

Wins in Spirited Fight with Strong Progressive as Associate from the Seventh District

PROGRESSIVES CLAIM CONTROL

Say Defeat of Stone Was Due to Personal Plea of Candidate Emanuel Philipp

PLATFORM IS A COMPROMISE

Ultra-Progressive in Tone It Makes No Mention of Primary or "Bill Factory" Repeal

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 16.—George H. Gordon of La Crosse, and G. F. Cooper of Black River Falls, were elected members of the republican state central committee from the seventh (La Crosse) congressional district this afternoon in a spirited contest which gave the first test of strength between the stalwarts and progressives in the republican platform convention.

In the race, in the final voting, were three candidates, and the vote stood as follows: George H. Gordon, stalwart, 63; James A. Stone, progressive, 41. Prior to the voting Emanuel Philipp, candidate for governor, appealed to the convention to elect Mr. Gordon "as a personal favor to me."

The progressives, while regretting the defeat of Stone, were elated over the vote, believing it shows a safe progressive majority; they explain Gordon's nomination over Stone by saying that the direct appeal from the head of the ticket for Gordon gave him a number of votes from progressives who were willing to accord him this courtesy.

The nomination of state central committee made yesterday for the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth and eleventh congressional districts were approved by the convention.

The Fight On.
The seventh district delegation was next considered; it developed a fight from the start. The majority report favored James A. Stone, of Reedburg, and George F. Cooper, of Black River Falls. The minority, led by Philipp, favored George H. Gordon, La Crosse; and Frank R. Bentley, Baraboo. Philipp asked that as a personal favor the convention elect Gordon and Bentley. E. F. Dithmar asked for the adoption of the majority report. George Hambrecht asked Dithmar if both Stone and Cooper would favor McGovern and Philipp. Dithmar replied that he had not consulted with them. Hambrecht said he wanted every man elected to the committee to be loyal to the whole ticket. Mr. Dithmar suggested he did not believe that Bentley would support him (Dithmar) for lieutenant-governor.

Bentley Withdrawn
Senator Bosshard said the overturning of the majority report could not be justified by "anything except steam roller methods." Philipp said he asked it only as a personal favor and suggested that the delegation be divided. Bosshard said that to follow that line it would be just to ask all other districts to divide. Assemblyman Nye, Superior, proposed that the committee should divide and elect Gordon and Cooper. Kurtenacker, La Crosse, favored this resolution, but Bosshard and Dithmar both spoke against it. They pledged

BURNS AGAIN ON STATE COMMITTEE

Local Anti-Karel Man Member of Central Body of Which Joseph Martin Is Chairman

HARMONY DOES NOT PREVAIL

Aylward Men Outnumbered, Carry Primary Strife Into Convention; Karel in Complete Control

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 16.—Joseph F. Martin, Green Bay, was named chairman of the democratic state central committee.

The democratic state central committee was selected as follows: First district—G. Holmes Daubner, Waukesha; Andrew Jensen, Edgerton.

Second district—Henry Fischer, Jefferson; Joseph Cludice, Schleiingville.

Third district—William Ryan, Madison; E. C. Fiedler, Mineral Point.

Fourth district—Peter Bronzka, Milwaukee; Vincenz Hennessey, Milwaukee.

Fifth district—George Herman, Milwaukee; J. L. Callahan, Milwaukee.

Sixth district—H. M. Clark, Fond du Lac; Peter G. Egerer, Chilton.

Seventh district—John Burns, La Crosse; J. F. Hofstetter.

Eighth district—John F. Lamont, Wausau; E. L. Pasternacki, Stevens Point.

Ninth district—P. A. Badour, Oconto; J. F. Martin, Green Bay.

Tenth district—E. J. Hausmann, Rice Lake; Carl Cunningham, Chippewa Falls.

Eleventh district—J. S. Barry, Phillips; P. B. Cadigan, Superior.

The committee is controlled by the Karel wing.

Harmony, pleaded for by Judge John C. Karel, gubernatorial nominee, did not prevail at yesterday's democratic state convention.

The progressives, though outnumbered by the Karel forces, carried the pre-primary strife into the convention and fought the jurist's forces at every stage of the game.

They left the hall at the close of the convention, however, vowing support of the state ticket from top to bottom.

Resolution Committee
The democrats settled down to business at the afternoon session with the appointment of the resolution committee on resolutions, each congressional district naming one member. The other members were the state office candidates—Judge John C. Karel, Melvin A. Hoyt, H. C. Truesdell, Joseph Fisher and Charles A. Kading. E. J. Kneen, Bangor, represented the seventh district.

Temporary Chairman Carl Hansen expressed the hope that the convention would adopt for its slogan "United we stand, divided we fall," and the sentiment was echoed in vigorous applause.

Reject Husting Planks
The platform committee's resolutions were adopted with the addition of two planks offered by Senator Husting, one endorsing the Wisconsin waterpower law enacted by the last legislature, which Husting himself was instrumental in having enacted, and the other commending the corrupt practices act.

Husting's planks favoring the forest reserve policy and affirming the state income tax law and promising not to repeal it, were rejected, the convention having taken similar action though not so complete a stand on the same subjects in the majority report.

Democratic Platform
The platform, exclusive of the two Husting planks noted, follows in brief:

(BY J. W. T. MASON)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—At 11 A. M. The Germans have checked their headlong retreat from Paris and their line is holding fast, except at the extreme left. Here a retirement has taken place to the frontier fortified line on the German side of the Lorraine border, running south from Metz.

This army, in Lorraine, is practically a separate force. Its retreat to the shelter of the permanent German fortifications probably indicates that much of its strength has been detached to reinforce the right wing of the crown prince's army, and the center of the entire German line.

This is the critical strategic position of the invaders. Lines of communication and retreat would be gone if the allies broke through here. The fact that the Alsine posts are being held by the Germans must mean reinforcements have arrived. The allies reported several days ago they had possession of the principal crossings of the Aisne. Nevertheless, they have been unable to drive the Germans from the north river.

There is great danger to the Germans in their present position, but it must be remembered they number probably over a million men and a serious blunder resulting from a too ardent pursuit might easily result in disaster to a large part of the allied forces.

An attempt to rival the rapidity of the German drive to Paris would be in keeping with the former ideas of the French temperament which Gen. Joffre's calm ability has done so much to dissipate. It was largely this same impetuosity, perhaps dictated by strategic considerations, that led the Germans to the Marne disaster. With so recent an example before them, any rash enterprise by the French at this moment would be inexcusable.

Russia's advance to the San river suggests that the major operations in Galicia may be sufficiently near to an end to permit the main advance on Berlin shortly to begin. Once over the San river in force, Russia will be past the main Austrian fortified line, and, if the Petrograd reports of stupendous victories in Galicia are true, Cracow, 120 miles west of the San, should be reached without serious opposition. Then, the Russian general staff can give all its time to planning the march to Berlin.

Russia's military machine, therefore, by crossing the San, is entering upon the last stage of the Galician journey.

OUT GENERAL THE RUSSIANS IN THE "SEDAN OF EAST"

Second Russian Army Was Lured Into Swamp and Annihilated

TOOK 70,000 PRISONERS AT ONCE

Credit of Strategy Belongs to General Luedendorf Who Took Liege

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—By Courier via Rotterdam to New York to escape the British censor.—Despite the elaborate explanation of the Russian general staff of the disaster to its first invasion of East Prussia, in which the Russian second army, known as the Narew army, was completely annihilated, it can be stated with authority that the Russians were outgeneraled. The complete story from the German viewpoint was not permitted to reach America by either the British or Russian censors. It was one of the most noteworthy feats of arms in modern times and as a result the Germans took 70,000 prisoners, more than 500 field guns and scores of machine guns, while it is estimated that the Russians lost in killed and wounded upward of 100,000 men.

Although officially credited to General Von Hindenburg, as the commander in chief of the German forces in East Prussia, the real hero of the occasion was General Luedendorf of the German staff. Next to Von Moltke, Luedendorf is one of the greatest strategists on either side of the present war. To him belongs the glory of the capture of Liege.

When things looked bad in East Prussia, General Von Hindenburg was rushed there. Immediately afterward General Luedendorf was recalled from Namur. As a result of his strategy the Russian second army of more than 200,000 men was lured into the swampy ground between Gilsenberg and Orlenburg, there surrounded and practically annihilated. The Germans attacked from three sides. The Russian field guns soon became hopelessly mired. Meanwhile from wooded hillsides, from the railroad roadbed elevated above the soft ground and from other points of vantage the German artillery riddled the Russian position. German aviators gave the exact range and it was possible to shell the Russian field headquarters, killing the general commanding and his assistants.

The battle is now known as the battle of Tannenberg and is declared by German newspapers to be the "Sedan of the east."

KILLED ON TRAIN HE HAD "PULLED"

Jacob Meyers, Wife and Daughter, Former Residents of Bangor, Victims of Wreck

VISITED LA CROSSE ANNUALLY

Spent Part of Each Summer Here at Home of A. D. Tabbert; Had Just Left After Visit Here

While riding in a Pullman coach on a train which he had driven from the locomotive cab hundreds of times, Jacob Meyers, formerly of Bangor, was injured and will die, and his wife and daughter were killed.

Word reached the A. D. Tabbert home, 1116 South Tenth street, last night from C. H. Raltzell, general superintendent of the Frisco railroad system, confirming the death of Mrs. Jacob Meyers and her daughter, Lena, in the wreck near Lebanon, Mo., early yesterday. More than a score were killed.

Superintendent Raltzell's message said Meyers had been placed in a hospital at Thayer, Mo., and is not expected to live.

Meyers was born and raised in Bangor, and is well known here. With his wife and daughter, he had been spending a month at the home of A. D. Tabbert, a relative. The family left Monday night for Thayer, their home.

He had continuously driven a locomotive on the St. Louis run for twenty years.

Relatives Here
Mrs. Jacob Meyers, mother of the man who is expected to die is living at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Stortz, 913 South Ninth street. She is 90 years old.

Mr. Tabbert, Walter Stortz and Miss Julia Stortz left on the 12 o'clock Burlington last night for Thayer. The remains of Mrs. Meyers and her daughter will probably be brought to La Crosse.

AUSTRIA DECLARES SERB INVADERS ARE DRIVEN BACK

BERLIN, Via The Hague, Sept. 16.—Official advices from Vienna say that the Serbian army of invasion which had crossed the Save river was attacked by the strong Austrian force and overwhelmingly defeated. The Vienna advices say that the Serbians are being driven back into Serbia and that they have lost many men and guns.

RUSSIANS INVEST PRZEMYSL AND FORTS ON SAN

Grodek and Miecska Already Are Occupied by Troops of the Czar

MOVE ALSO UPON CRACOW

Cossacks Are Seen to West of the San River Fortified Positions

VIENNA, Via Rome, Sept. 16.—Denial was made at the war office today that the Austrian army of Gen. Dankl has been compelled to surrender by the Russians. It is stated that the Russian troops had managed almost completely to surround the Austrians, who were taken at a disadvantage by having to effect a retreat through unfavorable territory, but that the Austrians have now cut their way through the Russian lines.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 16.—With Russian troops closing in on the strong Austrian forts of Przemyśl and the fortified positions along the San to Jaroslavl, and with Grodek and Miecska already occupied by the czar's troops, it was announced at army headquarters today that the main objective of the Russian-Austrian campaign is rapidly coming to a successful conclusion. Cossacks are reported to have penetrated to the westward of the San river fortifications and to have reached as far as Jaslo. This indicates that the advance against Cracow is to be pushed independently while the San river positions are enveloped. The Austrian force cut off in the triangle formed by the junction of the Vistula and the San is reported attempting to break through the cordon that now surrounds it but it is held certain that it must soon surrender.

It was officially announced today that in the capture of Grodek the Austrians lost 400 light field guns and twenty howitzers. In East Prussia, it is stated, Russians have succeeded in checking the German advance, but rumors persist that the army of Gen. Rennenkampf has been very badly cut up.

In an official statement issued today the war office declares that the investment of Przemyśl will prevent the Austrian army of Gen. Dankl taking refuge there. It says: "The army of Dankl is now cut off in the bogs, into which they had hoped to entice the Russians."

GERMANS ABANDON LIEGE ACCORDING TO BERLIN STATEMENT

BERLIN, Via Rome, Sept. 16.—An official statement issued here says that the Germans have abandoned Liege.

No reason is known here for the reported statement from Berlin via Rome that the Germans have abandoned Liege and there is no confirmation from any source. It has been reported that German lines of communication had been threatened but in neither London nor Paris statements have been made any intimation of any operations of any kind in Belgium, except those which are being conducted by the Belgians. It is possible that the troops at Liege have been sent south for sterner work in France, where it is stated the battle has been renewed with the Germans on the defensive.

J. M. MONCREIFF NEW MANAGER HERE

Bloomington Man Selected to Succeed A. W. Higgins as Manager of Gas and Electric Company

To Take Charge of Properties at Indianapolis; to Leave City Soon; to Entertain Employees

J. M. Moncreiff, Bloomington, Ind., has been selected to succeed A. W. Higgins as manager of the La Crosse Gas and Electric company and will assume charge here soon.

Mr. Higgins has been transferred by the American Public Utilities Co. to Indianapolis, there to be president and general manager of the gas and electric company. The properties there include the largest central heating plant in the world and the selection of Mr. Higgins for the position is a decided compliment.

The new manager has been general manager at the water, gas and electric plants at Bloomington, Ill.

Mr. Higgins but a few months ago succeeded Thurston Owens as manager of the local company, prior to that time having been connected with this company in a responsible position.

"I am sorry to leave La Crosse," said Mr. Higgins this morning, "and the many friends I have made while here. The new position is a tempting one and I will confess that I feel proud that I have been selected by the American Public Utilities Co., for it."

Tomorrow evening Mr. Higgins will give a dinner at his home, 1720 Cameron Avenue, for twenty employees of the local company. B. T. Gifford, chief engineer of the Public Utilities Co., will also be present.

It was announced this morning that no changes will be made among the employees at the local plant.

GERMANS DEFEND SELVES IN FIGHT IN NORTH FRANCE

General Battle in Progress Since Monday Declares French War Office

NEW BATTLE LINE 100 MILES LONG

Germans Strongly Entrenched on High Ground Along the Aisne River

LONDON, Sept. 16.—In an official statement issued this evening the war office announces that a number of counter attacks in force by the Germans on the British-French lines along the Aisne have been repulsed with very heavy loss. The general situation, it is emphasized, continued favorable to the allies. The official announcement issued at 7 o'clock this evening, says: "The German losses are very heavy and this morning we captured 200 prisoners."

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The official announcement, issued at 3 o'clock at Bordeaux and telegraphed here, stated that a general battle has been in progress since Monday along the entire northern and eastern front with the Germans everywhere compelled to fight on the defensive. At no point, it is stated, have they been able to assume the offensive. The report says:

"The German rear guard, reinforced by the main body, has been fighting on the defensive throughout Monday and Tuesday along the entire line north of Noyon-Soissons and Laon to the north of Rheims and then through Ville Sur and Tourne."

The new battle line as revealed by the official statement issued, is nearly 100 miles long. The center of this line is exactly north of Rheims about half way between that city and Rethel.

Germans Strongly Fortified
It is known that the Germans have been receiving reinforcements and that their positions on the high ground along the Aisne river are strongly entrenched.

Rumors of the coming of additional troops, presumably from the far east, have been widely circulated, and it is believed that when the veil now shrouding the movements to the northwest is lifted, it will be found that another offensive movement participated in by the entire British expeditionary force, supported by the French, is in full swing.

Color was lent to this by the statement at military headquarters that heavy fighting had been in progress since Monday, with the Germans entirely on the defensive. It has always been the British plan, and Generals French and Joffre are in complete accord, to keep up the pursuit without cessation.

That the situation for the Germans must be serious is known. The heavy rains continue everywhere in the north. All of the roads are virtual quagmires while the fordable brooks are now torrents which must be bridged. This means the German heavy artillery, which depends on tractors and heavy automobiles for its motive power, is in danger of capture.

It is understood that the German

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Japanese Marvel
At Little White Girl.

"I AM going to tell you the story of Dolly Vincent's adventure in Japan to-night," said daddy. "Mr. Vincent was telling me a most amusing story this afternoon."

"Oh, goody!" cried Evelyn. "I've wanted awfully to see her ever since she came back."

"You see, Dolly's daddy works for some folks who import Japanese things, and instead of remaining in the big city of Tokyo, where white people are not a novelty, Mr. Vincent was obliged to go into a small town a long way from Tokyo."

"Dolly teased to go, too, so she was taken along. She was very much pleased with all the odd sights, but it never occurred to Dolly nor her daddy either that while she was seeing so many queer things she herself was a strange sight for the Japanese folk of this little interior town."

"That is, they didn't know at first that she was attracting a good deal of attention. But after a time Mr. Vincent noticed that, while the natives paid no attention to him, whenever Dolly was with him they would be surrounded by a crowd of curious women, children and even grownup men."

"The women and children would pull Dolly's long golden curls, and they must have wished to see if her eyes were real, I suppose, since they tried to poke their fingers in her eyes."

"But one day Dolly strayed away from the house alone and went along the street looking at all the queer things and having a beautiful time at first. Pretty soon a great crowd surrounded her, and when Dolly tried to get away she couldn't."

"Then she began to cry. Great tears rolled down her cheeks, and, while the Japanese are usually a solemn people, her tears seemed to afford them great joy. They sat around her and laughed and laughed, and the harder she would cry the harder they would laugh."

"Why, kiddies, that whole town had gathered around that one little girl! The shops were left untended, the women left their domestic duties, and every one was gathered there to see one poor little white girl cry."

"Pretty soon Daddy Vincent came along and stopped at the outer edge of the crowd. He said he wondered why all the shops were deserted and the great crowd gathered."

"He peered over the heads of the little brown people, and there in the center sat Dolly crying, her pink and white face all smudged, her white dress all stained with mud and her curls all awry."

"You better believe that Daddy Vincent found his way through that crowd pretty quickly and had Dolly in his arms in no time at all."

"A Shine in Every Drop"

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

WHEN VISION CAME BACK

BY T. O. T.

CHAPTER IV

The first meeting of the board of education was a stormy session. "Doc" made a hard fight to be re-appointed president, but Durner voted against him and so did Sidney (who probably got some personal satisfaction out of the incident, aside from his desire to see an independent get the office), and Blackmar, one of the independents, was appointed.

The doctor was too good a politician to make a scene at the board meeting. So he perforce bided his time and began to lay plans for the next election, at which time he expected to be returned to the legislature, according to the usual custom.

The six months of grace had passed, which brings us to the interview set down in our prologue, and the lovers seemed no nearer happiness than before. They had been seen in public together on numerous occasions, and as some rumor of the actual conditions had leaked out, public gossip was more or less busy, but the three persons most interested uttered never a word.

Sidney called at Myrtle's house but seldom and then only when the doctor was absent. He had no wish to provoke an encounter, neither did he make any special effort to avoid one. The lovers met frequently at the club and at the houses of members and Mrs. Grundy was forced to admit that there seemed to be a complete understanding between them.

Meantime the seed of political ambition had sprouted and blossomed in the bosom of the doughty McCasidy. Having "put one over" the boss, as he termed it, he began to have visions and dream dreams of greater prestige and power. However, his long association with the doctor had taught him caution.

Instead of coming out as a candidate for the legislature, in opposition to "Doc," the wily McCasidy selected as the candidate who would bring him renown as a petty king maker, Durner, who, as already related, stood well with the farming element. Although a man without any great passion for politics, Durner was an honest man and not averse to representing his district.

It was merely a question of history repeating itself. Let the great man feel the buffet of adversity and his erstwhile satellites turn against him. "Doc" was dethroned and Durner went to take his place in the legislature.

Defeated and stung by the abandonment of those who had come to him for favors times without number, Dr. Silvers was a period of discouragement and depression, only lightened by the loving ministrations of his daughter. Sidney's name was never mentioned between them, but the doctor knew she met him constantly.

After the first sting of defeat had grown dull, the doctor's active mind sought a means to occupy it and he turned to his former practice. To prove his former contentions correct, he took up the study of optometry.

To his surprise it was not the "makeshift for the ignorant" that he had denounced. He discovered questions he could not answer; problems that he could not solve. Presently it began to dawn upon him that this "fakir profession" might have improved since he first began to fight it.

Once started on the new track, his ambition would not be content until he had followed to the finish. Observe him, then, a few months later, attending the annual convention of the optometrists, as a quiet spectator. Few there knew him, but one of the first he met was a fellow optometrist, as a quiet spectator. Few there knew him, but one of the first he met was a fellow optometrist, as a quiet spectator.

"What are you doing here, you old unconstructed rebel?" was the greeting. "Don't you know you're apt to lose your life among these pesky optometrists?"

"What are you doing here, then?" the doctor returned, as he grasped the hand of his old classmate.

"Me? Oh, I'm lecturing in the post graduate course that begins this afternoon. These boys are foolish enough to think I can tell them anything, so they pay me to come here and tell it."

"What is the cost of the course?" asked "Doc," thoughtfully.

"Ten dollars," replied his friend. Dr. Silvers stood for a moment staring into vacancy. Then he pulled a roll of money out of his pocket and peeled off a ten-dollar bill.

"Put me down as a pupil," he said.

CONCLUSION
During the next two months Myrtle noticed a great change in her father. Often she caught him gazing at her with a look in his eyes that set her wondering, and the tender tones of his voice made her heart beat with hope.

At last one day, while she was downtown shopping, she stopped at her father's office. He was seated in a big chair at the window gazing thoughtfully down the street. She greeted him with a kiss and he pulled her down on his knee, a place she had often occupied as a little girl, and asked a few trivial questions. Then for a time there was silence.

Suddenly "Doc" drew a long breath, as a man will before some special effort. "Daughter," he said, "is your heart still set on that young man Geatrix?"

Wherever Myrtle's heart was set, it began just then to beat so violently that she could hardly answer. "Yes, father," she finally said. "It still is set on him and always will be."

"Well, girlie." The words came slowly. "Maybe your dad is an old fool, and maybe he's just been a contrary old mule. It isn't pleasant to acknowledge one has been wrong, even to a dear daughter, but if you think that young man is indispensable to your happiness—I guess—I'll have to—say yes. Now, now," for Myrtle was clinging to him and shedding happy tears onto his shirt bosom.

Presently he put her off his knee and rose from the chair. "Stay here a few minutes, my girl," he said, "I have an errand to do."

Dr. Silvers was a good "sport." His errand was a disagreeable one, but he did not hesitate in making the amende honorable. Straight toward Sidney's office he strode and upon arriving met the proprietor at the door. Sidney stared in amazement at his visitor.

"Young man," said the doctor, looking the other squarely in the face. A few months ago I talked to you in an ungentlemanly manner. My only excuse is that at that time I honestly thought I was right. I have since found I was wrong. I apologize, sir."

The young man thus addressed stood silent in wide-mouthed bewilderment. Before he could gain control of himself the doctor went on.

"There is another matter you spoke to me about—doubtless I do not make any apology regarding what I said about that matter, but if you care to walk as far as my office you will probably find there a young lady who will make due explanation. Furthermore—" but the doctor never got further in what he was about to say, because a pop-eyed young man had swung his hand until it ached and then bolted down the stairs, three at a time, and vanished up the street.

Slowly the doctor turned homeward. "It's a true saying," he mused, "that there's no fool like an old fool—unless it's a young man in love."

The optical firm of Silvers & Greatrex does a prosperous business in the town of G—, but the senior member is away a good deal of the time lecturing and giving consultations. When at home, his greatest pleasure is found in the company of a budding optometrist, or oculist—which it will be cannot be determined for about twenty years—who bears the name of Guy Silvers Greatrex.

Mother No Artist.

Mamma is no natural artist, but she does her best when asked by the youngsters to "draw pictures." The other day, upon little George's demand, she made a sketch of a hen. When finished George regarded it with polite but critical attention. At last, sighing, he requested: "Please write 'Hen' underneath it, mamma. I want it to know where it belongs."

A "LONG HEAD" BETTER THAN "COLD FEET"

Is progressivism in Wisconsin a thing of the past?

The dubious minded are inclined to assume that it is. Of course the recent primary is the cause of this lunatic assumption. But the "scared remnant" read the Sentinel headlines instead of the election returns.

As a preface to this presentation of cold facts calculated to send chills down the stalwart spine, it may be said that most of the McGovern following is made up of progressives, bull-mooseism being an offshoot of progressivism. Below are the first-choice figures for governor:

Republican — Philipp, 42,457;
Dahl, 26,516; Hatton, 22,352; Hull, 19,638; Roethe, 12,917; Utman, 6, 207.

In all 129,237 republican votes were cast, of which Philipp received 42,457, a trifle over one-third. The only other contender for governor who is not an out-and-out progressive was Roethe, who has positively declared he is not a stalwart, but who has "leanings." Probably Roethe got enough progressive votes to offset any stalwart votes polled for Hull, Hatton and Utman. Adding the total Roethe vote to the Philipp vote, we have the following:

Stalwart vote54,474
Progressive vote65,763
Progressive majority 8,711

But there can be no doubt that the stalwart vote presented a greater percentage of the full stalwart strength than did the progressive vote. The stalwarts were organized and strongly equipped; the progressives not only were unorganized, but were actually disorganized by internal strife. Add to this the fact proven by history that the farmer vote is largely progressive, and that the farmers polled relatively the lightest vote of any class, and the situation quickly dissipates the notion that the stalwarts have made material gains in Wisconsin.

The vote for senator presents a less certain basis of computation, but making the most liberal allowance for stalwart strength, it presents the progressive strength in still better light than does the record for governor. The official first choice vote for senator follows:

Republican — McGovern, 36,036;
Bancroft, 25,732; Marris, 25,564;
Estabrook, 6,316; Burke, 6,964;
Strange, 11,146.

Burke had some progressive following and Strange some stalwart following. As Strange's vote was 4,000 larger than that of Burke, it is more than fair to the stalwarts to eliminate Strange's vote from consideration. Adding the Bancroft and Burke votes and the Morris and Mc-Govern votes, we have the following:

Stalwart vote32,696
Progressive vote61,600
Progressive majority28,904

While McGovern had made many stalwart friends by his anti-LaFollette activities, and probably polled enough stalwart votes to have nominated Bancroft had not the latter's followers, thinking his nomination impossible, switched some of their support to McGovern in the hope of at least humiliating the senior senator, this probability cannot upset the conclusion that the senatorial voting shows a decided progressive majority in the republican party.

The official facts are conclusive.
The progressive element in the republican party is strongly in the ascendency. If they will be advised of that fact and act accordingly, they may avoid the grave error of surrender to a vastly inferior force.

A WONDERFUL DEMONSTRATION

Beginning tomorrow evening Prof.
P. Andrews will fill an engagement at the Majestic theater which, in addition to being a first class entertainment, affords a lesson of prime interest to grown people and an experience which no child in LaCrosse should be permitted to miss.

The meat of the offering consists in a practical demonstration of liquid oxygen. Little known to the general public, this wonderful product is playing an important part in the world's work, its main function being to cut heavy metal. For this purpose it was used in the investigation of the hull of the battleship Maine.

The queer things this strange liquid will do include freezing mercury into a hammer with which a nail is driven into a plank and frying eggs at a temperature of some three hundred degrees below zero.

Excepting wireless telegraphy, no scientific thing is a more interesting mystery, and Professor Andrews makes your eyes "pop" with his experiments.

Put your finger into a glass of it and the finger is cut off as by a razor; Professor Andrews takes it in his mouth. "Nuf said."

No Sympathy Among Animals.
Whenever an animal is ill, the first step is to isolate it, not so much for fear of infection as to protect it from the cruel attentions of its fellows, attentions which may cause its death by violence. It will appreciate the value of quiet cozy quarters, in which it may be safe from persecution.

DISCONTENT.

When discontent seizes upon the mind it is like the deadly cancer, reaching out with its tentacles for sound flesh to feed upon. It must be checked in its incipient stage.
The caustic of self arraignment must be unsparingly used and the salve of common sense liberally applied.
Self treatment is necessary to insure a cure.—Frank B. Welch.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The "Umps"

No emperor of ancient Rome was ever half so great As is the monarch that the world has reckoned with of late;
His subjects stand in anxious awe,
Both terror struck and dumb,
To learn their fate as signalled by the wiggle of his thumb.
Imperious and absolute he reigns, a power supreme,
Above Napoleon's ideas and Nero's fondest dream.
The destiny of nations rests upon the mighty fame
And medieval despots were, compared with him, quite tame.
Upon a pedestal he stands until, with temper quick,
The bleacher angels take a hand and someone heaves a brick.

Not Figured, Just Decided

Recently, in a justice court in the state of Kansas, some wheat in the stack had been attached, and it became necessary, through an order of the court, to have the same threshed.

One of the workmen among the threshers put in a voucher for $11, which seemed entirely too high to the court.

The court questioned the workman concerning his labor, and asked him how much he charged per day for his labor. The laborer replied:
"Three dollars."

The court then asked him how many days he worked, and the workman replied: "Two days."

The court then asked the laborer how he figured the bill at $11, since he only worked two days at $3 per day.

The witness replied: "I didn't figure it; I just decided on it."—West's Record.

Cried All the Time

The conversation at a recent smok-fest turned to the wonderful ways of the youngsters, when Congressman James T. Hefflin was reminded of little Tommy's tears.

Hearing a sound like fierce sobbing in the kitchen of her suburban home the other day, mother hastened to investigate and found Tommy deep in sobful distress. Close by stood brother Jimmy, two years older.

"Jimmy," demanded the mother, looking from one to the other, "what's the matter with your brother Tommy?"

"He is crying," explained Jimmy,
"because I am eating my cake and won't give him any."

"That's not nice," said mother, severely. "Is his own cake finished?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered Jimmy,
"and he cried while I was eating that, too."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Sea-Goers

"Ah!" cried the Viking's daughter as she caught the flying spray in her radiant face, "a life on the ocean wave for me! Isn't it perfectly gorgeous, Algie?"

"O—h—h, yes," gurgled Algie, making a break for the rail, "O, yes
—ah—ah—disgusting." — September Lippincott's.

The Necessary Glass

"Yes, my friends," exclaimed a lecturer, "there are many excuses for the glass. The sick man says he must have his glass to make him well. The shivering taxicab man must have his glass to make him warm. The sweating mechanic must have his glass to make him cool."

"But they lie, friends. Don't believe the workman who says he can't work without his glass. I defy anyone to mention to me a workman who cannot work as well and better without his glass as with it."

A voice is the back of the hall made itself audible.

"I'll tell yer one!"

"I defy you to do so," said the lecturer. Then the voice observed:

"The glazier can't do without his glass."

The lecturer continued his oration at a decided disadvantage.—

Axes to Grind

Sir George Paish, the English economist, said to a New York reporter:

"There are world wide prospects of good times. They who bewail bad times have no rhyme or reason to do so, except that they've got an ax to grind."

"They remind me of the ragged urchin crying in the slums."

"What are you crying for?" the rich lady visitor asked.

"Dunno," he replied. "Wotcher got?"

Liquid to Put Out Fire.

The nervous housewife who lives in constant dread of fire may, with very little trouble, make an extinguisher that will put out a blaze if used at once. All she needs to do is to put three pounds of salt in a gallon of water, and to this add a pound and a half of sal ammoniac. This liquid should be bottled, and when the fire is discovered it should be poured on it.

"I reckon it ain't right," said Brick Willock to Bill Atkins as they went one morning to examine their traps before Lahoma was astir, "to keep our little gal to ourselves as we're doing. You're getting old, Bill, awful old—"

"Well, damn it," growled Bill, "I guess I don't have to be told!"
"You ain't very long for this world, Bill, not in the ordinary course of nature. And when I've laid you to rest under the rock-pile, Lahoma ain't going to find the variety in me that she now has in the two of us. Besides which, I'm in the fifties myself, and them is halves of hundreds."

"Yes," Bill growled, "and give Lahoma time, she'll die, too. Noth-
look out on the plains. Lord, Brick, who do you reckon'll be living in that cove, when we three are dead and gone?"

"Guess I'll be worrying about something else, then."

"Do you reckon," pursued Bill, in an unwonted tone of mellowness,
"that those who come to live in our dugout will ever imagine what happy hours we've passed there, just sitting around quiet and enjoying ourselves and one another?"

"They wouldn't imagine you was enjoying of yourself, not if they was feeding their eyes on you every day.
But I'm awful bothered about Lahoma.
I tell you, it ain't right to keep her shut up as in a cage. Can't you see she's pining for high society such as I ain't got in me to supply, and you are too cussed obstinate to display?"

"I guess that's so," Bill drew himself stiffly up by the tree above—they were ascending the wooded gully that extended from base to mountain-top. "Well, what's the hurry? She's only seventeen years old."

"Yes, she was only seventeen years old, two years ago; but she's nineteen now."

Bill Atkins sank upon a rock at the foot of a bristling cedar. "Nineteen Who, Lahoma? Then where've
I been all the time?"

"You've been a-traveling along at a pretty fast clip toward your last days, that's where you've been. Just look at yourself! Ain't you always careful in making your steps as if scared of breaking something? And now, you're out of breath!"

"It was knocked out by the thought of her being so old—but I guess you're right. Well, I wouldn't call her life caged-up. The settlers have been moving in pretty steadily, and she has friends amongst all the families where there's woman-folks.
She has her own pony, and is gone more than suits me; and although there's no young man disposable, we ain't fretting about that, nor her neither."

"I used to think she might be foolish about Wilfred Compton—but Lahoma, she ain't foolish about nothing. Nevertheless, Bill, it ain't right. Settlers is settlers, and what she yearns for is the big world. I would long since of took her out to see it, but damn't from a liability to be caught up for divers deeds that was unlawfully charged to me in times past you could have guided her along the city trails, but was too cussed obstinate."

"She's your cousin," retorted Bill, "and it wasn't for me to act her guardian. Besides, did you want to lose her? You couldn't take Lahoma where she'd be seen and known, and expect to get her back again. Maybe it isn't exactly fair to keep her hoarded up—but the times are changing all that, and sorry am I to see it. Do you know, Brick, I once thought you and me and Lahoma could just live here in the cove till time was no more, reading our books, and smoking our pipes, and taking peaceful morning trips like this—to see whether we'd caught a coyote in our traps, or a bobcat, or a skunk."

"Yes, that's all right for us; but Lahoma ain't smoking no pipe, nor is her interest in skunks such as ours."

"Just so—but see how Greer County is getting settled up—that's what's going to save us, Brick—civilization is coming to Lahoma, she won't have to go out gunning after it."

"Of course I've thought of that. I

CATARRH OF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER

Peruna Saved Me

Mrs. Powers, whose address is given below her portrait, is an ardent friend of Peruna.
She says:
"I am thankful to tell you that my old trouble has never bothered me any since you received my testimonial. Any one wishing to know the facts in my case, if they will write me I will be glad to answer. Your medicine has saved me, and gave me perfect health. I frequently meet friends that knew me when I was in poor health. They ask me what has made such a change in me. I always tell them that it was the nerve remedy, Peruna. I shall praise Peruna as long as I live."

Catarrh of the Internal Organs

Mrs. A. T. Powers, R. R. 7, Box 121, London, Ohio, writes: "I write to thank you for the wonderful good your Peruna has done for me. I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for twenty-two years. Two years ago I began to take Peruna, and I only took about three bottles and today I can say I am a well person."

Catarrh is liable to affect any of the internal organs. This is especially true of the bladder, which is very frequently the seat of catarrh. This is sometimes called cystitis.

Mr. James M. Powell, No. 1629 W.
Walnut St., Rosedale, Kansas, writes:
"About four years ago I suffered with a severe catarrh of the bladder, which caused continued irritation and pain. I was miserable and could not stand up or walk for any length of time without extreme weariness and pain. I began taking Peruna and it greatly relieved me and in eleven weeks I was completely cured, and felt like a new man."

Those who object to liquid medicine can now procure Peruna in Tablet form.

don't have to wait to be let in an idea after it's put its clothes on.
Maybe they comes in nothing but a nightshirt, but I ain't ever known you to think of nothing yet, that I hadn't entertained in some fashion.
Of course, civilization is a-creeeping up to the mountain, and I reckon by the time Lahoma is my age it'll be playing an organ in church. But she's at the age that calls for quick work—she's got the rest of her life to settle down in. Most all of a person's life is spent in settling and it's befitting to lay in the foundation foretime. Look at that dear girl in The Children of the Abbey, all them love-passages and the tears she sheds
—she was being a young woman!"

What would that noble book of been had that lovely creature been shut up in a cove till nineteen years of age? Is Lahoma going to have a chance like that amongst the settlers? Will she ever hear that high talk, that makes your flesh sort of creep with pride in your race when you read it aloud?"

"Do you want Lahoma to have a lover, Brick Willock?"

"Bill, if he is fit, I say she ought to have a chance."

"And where are you going to find the man?"

"I'm going to help Lahoma find him. I like you, Bill, I hate that lover like a snake this minute, although I ain't no idea who, where, or what he is, or may be. I hate him —but I ain't going to stand in Lahoma's way. No, sir, I low to meet civilization half-way. There it is—look!"

Willock stood erect and pointed toward the plain, where perhaps twenty tents had been pitched within the last two weeks. Bill gave an unwilling glance, shrugged his shoulders disdainfully, and resumed progress up the difficult defile.

Willock continued: "Two weeks ago, there wasn't nothing there but naked sand. Now there's three saloons, a hardware store, a grocery, a bank—all of 'em under canvas—
and the makings of a regular town.
Right out there in the broiling sun!
Carloads of lumber and machinery is on its way, and the stage-coach will be putting off mail there before long. That's how civilization is a-seeking out our little gal. But I means to meet it half-way."

Limitations of the Human Eye.

The greatest astronomers, like Sir William Herschel, have made their most valuable discoveries by comparatively low-power telescopes. The eye of man, unless some new laws of optics are discovered, will never be able to see any small object on the moon, no matter how powerful our telescopes are made. We may see mountains and craters—that is about all.

Flowers in the Alps.

If the snow happens to be very deep in the Alps it is not at all uncommon to find plants which open their flowers before the surface is reached. Thus the flowers blossom in a small cavity of frozen snow. This flowering is not limited to the opening of the petals alone, for in not a few cases the stamens will actually bring their pollen to perfection. All this goes on although the soldanellas have not felt the sun.

Weights of Different Shoes.

In Haverhill, Mass., where they know, they say that a pair of men's dress shoes weighs a little more than two pounds, a pair of men's street shoes about two and one-half pounds, and a pair of men's work shoes three pounds or more. A woman's shoe weighs about three-quarters of a pound. A pair of silk pumps may weigh only a pound.

Building Character.

We prepare ourselves for sudden deeds by the reiterated choice of good or evil that gradually determines character.—George Eliot.

GERMAN TROOPS HURRY TO FRONT

Reinforcements Are Rushed Into Belgium Through Aix La Chapelle

ANTWERP, Sept. 16.—The Germans are rushing fresh troops into Belgium from Aix La Chappelle, but whether these are intended to strengthen the forces now here or are to be sent to the south is not yet known.

The Belgian forces again have retired to the protection of the outer ring of the Antwerp fortifications where they are waiting developments.

It is believed a new attempt by the Germans to isolate Antwerp from the sea may be planned, but the dykes have been reopened and the country is covered with water.

Advices from Brussels say the garrison there has been reinforced and the earthworks strengthened. Additional rapid fire guns have been mounted commanding the roads to the south and west which is believed to indicate fears of an attack from the heavy allied forces near Ostend.

UNCLE SAM WILL LEAVE VERA CRUZ

Wilson Issues Orders Withdrawing Funston's Men from Occupied City of Mexico

WILL CUT DOWN BORDER GUARD

Small Patrol Is All That Will Be Left of American Soldiers Now on Rio Grande

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Uncle Sam has decided to get out of Mexico. Late yesterday afternoon President Wilson issued orders to the war department for the evacuation of Vera Cruz, taken months ago by United States troops in the near-war which forced out Dictator Victoriano Huerta.

To Cut Border Guard
Withdrawal of all American troops from the Mexican boundary, except the usual small border patrol, is planned soon by the administration.

Funston's Men Approve VERA CRUZ, Sept. 16.—Announcement that they were to evacuate Vera Cruz came as welcome news to the troops of Gen. Funston. All are tired of service in the tropics, and greeted the announcement with cheers.

Usual garrisons at the Texas, Arizona and New Mexico posts will be maintained, but the great bulk of troops which have been mobilized on the boundary for about two years will go to northern army posts.

At the navy department it was stated today that orders for all large warships to leave Mexican waters would be issued presently. The battleships and cruisers now off Vera Cruz and Tampico will return north in time to join in fall target practice off the Virginia capes.

All Out by October 15
Formal orders for departure of Gen. Funston and his force of 7,000 soldiers and marines from Vera Cruz were issued today by Secretary Garrison. By October 15, it is expected that the withdrawal will be complete. Six army transports now in Hampton Roads will be sent south by Saturday and about ten more will be sent from Galveston and New Orleans.

Secretary Garrison was busy today upon formalities attending the turning over of Vera Cruz to the constitutionalists. Gen. Carranza will be asked to appoint some one formally to receive the port from Gen. Funston. Customs funds collected by Funston, including a percentage claimed by France, may be held temporarily in escrow.

Mexicans Rejoice
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16.—The celebration of the 104th anniversary of Mexican independence was marked today by the greatest rejoicing throughout the capital, following the announcement of Gen. Carranza that President Wilson had ordered the withdrawal of American troops from Vera Cruz.

Gen. Carranza appeared on the balcony of the national palace at midnight and announced the receipt of a telegram from Juan Urquidá.

OSTEND, Sept. 16.—A wounded Belgian soldier here is extremely proud of the fact that he slept in the asparagus beds about Malines. For two days he slept in the fields after being wounded. "Malines has the best asparagus in the world, and I slept on it," he said proudly.

GIRL TRIES LIFE OF RAILROAD "BO"

Pretty Sixteen Year Old Lanesboro Lass Joins Her Brother on "Bumming" Expedition

FOUND IN RAILROAD YARDS

Taken Into Custody with Relative and Bewhiskered "Knight of the Road" and Given to Uncle

Enthusied by her brother's tales of "beating the railroads," Julia Travis, aged 16, Lanesboro, Minn., joined her 21 year old brother on a "bumming" tour.

She, with her brother, and a bewhiskered tramp whom they had met enroute from Lanesboro to La Crosse, were found in the North side yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad early this morning by members of the La Crosse police force. Railroad men had seen the girl and notified the police department.

The young lady was turned over to her uncle, Tom Travis, local saloonkeeper, and will be returned to her home in Lanesboro. The brother and the tramp are being held temporarily at central police station.

RIBS CRACKED BY BURSTING HOSE

Oscar Bowman of Minneapolis, a freight conductor on the River division of the Milwaukee road, sustained two fractured ribs yesterday afternoon when a piece of a bursted air-hose was thrown through the cupola window of the caboose, striking him in the body.

The train had just left River Junction for La Crosse when the air-hose between the caboose and the car ahead burst, throwing a casting upwards and against the end of the car and into the window of the caboose. A brakeman happened to be in the caboose at the time and helped the injured man to the floor. The St. Francis hospital ambulance was called, as soon as the train pulled into the north side. Bowman is getting along nicely this morning.

THE GREATEST OF ALL COMBINATION RANGES

The "GARLAND" Combination COAL, GAS and WOOD RANGE

is recognized by all leading authorities as the simplest and most practical range of its kind on the market. Seven stove factories have copied it, which is proof that it is the best. A poor article is never copied.

You Should Have a "Garland"

Combination Range

Because—you can use gas in the summer and coal in the winter. Because—these two stoves (coal and gas) take up no more room than one stove. Because—these chilly mornings a little fire in the stove heats the whole house and makes it comfortable.

With the "GARLAND" No Changing of Burners Is Necessary.

As an inducement to buy this week we are offering free a seven piece set of Aluminum ware as shown in the cut. This week only. Price of range is $55.00. To persons with approved credit we will sell for $10 down when purchase is made and $5.00 every month until paid for.

To Mend Celluloid.

Any article made of celluloid may be mended with collodion. Scratch the broken edges to be mended with a sharp knife until a smooth surface is secured. Apply the collodion and press tightly together for several minutes. Let stand at least twenty-four hours. Liquid collodion will answer as well, since the main ingredient is collodion.

Appetite Follows Good Digestion

Nearly everyone indulges their appetite and the digestive organs are abused, resulting in a congestion of poisonous waste that clogs the bowels and causes much misery and distress.

The most effective remedy to correct this condition is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a natural, pleasant-tasting remedy, gentle yet positive in action, and quickly relieves indigestion, constipation, sick headache, belching, etc. Drug stores sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and in thousands of homes it is the indispensable family remedy. For a free trial bottle write Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

GERMANS CLAIM FRENCH HALTED IN FORWARD MOVE

Say They Have Checked the Allies in Entire Offensive Move in France

SAY PLANS ARE SUCCESSFUL

Deny Big Allied Victory on Marne and Say They Were Not Defeated

BERLIN, Via The Hague, Sept. 16.—The official statement issued today at the war office emphasizes the fact that the Germans have now succeeded in checking the entire offensive movement of the allies in France. It is stated that the German army is now entrenched in new strong positions and that at a number of points the Germans have succeeded in driving the French-British lines back on their supports. Reports of the general staff all agree that the new plan of campaign is working out in a very satisfactory manner.

It is also made evident that the German forces, which are operating in East Prussia continue to drive the Russians back and it is believed that an invasion in force of Russian Poland may be about to commence.

On both the east and western frontiers, the report says, the German forces are successfully carrying out their general plan of campaign.

The explanation for the withdrawal of a portion of the German left wing is given as the presence of a superior French force. The operations about Verdun, however, are being pressed, it is stated.

The official war office statement denies a French victory at the battle of the Marne. It is explained that withdrawals to selected positions were made when the aerial corps reported the presence on the German front of an army overwhelmingly larger.

PLAGUE IN ITALY

Wouldn't Do in America.

A woman from Germany was visiting little Herman's mother one day. Herman was trying to make a kite. He asked the guest if she knew how to make a tail for his kite. She told him she did not know how the little American boys made tails for their kites, but she knew how the little German boys made them. She knotted up some strips of paper, and when he saw it he said: "Oh, my, that will never fly in America."

CHEESE SALES IN COUNTY INCREASE

Cheese Production and Sales Increase Although Creamery Men Claim War Cuts Business

Despite the fact that Wisconsin cheese men have claimed that the European war is hurting their business, La Crosse county assessors' books for 1914 show an increase in production and sale of cheese and creamery products over 1913.

The sales of creameries and cheese factories in the county show an aggregate sum of $918,508.82.

There are seven creameries in the county, and three cheese factories. Wisconsin cheese dealers some time ago combined in a move to interest Wisconsin congressmen in a proposed bill to permit the issuance of government warehouse receipts for southern cotton, to relieve the tense financial strain caused by the European war.

It appears that a great quantity of cheese is used by southern negroes, who depend on their cotton crop for a living each year. Reports reaching the cheese men are that the south is financially crippled as a result of not being able to ship cotton to European mills.

Hope helps some if a man is a hustler.

BALTIC SEA BATTLE IS FOUGHT BUT THE RESULT IS UNKNOWN

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Although it is accepted in official circles that a naval battle has been fought in the Baltic, not a particle of information concerning the outcome is obtainable here. Dispatches from Petrograd are so badly mutilated by the censor that their information does not enlighten.

Naval experts here declare that whatever fighting has taken place has probably been between the smaller units of the fleet, because the German fleet would hardly attempt to force an entrance of the Gulf of Finland, which is mined and well protected by cross-fire fortresses. But this would not prevent small German craft attempting a dash in the hope of luring out into the open the Russian fleet.

All of the reports received from Scandinavian sources tell of heavy firing in the Baltic near the Åland Islands. The fact that Berlin officially admits part of the Baltic fleet has been engaged is considered very significant here as (the remainder of the paragraph was eliminated by the censor.)

SHOWS WONDERS OF LIQUID GAS BEGIN TO DRAFT "WAR TAX" BILL

Frederick Andrews Creates Temperature High Enough to Fuse Steel 312 Degrees Below

Creating a temperature high enough to fuse a steel pen in a small glass coated outside with deep frost, freezing flowers instantly to such brittleness that they could be crumpled to powder with a touch, and actually drinking a liquid at a temperature of 312 degrees below zero were a few of the stunts which Frederick Andrews, who is to demonstrate the possibilities of liquid oxygen at the Majestic, did for a Tribune reporter today.

Perhaps his most uncanny effect was fusing the steel pen. Pouring a little of his sparkling, bubbling liquid oxygen into an ordinary glass, which immediately became heavily coated with frost, he thrust into the glass a pen, upon the point of which was impaled a lighted match. There was a blinding light and a brief sputter. Andrews withdrew the pen. It was burned off for half its length. The demonstrator explained that the pure oxygen vapor made practically perfect combustion, and that the steel had actually burned up. Despite the intense heat required to fuse the steel, the frost on the outside of the glass was undisturbed.

A glowing cigarette thrust into the glass blazed up and was consumed in a minute, and when a little of the liquid was poured into a small-necked bottle into which the mouth-piece of a horn was thrust, the instrument immediately blazed like a sleigh-bell party. Mr. Andrews explained that the horn was tooted by the high pressure of the evaporation vapor of the liquid gas.

Liquid oxygen, he said, cannot be enclosed—without an explosion. He carries his supply about in open topper calorific bottles, and has a ten per cent daily loss from evaporation, he said.

Stamp Levy and Imports on Beer, Wines and Tobacco Are Planned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Chairman Underwood of the house ways and means committee today began drafting the internal revenue "war tax" bill authorized by the democratic caucus to carry a stamp tax similar to that of Spanish-American war times and imposes on beer, wines and tobacco to raise the $105,000,000 annual revenue needed.

Introduction of the bill Saturday is planned by Underwood. It will probably be favorably reported Monday and passed, under a special rule by the end of the week.

Abandonment of the plan to tax freight three per cent and raise income taxes, left the democrats in practical accord today.

The new taxes will go into effect immediately upon passage of the bill.

Protests against the proposed tax scheme began to reach the ways and means committee today. Wine producers and bankers are objecting.

The democratic taxation plans briefly are as follows:

Fifty cents a barrel on beer to raise $32,000,000.

Twelve cents a gallon on dry domestic wines, twenty cents on sweet wines, to raise $8,000,000.

Two cents a gallon on gasoline, to raise $20,000,000.

Special "occupation" taxes on bankers, brokers, theatres, circuses, concert halls, pawnbrokers, billiard and pool tables, bowling alleys, tobacco manufacturers and dealers, etc., to raise $5,800,000.

Stamp taxes on commercial instruments, bonds, stocks, checks, telegrams, etc., to raise about $35,000,000.

And many a good physician goes from bad to worse.

ITALY ABOUT TO CAST HER LOT IN WITH THE ALLIES AGAINST KAISER

LONDON, Sept. 16.—There is a growing belief in diplomatic circles that Italy has at last decided definitely to aid the allies. The anti-Austrian feeling continues to grow and the admission that Italian troops from the Adriatic and the Tyrol regions were put in the very front rank and sacrificed in the Galician and Russian Poland fighting, has fanned the flame against Austria. All of the radical groups are urging the government to act. Lengthy cabinet conferences are being held.

The new Roumanian cabinet is reported to be anxious to execute an agreement with Italy whereby the two nations will act in concert against Austria.

CONSERVATIVES ON STATE COMMITTEE

That Wing Controls Majority of Nominations for Central Body at Madison Meeting

CONVENTION MUST APPROVE LIST

Doubtful if All Names Presented Will Be O. K'd. by That Body; Social Democrats Elect

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 16.—(Special.)—At 11 o'clock today the republican platform committee, which was overwhelmingly progressive, had completed its labors but it will take over an hour to transcribe the planks and the convention is scheduled to meet at noon.

When the committee was first selected it was believed to be safely in the hands of the stalwarts. It turned out, however, that the progressives were in the majority and that the stalwarts were supported by only three or four votes in roll call compared to a dozen progressives. A majority report has been prepared which will be signed by practically every member of the committee.

There will be two minority reports. One will be presented by Senator Bosshard commending the constitutional amendments. The other will be offered by Emanuel Philipp and will ask for changes in the primary law so that a convention system will prevail. Philipp's primary plank was defeated by the committee by a 3 to 1 vote. The committee worked all night. A big fight on platform is probable.

The Committeemen

The committee men approved by the convention are:

First district—Charles J. Sumner, Delavan; George B. Harris, Waukegan.

Second district—William Kohl, Mayville; H. E. Andrews.

Third district—Dr. Frank Smith, Madison; M. J. Cleary, Blanchardville.

Fourth district—Richard Gumz and George Meredith, both of Milwaukee.

Fifth district—George A. West and E. B. Genrich.

Sixth district—Charles Nitzel, Black Wolf; Edward Lyons, Fond du Lac.

Seventh district—George H. Gordon, La Crosse; George F. Cooper, Black River Falls.

Eighth district—George B. Nelson, Stevens Point; E. F. Kileen, Wautoma.

Ninth district—A. W. Sanborn, Ashland; and George O'Connor, Eagle River.

The following members of the resolution committee were chosen by congressional districts:

First district—Senator L. E. Cunningham, Beloit.

Second district—R. B. Melvin, Greenbush.

Third district—Platt Whitman, Highland.

Fourth district—E. T. Fairchild, Milwaukee.

Fifth district—J. S. Fletcher, Milwaukee.

Sixth district—F. J. Taugher, Manitowish County.

Seventh district—Senator Otto Bosshard, La Crosse.

Eighth district—G. J. Leicht, Medford.

Ninth district—Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay.

Tenth district—W. A. Kay, Spring Valley.

Eleventh district, Ray J. Nye, Superior.

Socialists Elect

The social democratic convention Tuesday named a new state central committee. Oscar Houck, La Crosse, was chosen a member and Edward Biegler, Milwaukee, chairman.

Prohibition

The prohibitionists named a new state central committee with Oliver Needham, La Crosse, a member.

Robber Kills His Victim and Sheriff

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 16.—H. T. Trout, prominent business man at Harvard, Neb., was shot and killed in his office at 6:30 this morning. An empty pocketbook found on the floor suggested robbery as the motive. Sheriff Charles Sanderson and a posse overtook the murderer near Giltner and in a running battle Sanderson was killed and George W. Phillips seriously wounded. The murderer escaped.

LA CROSSE TRIBUNE

BELGIUM PROTESTS TO THE PRESIDENT

Lay Allegations of German Brutality and Get Non-committal Answer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The president this afternoon cabled to the kaiser a reply to his message protesting against alleged atrocities of war practiced by the enemies of Germany. The president stated that the United States cannot take definite action in response to the protest and expressed the feeling that the "kaiser can not expect me to say any more."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Belgium's bill of complaint against the German army was this afternoon laid before President Wilson, executive of one of the few neutral powers among the great nations.

In the historic east room of the White House the president received the delegation of commissioners appointed by King Albert to protest against alleged outrages in Belgium by German troops.

A brief carefully prepared response by the president awaited the commissioners, who were accompanied by and introduced to President Wilson by Secretary of State Bryan, E. Havenith, Belgian consul, and attaches of the Belgian legation.

A formal statement of the charges of numerous and various atrocities against the Germans, most of which have been previously been made public, was given out by the commissioners after the first audience.

After receiving the protest of the Belgians, President Wilson made a brief address in which he said in part that it was a pleasure to receive the representatives of such a nation for whom the United States entertains a sincere respect, and continued:

"It would be unwise, it would be premature for a single government, however fortunately separated from the present struggle, it would even be inconsistent with the neutral position of any nation which like this has no part in the contest, to form or express a final judgment."

In conclusion the president thanked the delegates for choosing the United States "as the friends before whom you could lay any matter of vital consequence to yourselves."

GORDON A MEMBER OF STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE TODAY

The support of the Seventh district members to the whole state ticket.

Bentley then sought the floor and was not permitted to speak. On motion of Hambrecht, the convention withdrew Bentley's name. The result of the ballot was Gordon 45, Stone 41, Cooper 63, Gordon and Cooper were declared elected.

McGovern Man Chosen

Alvin T. Kletzsch, of Milwaukee, a McGovern supporter, was elected chairman of the state central committee.

The Platform

A "compromise" platform was adopted. It favors principally:

A public utility law regulating rates and manner of service of gas and electric light companies and similar agencies; legislation protecting and advancing welfare of laboring men; limitation of hours of female workers; shorter hours for railway employees.

The convention also approved the framing of a stringent corrupt practices act, two cent passenger fares on railways and favored retention of the railroad and industrial commissions and a workmen's compensation law.

Other planks were: Effective weights and measures law; reasonable child labor law; eight hour law on public buildings and public works; mandatory law for minors engaged in manual labor to receive certain amounts of educational instruction; a strict dairy food law; conservation of natural resources.

Stalwart Planks Missing

The platform makes no reference to the repeal of the primary law nor to the abolition of the state reference library (Bill Factory).

PROTEST TO TURKEY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Secretary of State Bryan announced a note had been dispatched to the Turkish government protesting against the abrogation of the treaties guaranteeing extra territorial rights to Americans.

LOVE LAUGHS AT ALL LAW ESPECIALLY THE SPEEDING ORDINANCE

"Love knows no law." Least of all does Dan Cupid care for La Crosse speed ordinances.

Miss Edna Rochelt and Edward Welmer were married last night at the home of the bride's parents, 1314 Johnson street. While Kreutz's orchestra was playing, the couple and a few friends entered an auto for a ride about the city. Hilarious, the driver, a close friend, "hit 'er up," the attached tin cans and bells providing ample signal to unwary pedestrians.

Then a policeman stopped them. He had orders to take speeders to central station.

Seeing the white ribbons he ordered the driver to proceed but report at central station this morning.

Nothing was done—most policemen are married.

prisoners of war will be sent to concentration camps in Africa for safekeeping, as they are now getting too many to keep in the ordinary camps.

Indians to Front

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The allied lines in France have been reinforced by the arrival of the first detachment of the Indian troops who made the trip by way of the Suez canal and were rushed to the front from South France by rail. These troops, it is understood, are cavalry, and they will be welcomed, as the French cavalry horses are reported badly worn out. It is believed here they will reinforce Sir John French, who is reported as initiating an enveloping movement to cut off the right wing of the German army.

Evidence that the German army of invasion has now succeeded in reforming under cover of its rear guard and is fighting hard for an opportunity to renew the offensive, is contained in the official report of the war office. They say that serious fighting has been in progress for two days along the battle line but they insist that at no point have the Germans been able to take the initiative.

The real contest, it is between the main central French armies, now under the direct command of General Joffre in person, according to reports current at the war office, and the combined armies of the crown prince, Frederick Wilhelm, and the Duke of Wurtemberg. This battle is devastating the wonderful champagne country of France, of which Rheims is the center. It is ideal ground for a finish fight, rolling territory and small hills covered with grape vines.

The result of this battle will determine whether the Germans can remain in France or whether they will be forced to retire behind their own frontier.

A report from Berlin which reached London from Rome today has puzzled many of the military experts. It stated that the Germans had officially admitted Liege was to be abandoned. Why this was to be so could not be figured out and it was generally accepted to be a mistake although Italian newspapers were quoted as saying the Germans had decided to retire to their fortresses on the Rhine and maintain a strong defense until they could transport most of their active army east to crush the Russians.

SPOTLIGHTS

FISKE O'HARA

The Ould Sod never had a more magnetic or delightful interpreter of its characters than Fiske O'Hara, who is booked to appear here next week. To begin with, Fiske O'Hara is an excellent actor, with a fine sense of analysis of character, which shows itself in his impersonation of the many and varied characters allotted him in his plays. He is progressive, too, and year after year steadily improves both in his acting and singing. His beautiful tenor voice is stronger and richer now than ever it was, and his art is also riper and more matured. There are few ballad singers in this country worth mentioning, and Fiske O'Hara is at the head of the list. His songs in "Jack's Romance" which he will present here, are said to be among the best he has yet had, and are being whistled all around the country. La Crosse Theater Saturday, Sept. 19, matinee and night.

"WAR TAX" BILL IS UP TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Launching of an internal revenue "war tax" bill which will get undivided democratic support was President Wilson's prime task today upon his return from a week-end vacation at Cornish.

An announcement of the president's views was expected later today. Definite action is planned at the caucus of the house democrats tonight.

BOMB HIT ROOF BUT ALL ESCAPED

Aged Dame Frochard of Antwerp Felt First Bomb Ever Dropped in Warfare

AIMED AT PALACE OF KING

Dropped from Mile in Air but Struck Only a Block from the Target

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPARD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ANTWERP, August 31, By Mail to New York.—You can go and see Dame Frochard and talk to her if you want to. She is 84 years old and nothing very big had happened to her all her life until one o'clock the other morning, while she was sleeping.

Now after all these eighty-four years of quiet living, she's taken around the palace and carried before gentlemen, commissioners and statesmen and treated just exactly as she should be under the circumstances.

Dame Frochard is quite well and whole, though it's a wonder; so are her grand children, Etienne, a boy of 12, and Genevieve, 17. The point of it all is that Dame Frochard's house was struck by the first bomb that was ever dropped in warfare from the sky. Such distinction is very fine—if you come out whole as Dame Frochard and children did.

Saw Stars Blotted Out.

It was shortly after midnight when late bed-goers in Antwerp first heard the noise in the sky. They rushed into the streets to look up. Every star was in its place as usual; that is at first. Then some stars began to blink oddly, one after another; long slow blinks far apart. Finally overhead across the "milky way" an Antwerp policeman told me, a great black form slipped through the sky, not silently, but making a whirl like a giant taxicab. Soon it was over the city. Only a few saw the first bomb drop. What they really saw was the spark of the fuse. Away up there in the sky, a brawny German—maybe two or three of them—lifted a great shrapnel shell over the side of the car and let it drop down, down into the city.

One bomb was for the palace where the king and queen were sleeping. It hit within a block of the building, which is pretty good marksmanship when you're dropping things nearly a mile. The airmen must have planned out by maps and the lighted streets below just what roof covered the king and queen. And their bomb hit the roof which Dame Frochard slept under.

Four More Bombs

The explosion aroused the city. Four more followed in different parts of town in quick succession. Evidently the Zeppelin was circling over the town. Then it went away through the night, marking its pathway by the noise and its shadow against the stars.

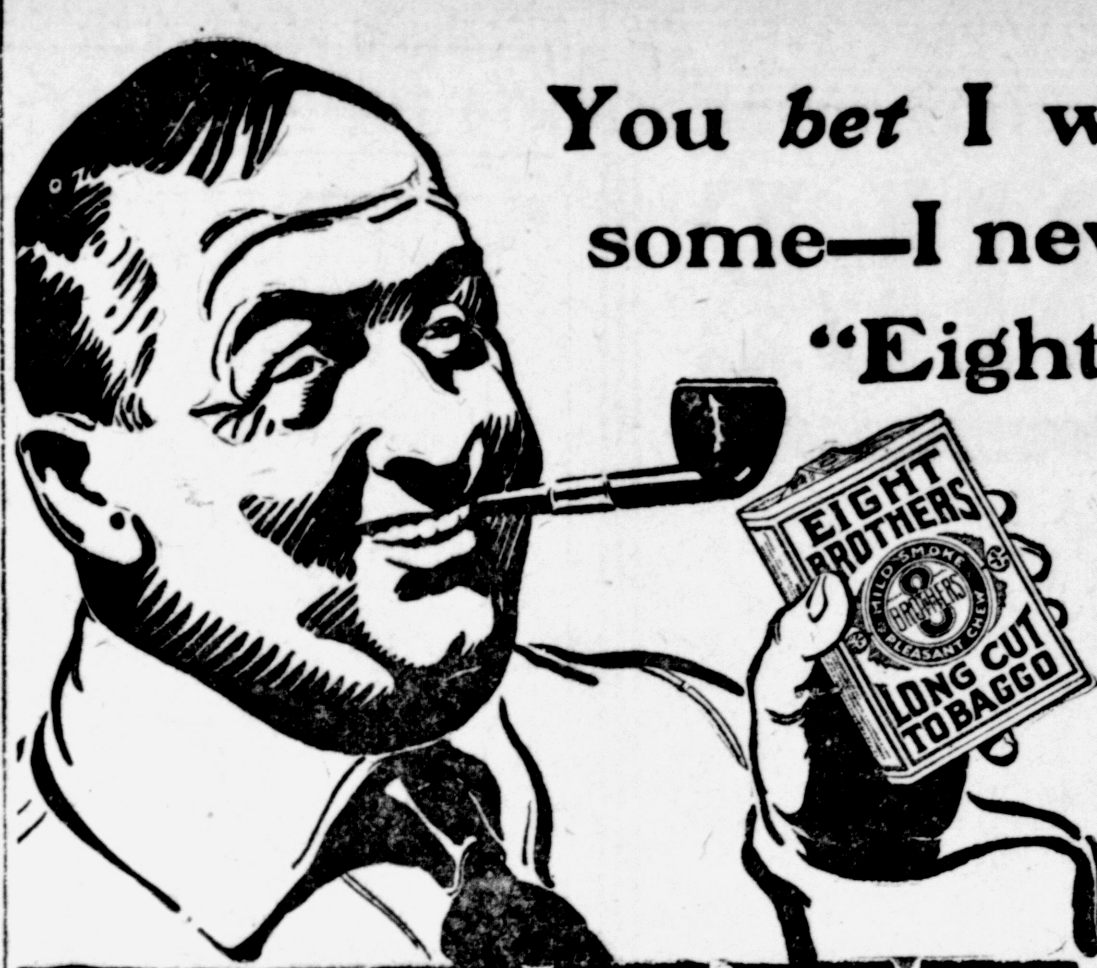

Patrol wagons and soldiers dashed hither and thither. Telephone calls came into the police station from the water front and from the district where Dame Frochard's house stood. The police found Dame Frochard and the children covered with plaster and broken boards with nothing much but the sky above them, and the front wall of the building lying in the street. How they escaped is inexplicable. The Belgians told me that persons were killed in four different sections of the town that night, one little child and two women among them.

Dame Frochard, who is 84 and knows many things, told me that may be it was because they hadn't said their "Now I lay me" as she and Etienne and Genevieve had done.

Now there are no more lights at night in the street of Antwerp and even the curtains of lighted houses must be drawn.

GERMANS LEAVE CITY IN BELGIUM

OSTEND, Sept. 16.—The German division which has been holding Alost has evacuated the city in order to proceed to the aid of the main German army, which is now being hard pressed by the Belgians. It is believed here that the Germans will be compelled to evacuate Brussels in the very near future. Already most of the troops posted in the vicinity of the Belgian capital have left.

But It Can't Be Gathered.

A Berlin professor estimates the commercial value in electricity of a flash of lightning lasting for one-thousandth of a second at 29 cents.

AERIAL BOMB KILLS 15

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Gen. French in reporting to the war office today, explained that he had not been using the British aviation corps for bomb dropping, the members being needed chiefly for the collection of information. He reported one night raid on a German bivouac, however, which was successful. An aviator dropped a petrol bomb, which struck an ammunition wagon that exploded, killing fifteen.

Unfortunate.

"Don't you feel better since you gave up smoking?" "No. I'm bothered to death trying to find out what has become of all that money I was going to save."

SOO TRIPLES CAPITAL

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 16.—The Soo line raised its capital stock from $21,000,000 to $63,000,000, at its annual meeting today. O. C. Wyman of Minneapolis was elected to the board of directors to succeed the late C. H. Pettit.

One on the Judge.

The pompous judge glared sternly over his spectacles at the tattered prisoner who had been dragged before the bar of justice on a charge of vagrancy. "Have you ever earned a dollar in your life?" he asked in fine scorn. "Yes, your honor," was the response. "I voted for you at the last election."

AUSTRIANS DESERT

CETTINJE, Sept. 16.—It is stated here that Lieut. Liacoff, an Austrian officer and 400 Austrian Slavs have deserted from the Austrian army and volunteered for service with the combined Servian-Montenegrin armies which are moving against Sarajevo.

NEBRASKA LOOKS FOR BANNER YEAR

Undeclared Cornhuskers of 1913 Expect Repetition of Success of the Team

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 16.—Five, and perhaps seven veterans of the undefeated University of Nebraska eleven of 1913, will answer the first practice call September 20, and Coach Steinhilber has an excellent string of last year's freshmen from which to pick the balance of his eleven.

Captain Halligan, a star tackle; Cameron, another tackle; Rutherford, halfback; Howard, fullback; and Abbott, guard, the men upon whom Steinhilber is certain he can rely. Ballis, a 1913 tackle, and Lastin, an end, are expected to return to school this year.

Doyle, a halfback; Caley and Amack, ends; Corey and Harris, tackles; and Shields, a guard, are the most promising of the new men. Steinhilber's hardest task will be to develop a speedy backfield. The Cornhuskers' schedule this year is a disappointment to Nebraska rooters who hoped to see Nebraska extend the circle of her gridiron activities. The University of Iowa is the only one of the western conference schools on the list. The athletic authorities were unable to agree with the University of Minnesota on dates for this year and the Minnesota contest, looked forward to as a feature of the Nebraska program was shelved. While the dickerings with the Gophers was on, the Cornhuskers lost an opportunity to grasp the only vacant date on Notre Dame's schedule, another keen disappointment.

The Michigan Aggies, another team that proved a 1913 surprise by trimming western conference schools, will come to Lincoln October 24 for what is expected to be the stiffest battle on the Cornhuskers' schedule. The schedule complete follows:

October 3—Washburn at Lincoln.
October 10—South Dakota at Lincoln.
October 17—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan, Kan.
October 24—Michigan Aggies at Lincoln.
October 31—Ames at Lincoln.
November 7—Morningside at Lincoln.
November 14—Kansas at Lincoln.
November 21—Iowa at Iowa City.

Wanted to Get It Right.

"Gertie," said a mother to her five-year-old daughter, "here's a dime; run down to the drug store and get me a bottle of sweet oil." Gertie started down the street, but soon came running back to ask: "About how sweet do you want it, mamma?"

Real Unhappiness.

Sillicus—"What's the matter, old man? You look unhappy." Cynicus—"I am. I'm almost as unhappy as a woman with a secret that nobody wants to know."—Club Fellow.

One Use of Adversity.

Sweet are the uses of adversity, and this is one of them, it puts a bridge upon transgression and furnishes a spur for holiness.—Spurgeon.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD BY REAL SHERIDAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The stupendous task of putting Frank Chance into a new job is now before the country. It took years to lure Fiedler Jones out from behind his lumber piles and back to a ball field after he left the White Sox, but he was finally lured. Until Chance is again signed up, prepare for reports of fabulous offers from all quarters. Chance is quoted today as saying he will never manage another ball club. At the same time another report declares he has a big offer under consideration and that there is a movement on foot to have Chance return to the Cubs. According to Chance he is through with the game unless he gets something "really big"—as big as the presidency of a major league club.

The Giants are back home today, where they will remain until the close of the season. Their movement upon Philadelphia resulted in their being pushed down another game behind the Braves. They are starting to make their last stand, with the Reds as their first opponents. The pitching staff is shot to pieces and the entire team appears to be rocking.

With Fromme going steadily yesterday, George Burns, who has been one of the most reliable men of the year, muffed an easy fly and paved the way for the Phillies' victory.

The Braves were outthirteen swats to seven by the Dodgers, but came through with the long end of the score. Stallings' men concentrated their fire in the second and third innings and drove Nap Rucker and Ed Reulbach to cover. The Dodgers kept pecking away at Bill James, but could not overcome the lead.

Connie Mack gave Rube Bressler, a southpaw he expects to introduce as a new world's series wonder, a workout against the Yanks. He had fine control and the Yanks were unable to do anything with him. They were able to connect for only six hits.

Manager Herzog of the Reds will not mix in the series with the Giants, announcement having been made of his suspension because of a run in with umpires.

Poor Lighting for City.

It was in 1416 the people of London first started to hang out candles upon dark nights, and it was not enforced by parliament until 1661, the year after the great fire. Edward Heming, who invented the oil lamp, was engaged in 1864 to place a light before every tenth door on moonless nights.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair, after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

ODDS WITH MANDOT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 16.—Ad Wolgast will not go into the fight with Joe Mandot Friday night as a Milwaukee favorite, for odds are being offered here on the southern following the offering of 2 to 1 on Mandot in his home city, New Orleans. Wolgast has been unfortunate in his late fights here, breaking a rib or a hand every time he fought, until his habitual backers here are chary about putting their money on him.

Where Wise Inventor Wins.

There may be a certain percentage of inconvenience to be reached before the human mind grasps the fact that something must be altered. The wise inventor, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, attains a reputation for brilliancy by making his invention before the need becomes obvious to others.

KEELER LEAVES FOR WISCONSIN

Captain of Varsity Team to Report Tomorrow for Work at Camp
Randall

Raymond "Tubby" Keeler, captain and right guard of the Wisconsin football team, will leave tomorrow for Madison today as his assistant. Tom Wilson, former Princeton line-man and all-American.

Keeler is decidedly optimistic over the chances of the team this year. Reports that Lamberton of Winona, a product of last year's Princeton team and Guyton, the Carlisle Indian, are thinking of entering Wisconsin, have brought a smile to his face.

Lamberton would make a welcome addition to the squad, as he played a star game with the Tigers last fall. Guyton, Indian halfback, would bolster the backfield wonderfully.

In Arlie Mucks of Oshkosh, the 268 pound Olympic trackman, Keeler predicts one of the best centers in the conference. He is confident that the big fellow will land the job.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidney-needs and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Higher Liverpool cables sent wheat futures for the deferred months away with gains of two and three-eighths to two and five-eighths at the start today and both December and May had further advance of 7-8c in the forenoon trading. September was not active during the forenoon.

Corn started 1-4c higher and then had a sharp bulge that sent prices up 1 1/2c for September and 3-8 to 5-8c for the deferred months. Shorts were busy buying in September, inspiring a bull movement in the other months. Oats started 5-8 to 7-8c higher and had further gain of 5-8 to 1c. The advance was based on heavy commission house demand and the bulge in other grains.

A higher hog market and the strength of grains helped provision prices which scored good gains.

Wheat and oats continued to climb in the afternoon, corn closing at noon prices. Wheat gains in the afternoon ranged from 3/4 to 7/8c and oats advanced 1/4c. Provisions were a trifle easier in the afternoon.

Chinese Serial Dramas.
Serial drama has been popular in China for centuries. Their most famous play, "Pi-Pa-Ki—The Story of the Lute," written in the fourteenth century, is divided into twenty-four sections and innumerable acts and scenes, and takes several days to perform. And Chinese plays of forty long acts, lasting a week or two, are quite common. In England the longest play ever written, but not performed, was an unnamed drama, in twenty-five acts, by "Mad Nat Lee."

Practical Prescription Against Stomach Acidity

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce stomach ulcers which may render a radical surgical operation necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. It is utterly useless to take pepsin and ordinary stomach tablets. The excess acid or stomach hyperacidity must be neutralized by the administration of an efficient antacid. For this purpose the best remedy is bisurated magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a fourth of a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia as other forms of magnesia make effective mouth washes but they have not the same action on the stomach as the bisurated.

BRILLIANT LIGHTS FOR THE CARNIVAL

Lansing Makes Arrangements for Burning Much Electricity when the Fiesta Takes Place

LANSING, Iowa, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Strings and festoons of electric bulbs will transform Lansing into a brilliantly lighted playground for the corn carnival which is approaching. Arrangements have been made to light the entire business section with the arched lights, and booths and display cases along the street will be supplied with vari-colored lights which will flash off and on momentarily. The midnight parade which is to be one of the chief features of the carnival, will be illuminated by unusually powerful colored arc lights.

Interest in Queen Contest
Three of Lansing's rival beauties, it is understood, are preparing to enter the contest which will select the queen of the carnival. It is probable that the prize which accompanies the honor of the queen's selection will be in the shape of a sum of money instead of jewelry as had been suggested.

To Clean Chamols Leather.

Chamols leather is rather expensive, so that it is just as well to know how to clean it. Put it into a weak solution of soda into which you have thrown some grated soap. Leave it for two hours, and then rub it until clean. Finally rinse the leather in warm soap water. Wring the leather in a linen cloth and dry quickly. It can also be rubbed dry and brushed until soft.

New Race of Oysters.

A race of fresh water oysters is possibly developing in Algeria. At a late French meeting of biologists mention was made of the planting of oyster beds in the mouth of the Macta river, where a sandbank has cut them off from the Mediterranean and confined them in fresh water.

TWO SCORE ARE KILLED IN WRECK OVER A WASHOUT

Chair Car and Smoker Are Overturned Into Flood Waters and Submerged

THE IDENTIFICATION TO BE HARD

Many of the Dead Had Removed Outer Garments and Bodies Are Not Known

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 15.—At least twenty-six, possibly forty-five, are dead, the result of a railway wreck, when a Frisco passenger train bound from St. Louis to Texas points, was derailed a short distance from Lebanon, Mo., early today.

Twenty-six bodies of victims of the wreck had been recovered at 12:30 p. m., according to official information given out at the Frisco headquarters here. Identification will be difficult because many had removed their outer garments. Thirteen injured are being cared for temporarily at Lebanon but will be sent to Springfield.

Four Cars Go Over
Two mail cars went over the embankment with the smoker and the chair car. They are partly submerged, lying on the track.

At noon the subsiding waters had enabled the rescuers to enter the chair car. The smoker overturned, and its trucks were emerging from the water.

The twenty-six bodies recovered are at undertaking establishments at Lebanon.

May be 45 Dead
Unofficial estimates of the loss of life run as high as forty-five. The fatalities occurred when the Texas limited of the Frisco lines, St. Louis to Galveston, was derailed by a washout near Lebanon, Mo., early today and at least two coaches were submerged in the flooded water on Brush creek.

Rescue trains are hurrying to the scene of the wreck, 180 miles southwest of St. Louis and near Springfield, Mo. Because telegraph wires to Lebanon are down, Frisco officials here have received only meager details of the disaster.

The Known Dead
The bodies identified are: Harry Warner, St. Louis; Mrs. Elizabeth Hostetter, Alliance, Ohio; W. H. Childers, Billings, Mo.; John Meyers, wife and daughter, Thayer, Mo.; Fireman Stockstill, Springfield, Mo.

At the Frisco offices here Recovered Nixon declared the wreck was due to a flood of waters that cut a gully twelve feet deep and fifty feet long beneath the tracks near Lebanon. The limited train, which left here at 8:32 last night, plunged into this gully.

Engine in Creek
The big engine, in charge of Engineer O'Brien and Fireman Stockstill, toppled over into the water, carrying with it the two mail cars, the combination smoker and baggage car and a chair car, immediately following. Three Pullman sleeping cars and a diner on the rear of the train remained on the rails.

Occupants of the chair car and smoker and employees in the baggage car found themselves trapped like rats. Best accounts say there were sixty-eight persons in the chair car, all of whom were submerged, but many of these are known to have saved their lives by swimming to high ground. The engine crew jumped as the locomotive took the plunge. Engineer O'Brien escaped, but Fireman Stockstill is reported drowned.

Most of the dead, it is said, were occupants of the chair car.

At noon, only eighteen of the sixty-eight passengers reported to have been in the chair car had been accounted for, according to dispatches from Springfield.

The wreck occurred at 2:35 a. m. A relief train was ordered out from Springfield, but made slow progress on account of numerous washouts caused by recent heavy rains.

The chair car near the front of the train was completely submerged, according to the telephoned messages from Lebanon. Those who escaped were proficient swimmers or persons who were tossed upon the banks by the swirling current. All the survivors were compelled to smash windows of the car before they escaped from the interior. The Pullman cars, on the rear of the train, remained on the rails. The engine crew, who saw the danger, only a few seconds before the trestle was reached, had no chance to leap and were carried down with the engine. The engineer escaped by swimming, but the fireman, pinned in the cab, is reported killed.

FLIRTING WITH PROGRESSIVES

Philipp People Anxious to Promote Harmony to Insure Election of Entire State Ticket This Fall

The representatives of the Seventh Congressional district of which La Crosse is a member, presented the names of James A. Stone, Reedburg, and George F. Copper, Black River Falls, for members of the state central committee. Stone received 118 votes and Copper 11. A motion was made to make the nomination of Mr. Stone unanimous. Karl Kutenacker, assemblyman-elect, registered a protest and presented the name of George H. Gordon of La Crosse, maintaining that Stone was a progressive and the interests of Mr. Philipp could be best represented by Gordon. George Dithmar, Baraboo, maintained the district had gone unanimously for Stone but admitted that the objection of Kutenacker should be recorded by the convention. The matter was put over until Wednesday.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 15.—The republican platform convention met at 12:30 o'clock today, named William Bray of Oshkosh permanent chairman, and Senator Stark of Milwaukee permanent secretary, and then adjourned until later in the afternoon, while the congressional districts caucused on members of the resolutions committee.

The social democratic party held a perfunctory meeting. Edward Ziegler, chairman of the state central committee, was named chairman of the convention and Ferd Rehfeld, was elected secretary. The previously adopted platform was approved and the convention adjourned.

The democratic platform convention convened at 12:30 o'clock in the senate chamber and elected Carl Hanson, Manitowish, permanent chairman. A. J. Hedding, Milwaukee, was elected secretary of the convention. It then adjourned until 2:30 o'clock in order to allow the congressional districts to caucus on members of the resolutions committee, which will draft the platform.

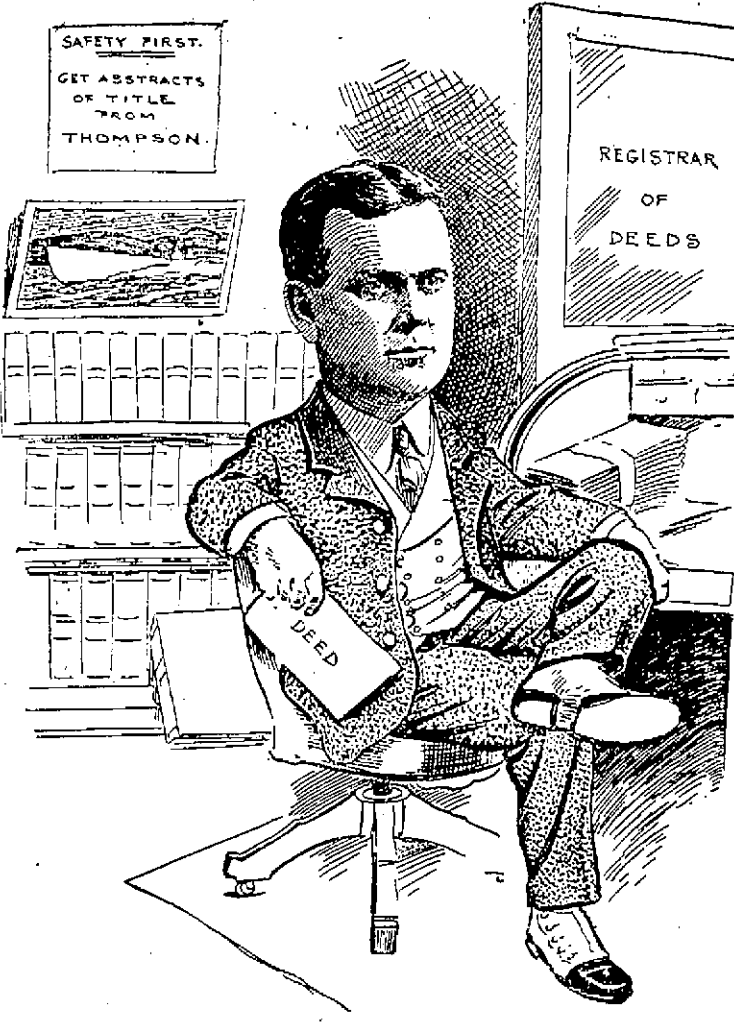

Albert Taynton was named temporary chairman and H. S. Siggeko temporary secretary of the state platform committee. The June platform, with minor changes, will be adopted.

"Bob" Men to Fight
The leading La Follette men will make their main fight for platform planks that clearly distinguish their principles from the conservative republicans. The Philipp convention, which met at Madison some months ago, declared against the constitutional amendments now pending before the people. It is said here that Senators George E. Scott and Otto Bosshard will carry the fight to the convention for an adoption of the amendment declaring for the initiative and referendum. While every attempt is being made here today to harmonize forces so that all can agree on the platform, the amendments seem to be the stumbling block. Their rejection by the convention, it is threatened, may lead to an independent movement. The Philipp followers are firm. They believe that they have their candidate nominated on the Madison convention platform and that they should not be called upon to shift at the present time.

For County Option
During the afternoon yesterday T. C. Richmond, leader of the Home Rule league, was in long conference with Mr. Philipp and it was declared last night that the platform will endorse many of the ideas advocated by the Home Rule league. Assemblyman A. E. Frederick, the "fighting parson" of Monroe county, declares that he will offer from the floor of the convention a resolution declaring for county option and a stricter regulation of the saloons. He may also offer a resolution commending the work of the recent vice investigation in the state and asking for legislation for the creation of a permanent vice commission.

So far as can be learned here today the democratic party is willing to adopt a platform that embodies many of the progressive ideas championed by Senator La Follette with the hope of influencing progressive votes. Joseph E. Davies, national committeeman, will present his resignation to the democratic convention this afternoon.

CZAR DETERMINED TO RIDE WITH HIS TROOPS INTO THE CAPITAL OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE

Report of Capture of German General Von Kluck Is Not Confirmed

CROWN PRINCE DRIVEN BACK

Heavy Rains Add to Difficulty of German Attempt to Reform Lines

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The German troops have now reached their line of defense, prepared by their sappers following their complete defeat in the battle of the Marne. As a result their retrograde movement has been halted and they are reforming under cover of their entrenched rear guard. The Germans are outnumbered by the allies and officials here do not believe they will attempt more than a momentary stand, during which they will withdraw their heavy siege artillery and refill their regiments, which have been greatly depleted by the last fortnight's fighting.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 15.—The official war bureau announced this afternoon that the success of the allies continued. All of the official reports from the theater of action agree that the Germans are still retreating, hotly pursued by the French and British forces and that thousands of prisoners are being taken.

Report Von Kluck Taken
One report, absolutely unconfirmed from any official quarter, came from the Dieppe correspondent of the Central News. He wired that the British forces, in executing a brilliant movement through Roye on the Arve at Ham, near the river Somme, were joined by fresh forces from the Boulogne district and managed to cut off the army of General Von Kluck, compelling the surrender of the general and from 15,000 to 25,000 of his troops with all of their equipment. The government is without confirmation of this report, and it is believed possible it may have been confused with the capture by the British of a German general.

TO BEND EVERY EFFORT TO THE FALL OF BERLIN

PETROGRAD, Sept. 15.—That the proposed invasion of Hungary by a strong Russian body has been definitely abandoned was intimated here today. It is realized by the Russian general staff that the German resistance will be very strong and it has been definitely decided that the entire Russian field army, first and second line troops, will be retained for the capture of Berlin. Bitterly Hates Kaiser
The czar is determined that Berlin shall be taken, if it costs the Russian empire its entire fighting strength. His former friendship for the kaiser has been replaced by an enemy which court officials say is the most bitter the czar has ever indicated against anyone. He is determined he will ride into Berlin at the head of his troops.

Because of this it is officially stated there will be no side trips. The crown land of Bukovina was taken, and the passes through the Carpathians have been held purely as defensive measures. The Russians intend to utilize part of Austria for the passage of their troops toward Berlin but it is unlikely that any real attempt will be made to invade Hungary proper.

Austria Nearly Done

There is a growing feeling here that Austria will soon admit her inability further to continue the war. The fact that her main army has been crushed and its capture is considered a strong possibility, means she will soon be no longer a factor in the war. And Russia will be inclined to be more lenient with Austria than with Germany, officials declare.

It is stated that the great mass of the Austrians who escaped slaughter in the fighting that has been in progress in eastern Galicia from the

Government Publishes Only Parts of Losses; Unemployment Problem Serious

RESULTS IN FRANCE NOT KNOWN

Berlin War Office Says Outcome Is in Doubt and Allies Are Being Held

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 15.—Advices received here from Berlin indicate that there is deep gloom everywhere throughout Germany. The government is making public only some of the losses, and the newspapers are carrying only a small percentage of even the official lists. There is declared to be grave discontent because the government has failed to make any provision for the unemployed. Business generally is at a standstill and the leading socialist newspapers are complaining because the government is employing prisoners on road work instead of hiring German unemployed.

Some of the reports received from interior Germany say that already there are whispers of an uprising by the socialists, who feel that the country has been deceived by the kaiser. These reports, however, are extremely vague and impossible of verification.

BERLIN, Via The Hague, Sept. 15.—The only statement dealing with the general war situation in the west, obtainable at the war office today, declared that the general fighting still continues with no decisive result. The efforts of the French to break through the German lines and isolate some of the armies have failed, it is announced. No details of the general fighting at any point, are obtainable.

It is announced that in East Prussia the German advance continues and the Russians have now been driven back at points across their frontier. The German forces have taken many prisoners and numerous cannons. The additional lists of casualties as published contain no new names of high officers killed.

LEAVE CHILD ON BURKHART PORCH

A story of self sacrifice on the part of a 19 year old boy, to protect the honor of a school day sweetheart, was revealed to Police Chief John E. Webber this morning when he quizzed a young couple who had confessed abandoning a five weeks' old baby on the porch of the residence of Julius Burkhardt, 1043 Main street, at 3:45 o'clock this morning.

To protect the accidental mother, and the youth who gambled his chances of future happiness to protect a woman's honor, the police and the newspapers have agreed to suppress names and addresses.

"Alice" fell in love with "Clarence," a young man who had visited to her home town in Iowa. "John" had been her sweetheart, but retired in favor of his "first love's" choice. Alice discovered that she was about to become a mother. The "dashing young man" left the country.

In desperation she appealed to her "old love."

With a complete knowledge of the facts John married Alice.

To avoid the malicious tongues of the village gossips they left town. The child was born in a hospital near La Crosse.

Knowing full well the lack of sympathy accorded the woman who has erred, they feared to take the baby home.

They decided to pick out a place where the child was likely to be received and cared for.

The home of Julius Burkhardt— noted for his love for children— was chosen. Their arrest followed.

The mother, in a cell at central police station today, is heart broken. Mother love has triumphed over fear of disgrace.

She wants her child. "We'll go home and brave it all," said John.

"What would you do in a case like that?" Chief Webber queried of newspapermen. "Shall we prosecute and print their names or shall we let them go?"

The couple will leave for Iowa tonight, convinced of their responsibility for the precious young life and steeled to face the whisperings of a gossip-hungry crowd.

REACH FORTIFIED POSITIONS NORTH OF RIVER AISNE

New Battle Is Expected to Begin Shortly as German Rear-guard Resistance Is Increasing

Entire Regiments Are Reported Cut Off and Taken by Rapid Advance

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The official bulletin, issued from the war office at Bordeaux at 3 o'clock this afternoon shows that the German retreat has been checked, and that they are now putting up a strong rear guard resistance. The report indicates a new line of battle, and is as follows: "The Germans on Monday began to resist the French advance on a line they have established north of the River Aisne and on a line through the forests of La Aigle and Craonne, (midway between Laon and Rheims), and at the center to the north of the Rheims and Châlons."

This is the first admission from the war office since the German turning movement began that the German forces are returning to the attack. It is believed that they have now reached the entrenched positions previously prepared by the sappers, and that another battle will soon be commenced.

Take Many Prisoners
Meanwhile, the allies have taken many prisoners. Entire regiments are reported to have been cut off from the main retreating columns and captured. So swift has been the pursuit of the British-French forces on the left that at some points the pursuing column, rushing along parallel roads, have been able to reach cross roads ahead of the Germans and cut them off and compel their surrender. The total number of prisoners has not yet been reported to headquarters.

Wanted Verdun
The Germans have been endeavoring to smother the Verdun forts, as with that strong point in their main hands, they would control the main line of railway east and west and would be able to greatly relieve the pressure at various points to the west. It is officially stated, however, that the efforts of the crown prince's army are now being forced toward Stenay and Luxembourg.

It is declared here that important developments may be expected from Belgium in the near future.

The Germans are withdrawing all of their forces from the west and the evacuation of Brussels is expected in the near future.

Continued successes are reported from Lorraine, where the French are reported to be advancing on Saareburg.

AN EMPTY STORE ROOM

BY JOHN PHILIP ORTH

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Harold Winters and May Evans were engaged.

There was nothing in this fact to turn out the fire department or to send for an ambulance.

People who figured a little on the matter with pencil and paper discovered that exactly 200,000,000, 950,000,154 couples had been engaged since Adam met Eve in the Garden, and he told her that he sort of loved her, and that if she was half a good cook they would get spiced and go to living on something besides bananas.

Harold Winters was a portrait painter.

May Evans was a sculptor. They both had studios in the same building, and they both boarded with the same landlady.

All this would not have attracted as much attention as a raise in the price of dill pickles but for the fact that they were always in a quarrel. If he criticised her work or she his, folks could understand why there might be a quarrel. But they never criticised in that direction.

Miss May would look at a portrait he had finished and note that the fingers were too long, ears too large, the chin unnatural and the eyes on the blink, but would she advise her true love to go and hunt a job painting an iciclehouse? Certainly not!

And when she modeled a Venus and he stood before it and said to himself that he could do better with a hoe and 100 pounds of dough, did he forget himself and speak aloud? Not by a jugful!

What they quarreled about and what surprised all their friends was a feature of crime—mysterious disappearances. A burglary or murder did not hold their interest a little bit. If a black hander had blown up their studios they wouldn't have wasted a minute wondering what he looked like or what he had to eat next morning for his breakfast. It was when the newspapers announced that So-and-so, man or woman, had mysteriously disappeared under certain circumstances and the police had sent out a general alarm that the artists dropped their work and fished for a theory, and then began to quarrel as to who was right.

It is fair to say that Mr. Winters was right three times where Miss Evans was once. That was because he knew human nature better than she did, though she would never admit it. They would read in the papers that a girl was sent to the store for started out to her work, and had been missing for two days. The earth had swallowed her up. She was not dissatisfied with her home life and had had nothing to depress her. Then Miss Evans would deduce: "Some villain has kidnapped her."

"She has been coaxed into an elopement."

"She went to Concy Island and was drowned while bathing."

"She was killed by an auto."

Sometimes Miss Evans would telephone these pointers to the police and sometimes she would be satisfied with calling them a lot of fools. Then Miss Evans would deduce:

"The girl was kept under restraint at home, and was dissatisfied. She was not allowed to use any of her money for her diversion. The mother lies about it."

"Very likely the girl was advised by other girls to assert her independence."

"She may have been invited to stay at the house of one of them while the two of them ran around together for a good time."

"They will eat peanuts, chew gum and take in the movies."

"In two or three days the missing girl will walk into her home with a defiant air."

Once in awhile the missing girl was found drowned, but it was so rare, and Mr. Winters was right so often, that there was hardly a peaceful day in the week for them.

One day the owner of a new studio building called to ask them to inspect his new apartments with a view to a change. Both were satisfied to remain where they were, but of course, Miss Evans had a curiosity to see the place. Without a word to anyone she set off, and after a street car ride of a mile she reached the place. Of course there was a janitor. He should have been sitting in a chair by the front door and reading a newspaper, but it happened that he wasn't. On the contrary, he was in a saloon around the corner with his foot on the bar railing.

His argument was that man was born before the monkey, and that Darwin be hanged, and after waiting for a couple of minutes Miss Evans passed up stairs. There were four floors and no elevators running.

She went to the top floor at once, and she was immediately interested. She had looked about for a quarter of an hour when she attempted to open a door which she found locked. It was a spring lock, however, and after a moment she had it open. There was a large closet at the rear of the suite, and it had no windows. She was wondering what it was designed for, and she stepped in as she wondered.

"Bang!"

A puff of wind from an open window closed the door on her, and the spring lock did the rest. She pushed and battered and kicked and shouted, but nothing came of it.

It would be a long night and it might be a long day on the morrow. Were there rats? Were those ghosts?

"I deduce that it will be after-

SAY CROWN PRINCE HAS LEFT VERDUN

First Move Toward Lifting the Siege of the City Is Taken by the French

LONDON, Sept. 15.—That the army of Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm comprising the flower of the entire German field forces has been driven northward across the Aisne river, was the significant announcement of the official war bureau at 5:30 this afternoon. It was stated that as a result of the fierceness of the French assault in force, the crown prince had been compelled to move his headquarters from St. Menchould, on the main highway, twenty-three miles southwest of Verdun, to Monfaux, which is fifteen miles northwest of Verdun. Official circles explain that this movement means that the German attack on Verdun must soon be lifted. They say that this movement reported this evening indicates a hasty retreat of the Germans toward the Gap at Stenay, through which the German crown prince's army entered France from Luxemburg.

noon tomorrow before I am released," said the girl as she sat down on the floor. "I called Harold an idiot this morning, and he will deduce from my absence that I have gone home with Flora. Day to stay all night just to bother him. I love Harold, but he does vex me with his deductions."

Although their studios were side by side Mr. Winters and Miss Evans did not always walk home together. On this occasion he saw that she was out when he was ready to go, and he went along by himself. As he did not see her at the house he reasoned that she was in her room, and it was only when she did not appear at the dinner table that she was asked after.

"I saw her on a Vine avenue car two hours ago," said a young man.

"And I saw her walking on Myrtle street about that time," added a young lady.

Mr. Winters wanted to go to the club that evening, but he had hung off until late in the hope of seeing Miss Evans. When she had called him a fool he had replied that her heels were too long, and he felt a bit conscience stricken about it.

At midnight he quit his billiards and made a bedtime for home. No Miss Evans yet.

"Look here, Winters," said a boarder who had just come in, "you deduce things, don't you?"

"Yes, I have done so."

"Then you'd better get to work on this case. Miss Winters is steady as the clock. Something must have happened her this time."

"We—we had a few words today."

"We all know that you are spitting at each other like two cats half the time, but she can hold her own at that. She isn't staying out this late to worry you. Get to deductions, my boy."

And Mr. Winters sat down in his room with pipe in mouth and deduced as follows:

"Now, then, what happened during the day? A little row. Mr. Billard called. Mrs. Davis called. The owner of the new studio called. He wanted us to look them over. We didn't go. Ha! I didn't go, but didn't Miss Evans? The card is at the studio. If she went what could have happened to her?"

Within an hour Mr. Winters was there.

No one knew where the janitor lived or were sure about the owner. He appealed to the police.

"How can she be in the building," they asked.

"The janitor might have carelessly locked her in."

"But wouldn't she raise a window and cry for help?"

At 3 o'clock in the morning the artist led the way up stairs. When he came to the locked door he paused a moment.

"Only an empty store room!" growled the janitor.

Yes, only an empty store room with Miss Evans asleep in a corner!

"Your heels are not too long," said Mr. Winters as she sat up and rubbed her eyes.

"Then you are not a fool," she smiled.

HARTWIG DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Port Washington Man and Son Are Crushed when Auto Turns Turtle; Another Near Death

PORT WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—

Dr. M. H. Hartwig, aged 55, one of the leading physicians here and a resident of the county for many years was killed late Sunday night and his son Earl, sustained a broken collar bone and internal injuries from which it is said, he cannot recover, when the car in which they were driving on the Milwaukee river road, four miles west of here turned turtle and ran into a ditch.

The doctor's head was crushed beneath the machine and death was instantaneous.

Dr. Hartwig was 55 years of age, was born in this county and well known in medical circles throughout the state. He is survived by his widow and three children.

The son Earl, who was driving the car is lying at the point of death at a local hospital.

Automobile Skids

WAUKESHA, Wis., Sept. 15.—Valentine Imig, 49, was instantly killed when his automobile skidded and turned turtle on the Milwaukee road, a mile and a half east of this city, pining him under the wreckage and fracturing his skull.

FOUR DROWN

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., Sept. 15.—Search was being made today for the bodies of Alexander Y. Sharpe, proprietor of the Lake View house, his seven year old daughter, Audrey Marie Sharp, Miss Mary Drown of Provenom, Mich., and Miss May Hickey of Elk Rapids, who were drowned late yesterday at Elk Lake, when their rowboat was capsized by high seas.

An exchange of compliments is equal to trading green goods.

SUFRAGISTS URGE DEMOCRATIC DEFEAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—"Withhold your support from all candidates for re-election to congress whose names appear on the democratic ticket," was the appeal sent today from the congressional union of pro-woman suffrage headquarters. What is termed the "militant" branch of suffrage workers has declared war on the democratic nominees, asserting that the party in power is responsible for failure to enact suffrage legislation.

"A suffrage special" car left here today for Chicago, with leaders to campaign for "the cause" in states where woman suffrage legislation is pending. The women voters in the nine suffrage states will be asked to "knife" the democratic congressional candidates.

DENY INDIANS HAVE GONE

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 15.—The militia department of Canada today officially denied stories appearing in papers of the United States that a large body of East India troops have crossed Canada to the front. They assert that no such movement has taken place.

Jude Johnson is no longer a mediator, but has become a military expert.

An Instantaneous Wrinkle Remover

The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash, which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered soraxite from her nearest drug-gist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day for awhile. The result is charming—marvelous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unsightly traces of time.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Fairy That Lived In a Seashell. And Swam Out Where They Were.

"DADDY, what makes that noise in the seashell?" asked Evelyn one night as she and Jack ran to their daddy. Evelyn with a big conch shell in her hand that she and Jack had found at the seashore.

"That noise?" asked daddy, taking the shell and placing it to his ear. "That must be the voice of the fairy that used to live in it!"

"But, daddy, how can that be her voice if she isn't there?" asked Jack.

"Perhaps—just perhaps—that noise is only the echo," said daddy.

"How did she lose her home?" asked Evelyn.

"I'll tell you about it," said daddy. "You see, this fairy lived at the bottom of the sea in the most beautiful coral grove imaginable. There were many other shells there, each inhabited by other fairies. Of course there was the biggest shell of all, which was the palace of the fairy queen. This fairy was called Fairy Silver Spray, and she was given this beautiful shell of her own to live in because she had done a great service for the fairy queen."

"Fairy Queen Nadille made only one request when she gave this beautiful shiny shell to Fairy Silver Spray, and that was that Fairy Silver Spray should never go away from home without leaving some one there to keep house for her. Queen Nadille didn't explain that if the shell lost its tenant even for a moment the house would float away and never be heard of again."

"Fairy Silver Spray obeyed her queen's directions for ever and ever so long. She kept her home bright and shining, and it grew to look more like a big jewel every day, and every time she went to a ball or a party she would leave a little brown gnome to keep house for her."

"But one day Fairy Silver Spray's curiosity got the better of her. A school of singing fishes was forming just outside her house, and the fairy, hearing the peculiar noises, was wild to hear what was going on."

"But the little brown gnome was away that day. Silver Spray listened and listened to the noise for a long time and then ventured to the edge of the shell."

"Then when she saw the singing fish she clapped her hands and swam out where they were and left her beautiful shell, and when she swam back it was gone."

"Sobbing and crying, she went all around the forest of coral and at last swam to the palace of the queen. The queen was very sorry for Fairy Silver Spray; but, you see, she had no other house to give her, so Fairy Silver Spray had to remain in the queen's palace and do all over again the work that she had to do before she was given the beautiful shell to live in. And the sound you hear in the shell is perhaps—just perhaps—the echo of Fairy Silver Spray's voice crying—always crying—for her lost home."

BETTER THAN CAMPAIGNING

One of the remarkable things about the administration of Woodrow Wilson is the amount of time and hard work he has given to his office. Other men have made trips about the country for this and that very often useful purpose. President Wilson has found, even when he really wanted to go among the people and talk to them of their interest, that their greater interest necessitated him at Washington. He expressed this in a letter to the chairman of the democratic congressional committee who had hoped that Mr. Wilson could make some campaign speeches, saying:

"My job, I now know, can be done best only if I devote my whole thought and attention to it and think of nothing but the duties of the hour. I am not at liberty, and shall not be, so far as I can now see, to turn away from those duties to undertake any kind of political campaign."

Here, then, is a man who has found that the greatest job in the world requires for its faithful and successful performance the same thing that has made other men succeed in other jobs, sticking faithfully to work. It is nothing other than the principle born in the early history of the country of New England conscience and Now England thrift.
It is the rule laid down for the ambitious office boy and acknowledged by the successful captain of industry. It is a common, everyday thing, this matter of sticking to your work. It is something everyone can understand. And we suspect that is one of the reasons why the people have believed so greatly in Woodrow Wilson. They have seen him hard at work, believing that he had been sent to Washington to work and keeping faith with that belief.

It is reassuring to know we have a president of that kind. It is a hopeful thing to find a president setting an example of that kind in the life of today. Whatever great qualities of mind he has, he finds that the only way he can get his work done is by sticking to it. The country won't go far wrong if every man makes that discovery concerning his own task.—Milwaukee Journal.

WE SHOULD BUY
OUR OWN BONDS

One of the things that has worried the big financial powers of the United States since the war began, and which has kept the foreign exchange market as nervous as a cat, has been the fact that New York City has falling due between now and January 1 upwards of $100,000,000 in bonds, practically all of which are held on the other side of the water.

No matter how good these bonds look to the foreign investor in time of peace, the fact that they are due and payable in gold makes any thought of renewing them in the hands of foreign holders impossible.
How shall that $100,000,000 be paid? Even Uncle Sam's big gold reserve would be sadly dented by shipping out any such amount of gold coin and bullion. The withdrawal of such a huge sum would work great hardship to American laboring men, business men, manufacturers and bankers.

Some of the smartest men in the world have worried about this problem a whole lot in the last 30 days, and now the farmer of the west has given the answer.

The average daily wheat shipments from New York for all the ports of Europe are running somewhere around a million and a half bushels—rather more than under that amount—so that each day Europe is owing the farmer of the west the wheat belt from a million and one-half to two million dollars, and pretty soon corn and oats will be ready to start across the pond to the tune of another million dollars a day.

To pay the American farmers for their grain and the American railroads for hauling it, Europe will now have to give bills of exchange which will call for gold or its equivalent. It has been arranged that New York banks will authorize the clearing of these bills of exchange against drafts from Europe on account of the maturing New York City bonds. Before the first of January, the transaction will have been completed. The equilibrium of gold will have been restored and no gold will have moved either way.

Europe will give up its bonds and take bread; the farmers will give up their grain and the railroads will haul it and both will take their pay in checks of big New York banks—
New York exchange, which will go into the channels of finance as so much cash. New York City will still be in debt, but it will refund its matured bonds and turn them over to the banks which have engineered the trade between the European investor and the American farmer.

Thus a factor which has seriously threatened the financial equilibrium of several nations is disposed of. The danger has been very great, and while we have not felt it, it has threatened every citizen of the United States. How much better it would have been had New York's debt, instead of being held by Europe, been held by her own citizens, as the citizens of St. Paul are slowly but surely becoming the holders of their own city debt. Also what a dangerous thing and how full of dynamite is a debt of $100,000,000.—Madison State Journal.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Tooliner

She hadn't any singing voice,
And folks said, if they had their choice,
They'd rather hear a Jersey cow,
And they'd allow
As how
She couldn't act,
It was a fact.
Then tight skirts, they came into style,
She saw her chance a good long mile.
She went and got some classy gowns
And toured around the nearby towns.
Her act went great,
The hand of Fate
Was on her brow because, you see,
She had the finger, hully gee.
The folks all said she was a dear,
A thing sublime—
She got "big time."
She cannot sing,
She cannot dance
By any chance.
She cannot act for cold beans, still
She tops the bill
In vaudeville.

Mother Instinct

At the close of his talk before a Sunday school the bishop invited questions.
A tiny boy, with white, eager face, at once held up his hand.
"Please, sir," said he, "why was Adam never a baby?"
The bishop coughed in doubt as to what answer to give, but a little girl, the eldest of several brothers and sisters, came promptly to his aid.
"Please, sir," she answered smartly, "there was nobody to nuss him."
—Tit-Bits.

Whaddayemean, Interferin'?

The old horse, which interfered badly, and his driver, Sam Winters, had undeniably seen better days. Sam had just finished his day's work of peddling and was driving wearily home through a thickly populated thoroughfare.
"Say, mister," sang out a would-be wit from his post on the corner,
"that there horse of your'n is inter-ferin' to beat the band."
Sam glanced around slowly and in a mild, unconcerned manner questioned: "He ain't interferin' with you is he?"—Lippincott's.

falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness,
pains in both sides,
backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body.
I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good,
and I never expected to get out again.
I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable

me. But now I can work all day, sleep

"One consequence of the fact is the disappearance from English fiction of the American girl caricature.
The American girl in English fiction today is, if anything, overlattered. But in the English fiction of yesterday the American girl was of the type that says:
"Gee, pop, hop inter a biled shirt. Thar goes the hash hammer."

Didn't Look
Some time ago a little girl rambled into a country grocery store and placing an earthen jar on the counter asked for 10 cents' worth of mollasses. Soon the jar was filled, and picking it up the child started for the door.

"Hold on there, youngster," hastily intercepted the grocery man.
"Haven't you forgotten something?"
"No, sir, I guess not," answered the girl, pausing and looking around.
"What is it?"
"The money for that molasses," answered the grocer. "Don't give it away for an advertisement any more."

"I thought you got the money," was the startling rejoinder of the youngster. "Mother put it in the jar."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Bad Acting
Prof. Bradner Matthews, the noted student of the drama, was talking in New York about a bad play.

"The actors were bad," he said. "They were, in fact, so very bad that they remind me of a certain masque."

"One cast aside said to another:
"How did the ball masque come off?"

"Very poor," was the reply.
"You don't say so! And how was Mary Lannigan as the Goddess of Liberty?"

"Rotten!" Didn't she act the part well?"

"No. She got locked up,"—

Identifying Himself
One of the guests at a wedding, seeing a dismal looking young man who appeared to be on terms of familiarity with the principals, asked:
"Are you related to the bride or to the bridegroom-elect?"

"No," was the gloomy reply.
"Then," said the guest, "what interest have you in the ceremony?"

"Well," replied the young man,
"I'm the defeated candidate."—Lad-

As Brick Willock told of Payne's other attempts to colonize the Oklahoma country, of his arrests, of his attempts to bring his various cases to the trial, she felt that Willock was, in a way, dealing with her personal history, for had she not been named Lahoma in honor of that country which her stepfather had seen only to lose? Time and again the colonists swarmed over the border, finding their way through Indian villages and along desolate trails to land that belonged to the public, but was enjoyed only by the great cattleman, as many times, they were driven from their newly-claimed homes by federal troops, not without severity, and their leaders were imprisoned.

But, at last, April the twenty-second, 1889, had been appointed as the day on which the Oklahoma country was to be opened up to settlement, and it was to meet this event that Wilfred Compton had left Greer County. He was a unit in that immense throng that waited impatiently for the hour of noon—a countless host, stretching along the north on the boundary of the Cherokee Strip, on the south, at the edge of the Cherokee Nation, on the east, along the Kickapoo and Pottawatomie reservations; and on the west, blackening the extremity of the Cheyenne and Arapaho countries.

He was one of these who, at the discharge of the carbines of the patroling cavalrymen, joined in the cheering shout raised by men of all conditions and from almost every state in the Union—a shout as of triumph over the fulfillment of a ten-year's dream. And, leaning forward on his pony, he was one of the army of conquest that burst upon the desert, on foot, on horseback, and in vehicles of every description, in the mad rush for homes in a land that had never known the incense of the hearth or the civilizing touch of the plow.

At noon, a wilderness, at night, a land of tents, and on the morrow, a settled country of furrowed fields.
"Pioneer work is awful quick, nowadays!" grumbled Bill Atkins, as Brick concluded. "It wasn't so in my time. Up there in the Oklahoma country, fifty years have been squeezed into a week's time—it's like a magician making a seed grow and sprout and blossom right before the audience. Lucky I came to Greer County, Texas—I don't guess I'll ever be anything but sand and a blow."

"It's a great story," Brick declared, with enthusiasm. "I reckon it's the greatest story that America can put out, in the pioneering line.
There they had everything in twenty-four hours that used to wear out our ancestors: Injuns, unbroken land, no sign of life for hundreds of miles—and just a turn of the hand and cities are coming up out of the ground, and saloons and churches is rubbing shoulders, and there's talk of getting out newspapers. What do you think of it, honey?"

Lahoma was sitting in grave silence, her hands clasped in her lap.
She turned slowly and looked at Willock. "Brick, I'm disappointed."
"Which?" asked Willock, somewhat taken aback. "Where?"
"In him—in Wilfred."
"As how so?"
"Going into that wilderness—life, instead of taking his place in the world!"

"Well, honey, if he hadn't come to this wilderness, you'd never of saw him."
"Yes—but he wasn't settled, and now he's settled in it. Is that the way to be a man? There's all those other people to do the thing he's doing. Then what's the use of him?"

"Ain't we in the same box?"
"Yes, and that's why I mean to get out of it, some day. But it's different with him. He's chosen his box, and gone in, and shut the lid on himself! I'm disappointed in him.
I've been thinking him a real man.
I guess I'm still to see what I'm looking for," added Lahoma, shaking her head.

"We'll let it go at that," muttered Bill; who was anxious to turn Lahoma's mind from thoughts of Wilfred. "We'll just go ahead and look for new prospects."

"Not till I make a remark," said
Willock, laying aside his pipe.

"Honey, do you know what I mean by a vision? It calls for a big vision to take in a big person, and you ain't got it. Maybe it wasn't meant for women, or at least a girl of fifteen to see further than her own foot-prints, so no blame laid and nobody judged, according. If you don't see nothing in that army of settlers going into a raw land and falling to work to make it bloom like the rose, a-setting out to live in solitude for years that in due time the world may be richer by a great territory, why, you ain't got a big vision. I've got it, for I was born in the West, and I've lived all my life, peaceable and calm, right out here or hereabouts. You've got to see towns rise out of the turf over night and bust into cities before the harvest-fields is ripe, to know what can be did when men is free, not hampered by set-and-bound rules as holds 'em down to the ways of their fathers.
Back East, folks is straining themselves to make 'over, and improve, and polish up what they found ready-to-hand—but here out West, we creates. It takes a big vision to see the bigness of the West, and you can't get no true idee by squinting at the subject."
Lahoma did not reply, and Bill feared that under the conviction of her friend's eloquence, she had begun to idealize the efforts of Wilfred Compton he need not have been afraid. To her imagination, "big people" were not living in dugouts, or tents, far from civilization;
"big people" were going to the opera every night, and riding in splendid carriages along imposing boulevards every day. Brick and Bill had contrived to live as well as they desired from profits on skins obtained in the mountains; and the small tract of ground they had cultivated in a des-olatory manner had done little beyond supplying themselves with vegetables and the horses with some extra feed. She had no great opinion of agriculture; and though she had taken part in planting and hoeing with a pleasurable zest, she had never entertained herself with the thought that she was engaged in a great work. As to dugouts, they had no place in her dreams of the future.
Since Wilfred had chosen to handicap himself with the same limitations that bound her, even the thought of him was to be banished from her world, banished absolutely.
Her day-dreams did not cease, but became more dreamy, more natural; since the hero of her fancies, for whom she now had no flesh-and-blood prototype, was suggested only by her moods and her books. As the sun-clear days of maidenhood melted imperceptibly into summer glow and winter spaces, the memory of Wil-fred's face and voice sometimes surprised her at unexpected turns of solitary musings. But the face grew less defined, the voice lost its distinctive tone, as the years passed uninterruptedly by.

SEEK TO PROTECT TREASURES OF ART

Residents of Paris Take Precautionary Measures with Venus de Milo and Other Valuables

PARIS, Ry Mail to New York, Sept. 12.—Unique among the protective and defensive measures which Paris has adopted are those by which the city hopes to save some of her most famous art treasures. The Louvre has been completely done over.

Great steel plates have been fixed about the ceilings and walls of a room which now shelters the famous Venus de Milo, the Winged Victory, and the Gloriosa. Parisians fear only airplane bombs, so the main protection is on the roofs of those buildings which hold art objects. The famous Grecian room, containing priceless statues by Phidias, is filled with sacks of earth.

On the upper floors of the Louvre, a Red Cross station has been established granting the privilege of the Red Cross from attack.

THE SEA WOLF

The Bijou will show the biggest photoplay in its history this week. With the limited seating capacity the management feels they are assuming a large responsibility in presenting the production of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." London's book of the same name is one of the most fascinating works before the public, and the motion picture follower may expect big things in its production in motion pictures.

Jack London in person assisted in the production of the picture. The picture is in seven reels, requiring two hours to run through. Hobart Bosworth, the man who stars in most of London's pictures, takes the role of the "Wolf."

The Bijou's well known blind organist, Walter Goetzinger, has arranged special music for the massive production, which will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

It is being taken back for work in the mountains, where several Mallets are used for pushers.

RIVER VICTIMS HERE PENILESS

John Moran and Family of Seven Stranded in City when They Lose Household Goods in River

Poor Commissioner Sol Burdick is today trying to locate relatives of John Moran, said to live in Boscel, Wis.

Moran, his wife and six small children are penniless in La Crosse, after an accident the fore part of last week in which all their household goods were lost in the Mississippi.

The family told Burdick that they placed everything they had in the world on a flat boat and were making for a point on the lower river from a point above La Crosse.

Moran had injured his right hand and could not labor, and the family took the river as a means of moving their belongings to a place which they intended to make their home.

As the launch towing the flatboat passed underneath the Mississippi wagon bridge here, a wave struck the boat, turned it over and sent the goods to the bottom of the river.

Like so many other English women, Princess Mary, daughter of King George, is doing her share toward helping Great Britain win the present war. She has been very active, not only in the work of the Red Cross, but in the interests of the Prince of Wales war fund. She wanted to join the nurses on the battlefield, but her papa, the King, thought this would be unwise.

The princess is not yet sixteen. She is developing into an exceedingly strong, healthy and vigorous young girl, full of the joy of life. In peace times it was difficult for her to find a vent for her surplus energy. But in these strenuous days of war she manages to keep very busy, and is doing well the things that princesses are supposed to do.

At last he discovered the Wonderful Stomach Remedy. He took a dose just to try it. The results were remarkable. He wrote: "I was in such a bad condition that I had given up hope of ever getting well again. I sent to you for one dose of your remedy and took it the same day you sent it. It has worked wonderfully. I took five more bottles, one each week. I am now a new man again. I thank you a thousand times for the good you did me."

Just such stories are told by thousands who have taken Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. It is known everywhere. The first dose proves.

This remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid secretions and poisonous matter. It brings quick relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

We want all people who have chronic stomach trouble or constipation, no matter of how long standing, to try one dose of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—one "medicinal" dose will convince you. This is the most thorough system cleanser ever sold. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold by leading druggists everywhere.

(BY J. W. T. MASON)
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(11 A. M.)—Yesterday's figure six representing the battle line of the retreating Germans has become narrowed at the bowl and the hook about Verdun is loosening. The stem of the six, which yesterday was drawn very much to the left, is now assuming a more perpendicular position.

If the allies can bend the six into a wholly erect figure, the Germans will be in the position they occupied originally just as the allied lines about Namur and in the Ardennes gave way and the retreat on Paris began.

At La Fere-Laun Line
The Germans apparently are attempting to reorganize their forces, to prevent the straightening of the six on the hills to the northwest of the fortified line of La Fere-Laun-Rhels, now uniquely famous for its danger to a defensive army. The Aisne river at Rethel and the Vouziers is the key to this position, for its guards the roads of retreat to Luxembourg and the Ardennes. If the allies can pierce the line at this point, the German center's communications will be snapped and the center will be thrown in confusion on the already harassed right. The change of the crown prince headquarters to Montfaucon, which is on a line with Rethel and Vouziers, suggests the allies are preparing in this district for their principal attack if the Germans decide to make another stand in France.

Must Use Ardennes
The Ardennes, with its hills, forests and numerous streams, is of the utmost value to the Germans as a safe line of retreat. If the allies can block the retreatment there, nothing except Napoleonic genius can prevent a stupendous German disaster. For this reason, German resistance along the Aisne cannot afford to take chances that were legitimate for the allies in the battle of the Marne. Paris on one side and the frontier fortification line of Epinal-Belfort on the other, were ready as strong pivoting points if the Germans had broken the Marne line. But none such exists for the Germans along the Aisne. Therefore the invaders cannot wait long on indecisive results. If their line goes, and the Ardennes roads are blocked, annihilation becomes imminent. For this reason, the battle of the Aisne, if such a battle there be, probably will not compare with the Marne in duration and intensity.

Russian Policy Wise
The announcement of Gen. Sukhomlinov, Russian war minister, that there will be no change in Russia's chief objective of reaching Berlin as soon as possible, has great importance. It has been pointed out in this column that any effort to prolong operations in Austro-Hungary beyond the strategic requirements of the march to Berlin, would only prolong the war.

There has been evidence that, carried away by the Gallipoli victories and not relishing the quality of German resistance in East Prussia, the Russians have been fascinated by the temptation of comparatively easy marches on Vienna and Budapest. Gen. Sukhomlinov's announcement shows that wiser opinions have prevailed.

ZEPPELINS HELPED IN SIEGE

Says Air Craft Were Great Help During Bombardment with Their Aerial Bombs

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BERLIN, August 30, by Courier to Rotterdam and by Way of Steamer Potsdam to New York, to avoid British Censor.—German troops are being transferred from the west to meet the Russian hordes on the east. I arrived here tonight by train, on which were some of the soldiers and wounded from Liege and Namur. I left The Hague last night and there being no train connection at Benthaim, on the border, I walked into the country where in a little lodging house under the shadow of the 12th century castle of the Prince of Benthaim I found Consul General Lay and Mrs. Lay, who have just been transferred from Rio Janeiro and were enroute to their new post at Berlin. I was able to aid them to get to Liege, where we got through "fast train" from Cologne. It was jammed with soldiers. Only standing room was possible and many of the passengers, including women, sat on the floor.

Eager to Get Back
For a time I stood in front of a compartment occupied by "slightly" wounded officers. One had been shot through the arm, another had his elbow smashed, a third had a shattered ankle and the fourth had his head eye shot out. All had been in the storming of Liege. They were cheerfully declaring that they would soon be able to get back to the front.

At Minden and Osnabrueck, dozens of women were on the platform with coffee and sandwiches for the wounded soldiers. At Hanover many passengers got off and we were able to get a seat. Across from me, were two women. One showed a card from her husband. The one sadly declared that she had not heard from her husband since he left for the front and she feared he was dead.

A private soldier who had served for thirty-five years in the army and who had volunteered and been accepted when war came, asked me whether I knew his brother, in San Francisco. He told me of the fighting around Liege. I told him it had been stated in England and America that some of the forts were still holding out.

Losses 18,000 Men
"We took the last one on August 6," he said quietly. "It was a great slaughter. Our losses were heavy. We lost probably 18,000 men. The effects of the new German 42 centimeter gun and of the Zeppelin which was used were terrible. The world has yet to learn of the fighting power of our Zeppelins. I saw one at work at Liege. It was the dropping of explosives on the forts there that started their downfall."

This soldier had been wounded and cared for in a Belgian hospital. They had few supplies and only crude instruments, but they did everything possible for him. He said he had heard of many atrocities by Belgian peasants on the German wounded, but knew that the better class of Belgians would have nothing to do with any such campaign. At every stop women gathered expecting husbands, etc. Some of the unions were pathetic in the extreme and brought tears to the eyes of all who witnessed them.

"Gute besserung" (Good recovery) was the greeting to each wounded soldier as he left the train and all expressed their intention of returning to the firing line as soon as possible.

SPEARS DEFEATS CHAS. SCHWEIZER

Before an enthusiastic crowd of local billiard fans, George E. Spears, one of the crack billiardists of the world, defeated Charles Schweizer, local champion, at both straight rail and balkline billiards last night at the Lotus billiard hall. Spears scored a high run of 112 for the evening.

Following the match, Spears gave an exhibition of fancy billiards showing brilliant control of the ivory balls. At the same time he lectured on the fine points of the game.

Spears will appear this evening at the Elks' club, where he will give a full evening's entertainment. This will be his last appearance in La Crosse. Play will start at 8:30.

TURKEY WARNED BY ENGLAND DECIDES TO KEEP OUT OF FIGHT

CONSTANTINOPLE, Via Rome, Sept. 15.—Turkey has finally decided to remain neutral and will not support Germany, according to reports current in official circles here today. This action was decided on, following a straight warning from England that if Turkey participated in the war, she would be eliminated forever as an independent nation. The news of Franco-British victories in the recent fighting was also a factor.

It is stated that in return for her neutrality Turkey will demand that the powers recognize her right to abolish the extra-territorial conventions heretofore given to the powers.

REPORT VON KLUCK TAKEN.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Central News says that it is reported in Dieppe that 14,000 members of Gen. Von Kluck's army and the general and his staff have been surrounded and captured in northern France. The war office says that it has no information that would tend to confirm the report in any way and it is not generally credited, although it is admitted that many stragglers from Von Kluck's army have been captured.

GIRL AVIATOR TO FLY AT LOCAL FAIR

Miss Katherine Stinson, one of the few women aviators in the world, has been engaged to give several aerial exhibitions at the La Crosse Interstate fair. THE WAR AT A GLANCE

RUSSIA—Officially announced that the active Russian army will be concentrated on the invasion of Germany with the occupation of Berlin as the chief objective, and that no effort will be made to invade Hungary in force. It is stated the Russians are now assuming the offensive in East Prussia.

FRANCE—The Germans were reported today to be re-forming their lines in an attempt to check the French pursuit, which is admittedly encountering more serious opposition. Another general battle is expected in northern France.

BELGIUM—The Belgian forces under King Albert are again threatening the German lines of communication. It is reported most of the Germans have been withdrawn from Brussels and the complete evacuation of the Belgian capital make take place soon.

ENGLAND—Advices from the continent indicate the British forces are again confronted with the reorganized army of Gen. Von Kluck and another battle is imminent. The German protected cruiser Hela has been sunk by a British submarine.

GERMANY—The war office admits the fighting in France continues and declares the efforts of the French to break through German lines have failed. The Germans are declared to be forcing the Russians back in East Prussia.

AUSTRIA—Every public building in Vienna has been turned into a hospital, but so many wounded are constantly arriving from Galicia that hundreds of private houses have also been requisitioned. The economic situation is serious.

SERBIA AND MONTENEGRO—The operations of the combined armies continue with the Austrians reported retreating.

ZEPPELIN SHIPS NEW WAR TERRORS

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

OSTEND, Belgium, Aug. 29, By Mail to New York.—The new fear is on Ostend. The streets are pitch dark, although it is early evening. Throughout the night there is the blink, blink, of signal lights and the tramp, tramp, tramp of soldiers' feet.

Stand out in the middle of the street. Look up at the stars in the blue, soft night sky and you'll understand what this new fear is. Stand out there with the hundreds of men, women and children, and watch the night sky with them, and suddenly it will come to you like an awful shock—the Zeppelin ship. It's the newest human worry, the latest mode in terrors; the twentieth century blood fear. And it is, as George Connaughton might say, "Some worry." I felt it first at nine o'clock this evening when our boat from England drew up at the magnificent Ostend quay, in total darkness. Men with lanterns lighted the way of passengers and porters.

All Lights Out

"We don't want anybody in the sky to see our lights," a marine explained. A whole city trying to hide itself from something that might be fitting about up among the stars! The impossibility of a city doing such a thing struck me immediately. "The Zeppelins have been throwing bombs on Antwerp, sixty miles from here," continued the marine, "and sixty miles is only a little over an hour's run for a Zeppelin."

I looked up at the stars. Was everyone of them shining? Or were some of them hidden by the black bulk of one of the great Mauretians of the air? Not a hulk did I see, and I shook off my first touch, my baptism, of the Zeppelin shudders.

Fear Fills All

A three block ride through the dark streets started it again. The houses were all dark, by military orders. But the Ostenders had not gone to bed; they were all, it seemed, in the streets, looking upward. I looked up also and the Zeppelin chill hit me again. I suppose millions of credulous people looked at the great comet four years ago with something of the same feeling. But this feeling is stronger. We aren't all so sure that there are comets that might hit us and bring the world to an end, but we do know in Ostend that there are Zeppelins and that they drop bombs which may bring our own particular world to an end in one second.

Later I went about the dark streets of this once gayest shore resort in Europe. The palatial hotels were dead dark. Passing a cafe in the main street I heard strange subdued sounds and suddenly discovered it was the massed whispering in the darkness of scores of men and women seated in the little sidewalk tables under the cafe canopies. Waiters were feeling their way about, serving drinks as best they could under the strange circumstances. I took a seat amid the whispering company.

Dirigibles Powerless

"The English have brought a dirigible here to fight the Zeppelins," whispered one voice, nearby. "Yes," returned another whisper, "but the Zeppelins have gun-decks on top of the gas bag and carry two great rifles. What chance does an English balloon stand against one of Zeppelin's fighters, fitted like a battleship?"

While all this whispering was going on, I suddenly recalled how had watched Zeppelin in his every move of conquering the air. But after all, what has he done but add a new horror to warfare, a new chill for humanity?

Little children and mothers will say their prayers in Ostend tonight and then be awake for it's hard to believe that even the good God can save you from bombs that drop from the sky. Ostend lies tonight, helpless. Even the great guns of great English battleships in the harbor cannot insure Ostend against Zeppelin.

Viva, Zeppelin! Inventor of a new fear!

Every Public Building and School in Use as Hospital with Doctors Few

VIENNA, Via Rome, Sept. 15.—The authorities are adopting the sternest measures to suppress rioting by the unemployed. The problem of caring for the refugees is a desperate one. They have added to the ranks of the out-of-works to such an extent that the officials are alarmed and are diverting many of the men to work on the earthworks that are being constructed to defend the city. The police have been ordered to prevent street parades of the unemployed. Several mass meetings have been held at which violent speeches were made. Depots are to be opened in the market places where food will be furnished to those applying.

Can't Care for Wounded
Meanwhile the train loads of wounded continue to roll into the city. It is impossible properly to care for them. The army surgeons are all at the front and the volunteers have not had the experience necessary. Every city hospital and public building, even the schoolhouses, are filled and thousands are in private homes. The last classes of the landstrum have been called to the colors, but there are no uniforms or equipment for them and they will be held at the concentration camps until uniforms and rifles can be procured from the outlying fortresses.

Situation Better
Although no effort is being made to disguise the fact that the Austrian army suffered an overwhelming defeat in the earlier fighting in Galicia, it is now stated at the headquarters of the general staff that the situation is improving. The Austrians are under the protection of the San river defenses and are expected to hold their positions there indefinitely.

One of the serious problems confronting the commanders at the front is the fact that the Russian artillery is far superior to the Austrian. It has a much longer range. This condition will change when the Austrians begin fighting under the protection of their fortifications which are all supplied with the latest Krupp guns.

The economic situation is most serious. Food prices are constantly advancing and the supply of fresh meats is dwindling alarmingly.

Dnestro to the Russian Poland frontier, have reached the west bank of the San river, and are re-forming. They will endeavor to hold the great fortress of Przemyśl and the railway line extending northward to Jaroslav. Przemyśl is a first class fortification filled with supplies of all kinds.

Capture Sixth of Austrian Guns. It is estimated by the officers of the general staff that Russia has already captured one-sixth of the active Austrian artillery. The latest captures were 309 cannons and 4,000 men at Rawa Ruska with a mass of war materials.

AGED MAN DIES AT STODDARD

William D. Stillwell, Pioneer of Stoddard, Dies at His Home at Age of Eighty-four

William D. Stillwell, retired farmer, and one of the early settlers of Stoddard, Wis., died at his home there yesterday morning. Old age resulted in death. Mr. Stillwell was in his eighty-fourth year. He was the father of Mrs. John Robinson, 1024 South Fourth street, of this city.

For fifty years Mr. Stillwell had been a resident of Stoddard and Vernon county. He was born in the east and came to Wisconsin when this country was a frontier. Six daughters and two sons survive. They are: Mrs. James E. Burroughs, Mrs. John Pulver, Mrs. George Robinson, Miss Prinita Stillwell and J. H. Stillwell, Stoddard, and Mrs. William Pulver, Victory, Wis., and Mrs. John Robinson of La Crosse.

Funeral services will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Stoddard home. Interment will take place there. Rev. Schrover, Bos-cobel, Wis., will officiate.

HOPES FOR MEDIATION

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Victor C. Berger of Milwaukee, one of the signers of a cablegram sent to ren European socialist leaders, urging them to work for the early acceptance of President Wilson's offer of mediation, today declared he had hopes for the success of the international socialist movement for peace.

"This is the psychological moment for mediation," said the former socialist congressman. "Each government claims its army has been victorious."

The war chest of the Red Cross is now $117,036.

GERMAN SCOUT SHIP HELA IS DESTROYED BY SUBMARINE BOAT

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The small protected cruiser Hela, used as a patrol scout by the German naval authorities, has paid for the British patrol cruiser Pathfinder. Like the latter the Hela was the victim of a submarine. While the location of the sinking is not admitted, it is understood that it was off Helgoland and that the Hela sunk within ten minutes. Unlike the Pathfinder, however, the majority of the Hela's crew were saved. It is stated that the British submarine escaped.

The Hela was a light protected cruiser built in 1895 and rebuilt in 1910. She was 328 feet long, 36 feet beam, had a displacement of 2,040 tons and carried a crew of 178 men.

THE BIGGEST LITTLE THING IN THE 1914 AUTO YEAR

A TWO-FOLD AUTO BOON

Within a week the "H. J. H." Starter will be on the market. This fact is interesting not more than because in justifying the aim of the inventor it establishes that which many "doubting Thomases" have questioned—the sanity of Dr. H. J. Hansen.

The starter is being assembled by the Bump Paper Fastener company, which also makes all the valves and more delicate portions of the mechanism, and the finished product is described as practically indestructible because of the excellent workmanship.

The "H. J. H. Starter" has a two-fold mission—as a primer and starter for cars having no self-starter, and as a primer for cars having self-starters.

The philosophy of Dr. Hansen's invention is simple: it is the ultimate answer to the cranking nuisance.

Cranking is merely a method of pumping gasoline and air, mixed in proper proportion, into the cylinders from the carburetor. Always an annoying task, in cold weather cranking becomes a real hardship because in low temperatures the gasoline can not be readily sucked into the manifold.

The Hansen patent does away entirely with pumping, for by turning a valve the driver places a perfect mixture, under correct compression, exactly where it is needed at the head of the cylinders.

Cars that rely upon the Hansen apparatus as a self-starter have to contend with the rare contingency of the engine having stopped on dead center, so a contact cannot be secured. Engines in perfect condition seldom do so. But even in the unusual instances in which the engine stops on dead center, there is no cranking. The crank is then merely used to "turn her over" about a quarter of a revolution, when the button does the rest.

As a Primer

The importance of the apparatus to cars already equipped with self-starters arises from the fact that the self-starters, used alone, have to pump a mixture into the cylinders. Especially in cold weather this is trying on the engine, as many revolutions are likely to be necessary in order to get the right compression. This necessitates great strain on the

CATTLE VICTIMS OF PECULIAR DISEASE

Minnesota State Veterinarian Investigating Weird Malady Killing Minnesota Cows

GERM IN SOIL IS RESPONSIBLE

Form of Bloodpoisoning Is Result of Infection; Official Confers with Local Expert

Dr. D. Palmer, field veterinarian for the Minnesota state livestock sanitary board at St. Paul, is investigating the spread of a peculiar disease which has broken out among cattle on the John Meiner farm near Hokah, Minn.

But a few cases of the disease have been reported to have occurred in the past and these are far between. Dr. Palmer claims it is a form of blood poisoning originating from a germ in the soil. Eight cattle on the Meiner farm have died, and the disease is spreading to other farms.

Dr. Palmer conferred with Dr. B. F. Holmes, veterinary surgeon here yesterday. Dr. Palmer is endeavoring to find a means whereby the malady may be permanently stopped and he is preventing its spread.

HAY FEVER

Weeks after the close of a past hay fever season I met a victim and his wife in the northern woods. The man was one of the most superb hunters I ever saw. His real occupation was that of a merchant in a southern Wisconsin city.

The wife told me that for years her husband had been obliged to leave his business in the late summer for a sojourn in the woods to secure relief from his hay fever. She explained, with a smile, that that year they had to postpone their trip until after the regular season on account of his business being so heavy that it could not be left.

And that indicates one very important phase of hay fever. It has been facetiously remarked that hay fever only attacks those whose business and means permit the luxury. While it is true that there is a big nervous element in hay fever, nevertheless the peculiar disorder isn't all nerves nor all imagination.

The lining membrane of the nose is peculiarly sensitive in hay fever victims. Sometimes this sensitiveness is due to some growth or other unnatural condition. In cases of this nature, successful treatment of these disorders removes the tendency to hay fever.

On top of the peculiar neurosis and the sensitive membrane, which may also be a nervous hypersensitiveness, there is some irritant—commonly the pollen of some flowering plant. The irritant isn't necessarily confined to such sources, however. In the case of one eminent sufferer, cited by Osler, "a certain sort of feather pillow" acted as the excitant. In another of my own acquaintances, a flax seed poultice would invariably bring on a typical seizure.

Hay fever is too common to call for any description here of its symptoms. While a large amount of clinical and laboratory research is being carried on to determine a possibly more specific cause and a "sure enough remedy," nothing new has been established. A single mail delivery brought two inquiries for "some new relief measure." A suggestion of danger lies in these and the thousands of similar queries that are being made at this season.

It is a well known fact amongst

IF BACK HURTS BEGINN ON SALTS

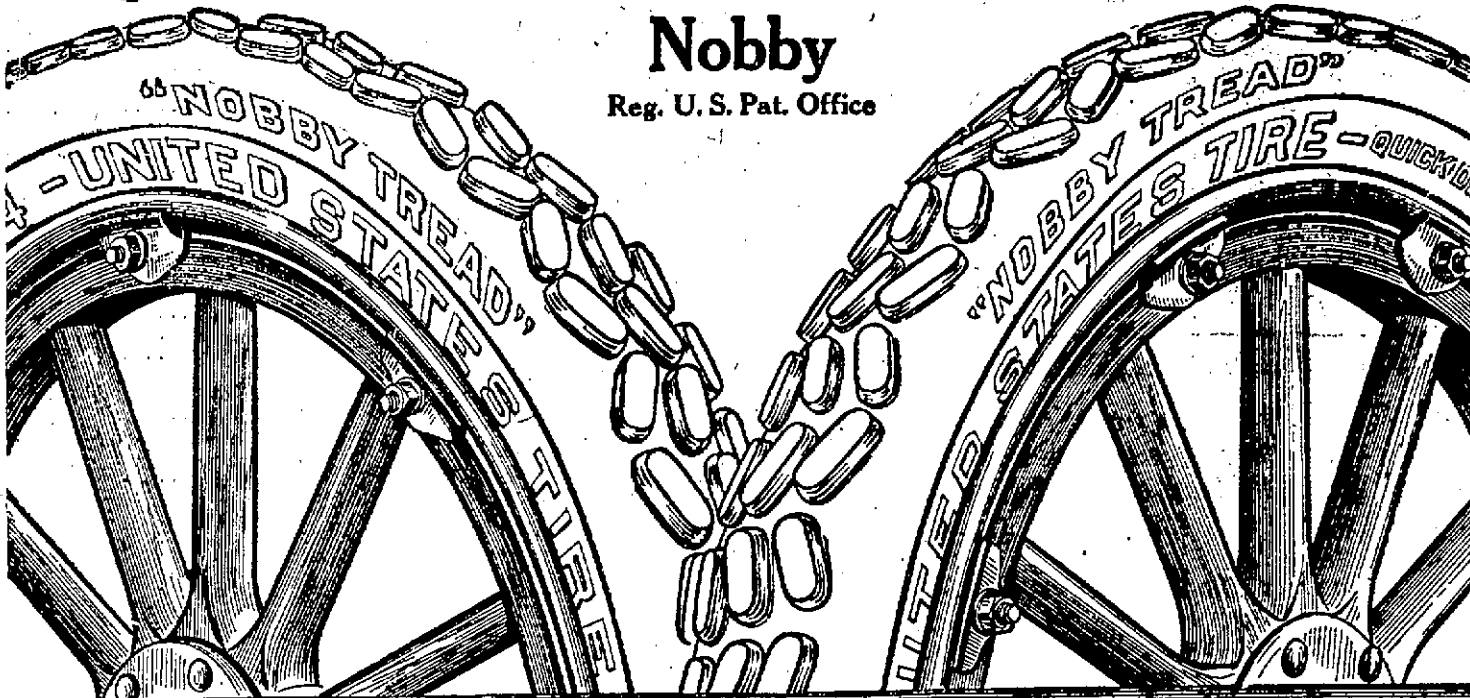

Flush your Kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

LA CRESCENT MEN WIN APPLE PRIZES

Fruit Grown Across River Takes First Money at Minnesota State Fair

It was found that La Crescent, Minn., grown apples are the best in the state when D. C. Webster and Henry Vollenweider, La Crescent fruit growers, won first and second prizes for their particular species of apples from all growers in Minnesota.

Webster took first prize on the "Greening," which is a favorite apple in Minnesota, and Vollenweider took second prize on his "Wealthy" apple, probably the most widely grown in Minnesota.

U. S. GETS WOMEN HOME

LONDON, Sept. 15.—In the house of commons this afternoon, Premier Asquith, announced that the British government had been able to arrange through the diplomatic service of the United States to facilitate the departure of the English women and children from Germany. He stated that permission for any Englishmen to leave had been refused, they being held as prisoners of war.

A Human Churn

WHEN the food reaches the stomach it is subjected to a peculiar churning movement by the muscular walls of the stomach. (See Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, page 46). In the liver, kidneys and skin, the blood is purified of its waste materials—these organs act as human filters, leaving the blood pure and clear—unless liver, digestive tract and kidneys are clogged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

is a stomach, liver and kidney tonic—by assisting the stomach to assimilate, the liver to filter, the kidneys to act—the poisons are removed, the red blood corpuscles are increased and one feels light, fresh and active instead of lousy, dull and heavy. The "Discovery" stimulates the stomach, increases action of heart and arteries and is a most satisfactory alternative in blood-taint of any character. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over forty years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

Sold by all medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form; or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., and a trial box will be mailed you.

THE JUSTICE OF THE PEACE AGREES WITH THE GOOD JUDGE

MAN, you are not alone in your desire for a clean, small chew that will give you tobacco satisfaction!

That's why men are glad to find "Right-Cut."

Then when they've got it, the natural thing to do is to tell a friend—so he can get the Real Tobacco Chew. Pure, rich tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the size of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, a fine and sharp shred so that you won't have to grind it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—With the end of the pennant race, but three weeks away the clan of McGraw grows weaker daily in both attack and defense. And meanwhile, the Braves gallop along at the same mad pace that has landed them in first place after being at the bottom on July 1.

Doolin's Phillies handed the Giants a crushing setback yesterday when, after giving them the first game of a double bill, they fell on the mighty Mathewson and drove him from the box in three innings. A victory by Matty would have brought the Giants to within one and one-half games of the Braves.

O'Toole finished the game for Matty and he, too, was ineffective, three more runs being scored off him. To Tesreau goes the credit for winning the first game but it should be awarded to Eddie Burns and Magoo, of the Phillies. They each contributed a wild throw that resulted in a Giant run and as McGraw's men won by the count of one, their efforts decided the affair—against them.

Dick Rudolph had to beat two clubs to score a victory for the Braves—the Dodgers and his teammates. "Rabbit" Maranville, White, snubbing for Johnny Evers, and "Red" Smith seemed determined to hand Brooklyn the game, but Rudolph wouldn't have it so. They kicked in with seven errors and still Boston won.

The Red Sox led their Giants' trick—slipped up when they had an excellent chance to gain on the Athletics. They could only break even with the Senators while the Mackmen were beating the Yankees and the Red Sox dropped a half game in the standing.

Hank O'Day's crew wound up their session at home by drubbing the Pirates. Their victory pulls them up to within a half a game of the Cardinals and 5 1-2 games of the leaders.

ATHLETIC CLUB
ELECTS HEADS

Zeisler Chosen Head of Association; Football Prospects Are Growing Brighter

The Boys' Athletic association of the La Crosse high school held their first meeting of the semester last week and elected the following officers: President, Fred Zeisler; vice president, John Fay; secretary, John Robinson. The athletic council elected consists of the following members: Zeisler, Reget, Garder and Bruha (student members), and Puckett, Gouldin, Horne and McCormick (faculty).

The athletic council then called a meeting and elected Layton Gouldin faculty manager of high school athletics, and Roswell Puckett, treasurer for the ensuing season.

The next duty of the council will be to appoint student managers for track and basketball. Henry Kienans was to have been basketball manager but he failed to return to school this fall.

The high school football squad had their first signal practice of the season last evening. The signal system to be used this season was explained and some of the plays explained. Heretofore there have been no scrimmages or practice of any kind needing signals, but beginning with the end of this week the team will have scrimmages daily against the second. The men have been thoroughly drilled during the last week in tackling, falling on the ball, and giving interference.

The material is showing up very well and the coach expects to be able to build up a strong machine.

"SAFETY FIRST"
CAR COMING

The Safety First campaign being waged by the Safety First society of New York, of which society Ogden L. Mills is president, received additional impetus last Thursday (Sept. 10) when the "Safety First car" started from New York on its tour through eastern and middle western states, in charge of General Secretary Frederick H. Elliott. Mr. Elliott carries with him letters of greeting from Mayor John Purroy Mitchell of Greater New York to mayors of other cities which the car will visit; also letters from President of the Borough of Manhattan Marcus M. Marks, Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo and others, all of whom are giving their hearty endorsement to the work of the society. This car is equipped with modern safety devices and accessories which tend to make motoring safer. The car will visit La Crosse in the near future.

CLOTHIERS MEET
NELSONS SUNDAY

A game of more than ordinary interest will be that Sunday at League park between the Nelsons and the Clothiers. The Clothiers early in the year defeated the Nelsons by the close score of three to two and the North siders are anxious to wipe out the beating. Squiers, the sticky right-winger, will throw for the Nelsons, while either Copsey or Krause will take the mound for the Clothiers.

Amounts to the Same Thing. In the country a man inclined to leisure is supposed to whittle a pine stick. In town he kills time by putting needle points on a lot of lead pencils.

DRAFTING TO BE IN SECRET

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 15.—Chairman Gerry Herrmann of the National baseball commission yesterday announced that for the first time in the history of organized baseball there would be no public drafting of minor league players this year. Herrmann said that the draft would be made in a "new way," but did not indicate in what manner. This announcement partially confirms the recent report from Chicago that to foil the Federal League raiders, the older leagues had arranged a secret draft this year and that names of drafted players would not be made public until they were signed.

MAINE DEMOCRAT
WINS BY A HAIR

Moosers Support Republican for Governor but Can't Down Democrats

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—In one of the closest elections the state has ever known, the democrats yesterday elected Oakley C. Curtis governor. A number of voters who supported Roosevelt in the 1912 election, flocked to the polls to back the republican ticket, but their number was not enough to down the democrats.

Owing to the exceedingly closeness of the vote, no one could be at all confident of the result until the last ballot had been counted. The returns from all the cities, towns and plantations today, however, gave Curtis, democrat 53,877; William T. Haines, republican, 56,176, and Gardner, progressive, 17,147. The four congressmen, Asher C. Hinds, John A. Peters and Frank E. Guernsey, republicans, and Daniel J. McGilleuddy, democrat, were re-elected.

List of Young Men and Women Who Would Work Way Through School Is Large

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 15.—A variety of occupations, including nearly all vocations from street railway conductor to photographer, are listed in the bulletin issued today by the university as positions which students are willing to fill while attending the institution. It was recently estimated that twenty-five per cent of the students pay their way through the university by working for citizens of Madison. The alumni association, today, issued a bulletin, which is sent to every businessman in the city listing the different occupations, which the students are ready to fill.

According to the bulletin there is an unusual supply of boys who desire to act as waiters for their board and those who wish to tend furnaces for their room. In the past there have been but few girls working their way through the institution. Perhaps this year the domestic servant problem may be solved this way. This year the bulletin says:

"If you are in need of a maid, an attendant for children, or a companion, the bureau will be pleased to submit for your consideration the applications of several intelligent and refined young women who have had experience along such lines."

FRANK CHANCE THROUGH

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—It is generally conceded today that Frank Chance is through as manager of the New York American league club. The only question left to be settled, it is believed, whether Chance will finish out the season or leave at once. Some sort of a compromise is expected between President Farrell and Chance, whereby the "Peerless Leader" will receive his salary for the last month and be free to start for California.

U. S. COTTON REPORTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The census bureau monthly report issued today show that cotton, exclusive of linters, consumed during August totaled 334,205 running bales, as compared with 432,550 bales in 1913. Held in manufacturing establishments August 31, were 667,498 bales against 717,764 in 1913, and in independent warehouses 546,857 bales against 467,902 last year. Cotton spindles active during August numbered 30,849,902 against 30,602,282 in August, 1913.

Migraine or Sick Headache

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two Anti-kamnia Tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one Anti-kamnia Tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet. Anti-kamnia Tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all Pain.
